MASARYK'S DEATH CAUSES STORM

Airliner Crashes, At Least 13 Dead

Plane Plunges In Spectacular Burst Of Flame

Chicago Takeoff Ends In Tragedy

CHICAGO, March 10 (AP) — At least 13 persons were killed tonight when a Delta Airlines DC-4 plane bound for Miami, Fla., crashed and burned fiercely just outside Chicago's municipal airport.

The estimate of the number killed was made by Deputy Fire Marshal Otto Dahl. Firemen continued trying to put out the fire and remove any bodies inside the wreckage an hour after it plunged in a spectacular, orange-colored burst of flame.

It was uncertain immediately how many were aboard the huge craft because of conflicting early reports. Its capacity was 44 passengers. The airlines first said 30 were aboard but later said 13 were on the plane.

Witnesses said the plane hurtled down in a vertical dive shortly after taking off. Then it smashed into a prairie just northeast of the field on Chicago's southwest side. It mushroomed into a great orange flare, splattering wreckage across a wide area and setting the prairie afire.

A woman pulled out of the burning plane hysterically screamed a plea for rescue of her children.

Holy Cross Hospital reported seven dead had been counted there and one woman was living.

The woman kept calling for her nine-year-old son, apparently a passenger on the plane, but this could not be confirmed.

The only two identified dead at the hospital were listed as Harold L. Levy and his brother Sam Levy. No addresses were given.

Hospital attaches said most bodies were burned beyond recognition and identification was extremely difficult.

Eyewitnesses said the plane crashed at 10:58 p. m. (CST).

The airline said it was Flight 705, scheduled to take off at 10:45 p. m. for Miami and arrive in Miami, Fla., at 6:36 a. m. (CST) after stops at Cincinnati and Jacksonville, Fla.

Bodies and wreckage were scattered over a large area. The plane continued to burn an hour after it fell.

A. J. Prentiss and Jim Gerrits, Eastern Airlines employes, were among the first to reach the wreckage.

They pulled out one woman who was seriously injured but conscious. Prentiss said she kept screaming hysterically:

"Help me, boys. My children, my children."

They also pulled out a man who was still moaning.

Prentiss said he "presumed" all others trapped in the plane perished.

Seven Reported Missing In N. C. Hospital Blaze

ASHEVILLE, N. C., March 11 (Thursday) (AP)—Seven patients were reported missing after flames engulfed the central building of the Highland Hospital for Nervous Diseases here today.

Dr. B. T. Bennett, medical director of the hospital, reported the seven patients unaccounted for after a preliminary checkup of 29 patients who were in the building.

Several patients were burned and were given emergency treatment.

The flames were discovered shortly after midnight and quickly spread over the two-story structure.

Whisperings Heard In Cumberland's Campaign

Since the city primary election ten days ago, little if anything has been said publicly by candidates for mayor and city commissioners. For a time their silence was accepted as being merely a breathing spell from the campaign's first skirmish before again taking to the "political stump."

It should be recalled that Roy W. Eves, who seeks election as mayor, had outlined in his platform, during the primaries, an ambitious course of action in the event he were elected, but in the absence of a platform by his opponent he has seen no reason to repeat it. But, Mr Post has, up to the time this was written, adopted a say-nothing, do-nothing course. He has displayed no more of an aggressive attitude during this campaign than marked his four years as mayor. The lack of this, it must be said, has kept Cumberland at a virtual standstill and as a result the city is today faced with the threat of the loss of its position as the second city in Maryland.

But Mayor Post's silence has been supplanted with a whispering campaign, which is being carried on by his political aides. It is being whispered that if Mr. Eves is elected mayor the city can expect little from him, that he will give mere lip-service to the things he advocates and pledges to do, such as a sincere enforcement of the smoke control ordinance, that he will not interest himself to any great degree in our traffic problem which, to solve, will require either a cross-town viaduct or underpasses being constructed. These whispers are also to the effect that he will give little, if any, attention to the daily annoyance of railroad crossing blocking, and that he will clamp down on this, or close that.

To be sure, this type of propaganda is being spread in the hope of taking votes from Mr. Eves, and thereby deny to the citizens of Cumberland the services of a man we have no hesitancy in endorsing as one who will give us not only good government, but who will provide the type of leadership that will be required during the next two years. Other than these things set out in his platform, Mr. Eves can take up his duties as mayor without having made any commitments to anyone except that he has promised to give Cumberland an aggressive administration.

The support accorded Mr. Eves's candidacy in the primary was a clear demonstration by the voters that they have grown weary of continued inactivity in city affairs. They realize that unless greater efforts are put forth the city's welfare will continue to suffer. They believe a change should be made and intend to bring it about.

Mr. Eves, we would like to point out, aspires to the mayorship well equipped for the tasks which will confront him. He has worked all his life with people and has demonstrated his executive qualities, not only in connection with his everyday activities but in organizations with which he is associated.

There is one thing of which we can all feel certain—when he undertakes to perform a task, he means to perform it. That is the reason for much of his success during his life. And what he has been able to do for himself, he can do for Cumberland.

CIO THREATENS PURGE OF OFFICERS WHO BACK HENRY WALLACE PARTY

WASHINGTON, March 10—(AP)—The CIO today pulled off its gloves for a bare-knuckle decision with Henry Wallace supporters in its own ranks.

It threatened to purge all state and local officers who refuse to comply with national CIO policy. That policy is: Support the Marshall plan; oppose a third party in the presidential race.

John Brophy, director of industrial union councils, wrote all state and local councils that they must comply with national policy or be in violation of the labor group's rules.

Violation may be followed by ouster.

Commenting on the letter, Brophy said "the CIO in no way is seeking to dictate the voting choice of its individual members, who are of course free to support any candidate they choose."

Two Men Report Finding Uranium In Wyoming

DENVER, March 10 (AP) — The existence of open deposits of uranium which may add greatly to the nation's store of atom bomb material was reported today by two Denver men.

The pea-sized yellow pellets are found in dry creek beds in the Red Desert northwest of Rawlins in Southrn Wyoming. The men said a specimen assayed as high as 30 per cent pure uranium. The ore can be mined with a bulldozer or a steam shovel.

Forrestal Calls Huddle To Banish Military "Feuds"

Chiefs Are Ordered To Agree On Duties

WASHINGTON, March 10 (AP)—United States military commanders got this order today: Agree on the division of duties between the Army, Navy and Air Force in the event of war.

Secretary of Defense Forrestal gave the order. He told a news conference "I'm going to spend the weekend" threshing out the question with the joint chiefs of staff.

Those land, air and sea chieftains are:

Gen. Omar Bradley, Army chief of staff; Gen. Carl Spaatz, Air Force chief of staff; Adm. Louis E. Denfeld, chief of naval operations; Fleet Adm. William D. Leahy, chief of staff to the President.

Meet Outside Capittal

The meeting will be somewhere outside Washington, to permit uninterrupted discussions. And the civilian secretaries of the three services probably won't be invited.

What Forrestal wants decided now is which service will do what in a war.

He is under pressure by Congress to come up with a general strategic plan which would assign to each of the three services their part in a war. Involved are such old arguments as those between the Air Force and the Navy over bombing operations.

Forrestal told newsmen he wants the joint chiefs to submit a list of the points in which they are in disagreement and then "come to an accomodation of views."

And if they don't?

"I'll have to make my own decisions," he said.

Arguments among the joint chiefs of staffs are as old as the agency, created early in 1942.

During the war the wrangling assumed serious proportions and reportedly caused stalemates lasting for months.

Throughout the war, the commanders of the Army, Navy and Air Force argued over the allocation of manpower and materials. At one time, the Army was said to have charged that the Navy was delaying the invasion of Europe by insisting on using large quantities of steel to build combat ships instead of landing craft.

Harriman Assails House Group For Condon Action

WASHINGTON, March 10 (AP) — Secretary of Commerce W. Averell Harriman tonight accused a House Un-American Activities Subcommittee of un-American action.

In a formal statement dealing with the subcommittee's investigation of Dr. Edward U. Condon, director of the Bureau of Standards, Harriman said:

"The subcommittee's action is, in my opinion, un-American.

"It summoned members of my staff to secret sessions. It has published their interpretation of their testimony. The press and public were excluded and could not form an independent opinion. From my knowledge of the situation, I can say that the subcommittee's action is misleading.

"It is interesting to note that the subcommittee now appears not to dissent from the Commerce Department Loyalty Board's finding that Dr. Condon is a loyal American. There was complete agreement on this finding by members of the Loyalty Board before (Harriman underscored 'before') issuance of the subcommittee report of March 1."

The Commerce Secretary referred to a report which charged that Condon had associated with alleged Soviet spies. The report called him "one of the weakest links" in the nation's atomic security.

The Harriman statement was issued a few hours after a government official reported that a general directive is being prepared instructing all executive departments to decline to release confidential loyalty files to congressional committees.

Czech Government Announces Minister Committed Suicide

MARSHALL SAYS WORLD IN VERY SERIOUS STATE

"Reign Of Terror" In Czechoslovakia

WASHINGTON, March 10 (AP)—Secretary of State Marshall declared today that the world situation is "very, very serious."

He made plain at a news conference that he was referring both to Communist expansion in Europe, including Czechoslovakia, and to what he called a "considerable passion" aroused in this country by European developments.

Marshall gave his estimate of European conditions and American reactions at a news conference.

Authorizing direct quotation, he cited the death of Foreign Minister Jan Masaryk in Czechoslovakia as evidence that the Communist rule of that country is "a reign of terror."

Marshall said he did not know whether Masaryk had committed suicide, as the Czech official version reported.

(Other American officials considered it possible that Masaryk may have been murdered. Rep. Stefan (R-Neb) said as much in the House.)

"Assessment Of Situation"

Marshall's summary of the world situation carried a virtual appeal to the American people to remain cool-headed and allow their government to pursue what Marshall himself would regard as a coldly calculated course of action.

He spoke out only after he had been asked to give his "assessment of the situation" which, he was told, includes widely-felt fears—ranging from the possibility that Italy might fall to the Communists in the April 18 elections to talk of war.

Marshall replied:

"I think you correctly described the situation in your question—that there are great fears as to the developments.

"There are also very strong feelings regarding these developments and a considerable passion of view on the part of a great many in this country.

"The situation is very, very serious. It is regrettable that passions are aroused to the degree which has occurred.

"It is tragic to have things happen such as just occurred in Czechoslovakia, particularly what has happened to some of the officials, as in the affair today of the death of Jan Masaryk, all of which indicates very plainly what is going on.

"It is a reign of terror in Czechoslovakia and not an ordinary due process of government by the people."

Cold Reason, Not "Passion"

Authoritative sources said that in referring to "passion" Marshall had in mind a passionate desire on the part of many people to do something very quickly—and not necessarily something that cold reason would approve.

Marshall is reported concerned over various public statements in the past few days about Selective Service plans. He is fearful, it is said, that the public may be led to think the government has some secret mobilization plans. And these sources say there are no such plans.

The aim of policy decisions within President Truman's Cabinet is reported to be, in the words of one official, to keep things on an even keel.

Marshall's own policy, as previously expressed to Congress, covers two main points—to get the European recovery program through Congress by April 1, and to get a universal military training bill adopted.

Plunges To His Death From Palace Window

PRAGUE, March 10 (AP) — Jan Masaryk, Foreign Minister of Czechoslovakia, plunged to his death today after staying two weeks in his country's new Communist-controlled Cabinet.

An official government announcement said he committed suicide.

The 61-year-old diplomat was the son of a Brooklyn-born mother and a Bohemian father who became Czechoslovakia's first President. He jumped more than 50 feet to his death on the stone flagging of a court yard in Czernin Palace, said an announcement from the government which seized power two weeks ago today.

Communist Minister of the Interior Vaclav Nosek told Parliament that Masaryk had ended his life after a night of brooding over "tedentious malicious letters and telegrams from his former friends in Great Britain and America assailing him for his manly stand" in remaining in the Communist-led government.

(Prime Minister Attlee said in London Masaryk may have taken his life because "he could not endure to live in the suffocating atmosphere of totalitarianism."

"Murder," Says Consul

(n Sydney, Australia, Czech Consul K. Tokoly said Masaryk's death "is not suicide. It is plain murder." Tokoly said he was resigning his post.)

Government sources gave this account of Masaryk's death:

He apparently stepped up on a low couch that stood under the window of his bathroom and hurled himself out of the window. He occupied a small apartment in the palace that houses the Foreign Affairs Ministry.

A guard on duty found him lying crumpled on the stones. He summoned a medical student on duty at a first aid station in the ministry.

The student pronounced him dead shortly before 7 a. m. His head was uninjured.

No official cause of death was given. A post mortem will be held.

A state funeral was announced for Saturday afternoon, with Communist Premier Klement Gottwald speaking at the pantheon of the Prague Museum in Prague's Central Square. The body will be taken to Lany, to be interred in the family plot beside that of his father, President Thomas G. Masaryk.

The Communist Undersecretary of State for Foreign Affairs, Vlado Clementis, will pronounce the funeral oration at the grave.

Many Czechs Weep At News

The last two men known to have seen Masaryk alive were his male housekeeper, Vacla Topinka, and his old valet, Bohumil Prihoda, who served Masaryk's father before him.

They brought him a supper of chicken, potatoes and beer shortly before 8 p. m. They cleared away the dishes a half hour later and they said Masaryk told them:

"So long boys, I don't want to see

Kansas Blizzard Isolates Three Cities, Strands 39

KANSAS CITY, March 10 (AP)—A blinding blizzard, fanned by bitter north winds, isolated three cities in Kansas today and forced 39 persons, stranded on a highway, to take refuge in a tiny shack.

The storm, howling eastward off the plainlands of Western Oklahoma and Kansas, brought a serious threat to livestock and blocked many highways.

Thirty-nine persons found refuge in a shack, four feet by six feet, near Salina, Kas., as a bus and several trucks were stalled in the snow drifts. They later were rescued.

MacArthur Expected To Remain Aloof From Issues Of Campaign

TOKYO, March 10 (AP) — Gen. MacArthur's refusal to let the United States Presidential campaign interfere with his occupation job indicated today he will remain aloof from campaign issues, at least for the present.

Furthermore, it is unlikely he will make any special effort to clarify his views on subjects other than international topics which he already has discussed.

His public relations office issued a statement saying MacArthur's announcement of availability will make no changes in headquarters operations. The statement obviously came from MacArthur.

Correspondents had asked for a press conference. The statement advised them MacArthur would meet them as before—for off-the-record conferences giving background on the occupation.

Politics has been out at such sessions. The statement also made it clear there would be no new posed pictures of the General either. Action pictures of him leaving his offices are all right, as before.

The action did not surprise correspondents. The tone of MacArthur's original announcement that he would accept the presidency if called by the people seemed to say he meant to go ahead as before while the campaign rages on in the states.

Most observers believe MacArthur will not let himself be drawn into domestic issues until he returns to the United States. It isn't clear when he will return. He has not been in the United States since 1937.

(There were strong hints in Washington that he will return to the United States within a few months.)

The statement to correspondents said the General "has nothing to add" to his original announcement. That places him entirely on his record.

"Anti-MacArthur Club" Organized

CHICAGO, March 10 (AP)—Plans for the formation of a "Veterans Against MacArthur" club were announced today by a group of Chicago ex-servicemen.

Paul Berger, 24, spokesman for the group, said 500 signatures already had been obtained in Chicago on petitions opposing the possible presidential candidacy of Gen. Douglas MacArthur.

Senate Rejects Proposal To Put United States Aid To Europe Under U.N. Rein

World's Biggest Bomb, 21-Tonner, Dropped In Test

WASHINGTON, March 10 (AP)—The world's biggest bomb, a 21-ton missle, has been dropped in a penetration test at Muroc base, Calif., it was learned today.

The bomb, made by the Army Ordnance Department, was not charged with explosive. The test was to find how fast the bomb would fall and how deep into the earth it would penetrate. The test was last week.

A specially-equipped B-29 plane took the bomb up and dropped it.

One thing the Air Force wanted to find out is the effect on a B-29 when such a big weight is suddenly released.

Wallace-Supported Plan Loses 74 To 3

WASHINGTON, March 10 (AP)—The Senate cast aside today by an overwhelming 74 to 3 vote a Henry A. Wallace-backed proposal to put United States aid to Europe under United Nations control.

Sen. Taylor, of Idaho, candidate for Vice-President on Wallace's third party ticket, offered the proposal—after a 35,000-word speech that began yesterday—as an amendment to the $5,300,000,000 European recovery bill.

Taylor charged that the ERP bill, commonly known as the Marshall plan, "prepares for war and puts Europe on a permanent dole."

Sens. Pepper (D-Fla.) and Langer (R-ND) joined Taylor in voting for his amendment, which provided for a $5,000,000,000 contribution by this country to a United Nations reconstruction and economic development administration for Europe.

Russian Would Have Voice

Russia, as a United Nations member, would have a voice in controlling the aid setup proposed by Taylor. The Marshall plan seeks to do the job by direct agreements between the United States and 16 countries, along with Western Germany, outside the Soviet sphere.

The Senate action came after Maj. Gen. Claire Chennault, of "Flying Tigers" fame, said this country will "set the stage for World War III" if it fails to send China military aid.

Chennault estimated it would cost between $1,500,000,000 and $2,000,000,000 over a three-year period to give Generalissimo Chiang Kai-Shek the help he needs to defeat China's Communists.

The Truman administration has asked for $570,000,000 in strictly non-military aid to Chiang.

Bride Listens To Chennault

While his 25-year-old Chinese bride listened, Chennault said military backing of Chiang would throw up a wall against "Russian aggression" in Europe as well as in Asia.

China, he said, is the key to world peace—or, if another war comes, to victory.

Chennault was the last witness to be heard by the committee before it turned its hand to writing a foreign aid bill which may be along the lines of the $5,300,000,000 European recovery measure now being debated in the Senate.

Sen. Taft (R-Ohio) said today he would vote to cut the ERP figure to $4,000,000,000 but no lower.

Taft's statement to a reporter came after Chairman Knutson (R-Minn.), of the House Ways and Means Committee, predicted the House would trim the total to $3,500,000,000.

Southerners Win Senate Hearings On Poll Tax Issue

WASHINGTON, March 10—(AP)—Dixie won a skirmish in the civil rights fight today when the Senate Rules Committee agreed to hold public hearings on anti-poll tax legislation.

Previously, a three-man subcommittee had approved the bill without hearings. It said the facts were so well known there was no reason to argue.

Sen. Stennis (D-Miss.) protested at a closed-door session of the committee today, and Chairmar. Brooks (R-Ill.) said the committee would conduct a four-day hearing.

Brooks said the full committee, composed of eight Republicans and five Democrats, will hold the hearings here, probably starting a week from next Monday.

Southern governors and senators backed Stennis in his protest. He said the hearings should be held in the seven southern states which have poll taxes — Texas, Virginia, Mississippi, Arkansas, South Carolina, Alabama and Tennessee.

The poll tax measure is one of President Truman's key points in his civil rights program which caused a split in party ranks.

The legislation would remove any requirement that a poll tax must be paid in order to vote for federal officials. These include the President, Vice President and congressmen.

The House passed the bill last year. If the committee approves—and its approval seems certain—the legislation goes to the Senate for a vote. A filibuster by southerners has been promised.

On another measure, the National Association for the Advancement of Colored People sent a telegram to Sen. Wiley (R-Wis.), chairman of the Senate Judiciary Subcommittee, protesting the brevity of hearings set for Friday on the regional college proposal.

A House Judiciary Subcommittee approved March 5 a bill to permit 15 southern states to create a joint system of regional schools, pooling their resources to finance larger institutions than they are able to maintain individually.

Over 50 Lost In Sinking Of Chilean River Boat

SANTIAGO, Chile, March 10. (AP)—The small steamer Helvetia sank today in the Carahue River in Southern Chile with the loss of more than 50 lives, it was reported officially.

The Carahue is a tributary of the Imperial River, in which the steamer Cautin sank two months ago with the loss of more than 100 lives.

The Helvetia was carrying about 70 passengers. She collided with a launch and sank within a few minutes.

Mihai Declares Only War Will Rid Romania Of Reds

NEW YORK, March 10 (AP) — Former King Mihai, of Romania, arrived in this country late today and said that in present circumstances only war would rid his country of Communism.

The tall, handsome ex-King, who came here aboard the Queen Elizabeth for his first visit to the United States, said he still considers himself the rightful ruler of Romania.

He was accompanied by his mother, Queen Helen.

Poised and smiling under questions from about 150 reporters and photographers, Mihai indicated he hoped to wed Princess Anne, of Bourbon-Parma, and regain his throne eventually.

To nearly all questions on how he would attain his aims, however, he replied with a smiling "I wouldn't know."

The ex-monarch said he plans to stay two or three weeks in the United States but has no trip planned.

In answer to a question whether Romanian Communists forced his abdication he replied "yes."

Asked whether refusal by Pope Pius XII to permit his marriage as an orthodox church member to Princess Anne, a Catholic, would prevent their wedding, Mihai said: "I'll have to get back first and ask her." "We hope to be married in Copenhagen but we don't know when," Mihai added.

Papanek Asks United Nations To Probe Coup

Czech Delegate's Demand Shelved

LAKE SUCCESS, March 10—(AP)—Czechoslovakia's chief delegate to the United Nations demanded today the Security Council investigate the Russian-backed Communist coup in his "terrorized" homeland.

The United Nations Secretary-General, Trygve Lie, shelved the demand after a hurried consultation with other high United Nations officials.

These officials included his top Russian and Czechoslovak aides in the Cabinet of the United Nations secretariat and Dr. T. F. Tsiang, China, this month's president of the Security Council.

Lie decided that an 1,100-word letter of complaint against Russia from the chief Czechoslovak delegate, Dr. Jan Papanek, containing the call for council action was a non-governmental communication.

Under United Nations rules it thus will remain now in the United Nations files unless some member brings it up and calls for action.

Papanek said he decided to spring his surprise action only after the death of Jan Masaryk, his best friend.

Russian Officials Blamed

Papanek blamed Premier Stalin and Russian officials for the success of the Communist minority stroke last month.

The Czechoslovak communicated his charges in the formal letter to Lie and read them to newsmen in special news conference.

Papanek, with obvious emotion, declared also:

1. That Masaryk, who died in Prague today, could not have been a suicide. He said the Foreign Minister, who received six votes on the first ballot for president of the United Nations Assembly in New York last fall, had received a Communist-made bomb in Prague several weeks ago.

2. That he is not resigning his United Nations post. He said he still is the representative of the Czechoslovak republic and that he does not represent the Communist-dominated regime in Prague. United Nations officials said Lie's ruling has no bearing on Papanek's status as a delegate; that the United Nations has received no instructions from Prague changing Papanek's status.

3. That Russian soldiers were held in readiness on Czechoslovakia's northwest frontier to back up the Communists last month.

Lie Calls Conference

Lie summoned Arkady A. Sobolev, of Russia, the assistant secretary-general in charge of the Security Council affairs; Dr. Ivan Kerno, of Czechoslovakia, assistant secretary-general in charge of legal affairs, and Dr. Tsiang to his office late in the day. Sobolev has been under fire twice in two days on Security Council matters.

This statement was issued by the United Nations after their consultations:

"After consultations, the Secretary-General found it (the Papanek letter) a non-governmental communication and it will be treated in accordance with the rules of procedure of the Security Council as such."

These rules, it was said, made the communication available to anyone desiring to see it but it will not be circulated among the delegates. The letter actually was turned over to Sobolev for the Security Council department files.

Compromise On European Union Issue Is Sought

BRUSSELS, Belgium, March 10 (AP)—France, Britain and the Benelux countries worked on a compromise today that would throw their Western European union open to all European nations "but with stiff membership requirements."

A British source gave that as the description of the middle ground being sought between the Benelux countries (Belgium, the Netherlands and Luxembourg) and the French-British positions. He said the Benelux countries favored a "select club, while we feel that the more we are the stronger we will be."

Whisperings Heard In Cumberland's Campaign

Since the city primary election ten days ago, little if anything has been said publicly by candidates for mayor and city commissioners. For a time their silence was accepted as being merely a breathing spell from the campaign's first skirmish before again taking to the "political stump."

It should be recalled that Roy W. Eves, who seeks election as mayor, had outlined in his platform, during the primaries, an ambitious course of action in the event he were elected, but in the absence of a platform by his opponent he has seen no reason to repeat it. But, Mr Post has, up to the time this was written, adopted a say-nothing, do-nothing course. He has displayed no more of an aggressive attitude during this campaign than marked his four years as mayor. The lack of this, it must be said, has kept Cumberland at a virtual standstill and as a result the city is today faced with the threat of the loss of its position as the second city in Maryland.

But Mayor Post's silence has been supplanted with a whispering campaign, which is being carried on by his political aides. It is being whispered that if Mr. Eves is elected mayor the city can expect little from him, that he will give mere lip-service to the things he advocates and pledges to do, such as a sincere enforcement of the smoke control ordinance, that he will not interest himself to any great degree in our traffic problem which, to solve, will require either a cross-town viaduct or underpasses being constructed. These whispers are also to the effect that he will give little, if any, attention to the daily annoyance of railroad crossing blocking, and that he will clamp down on this, or close that.

To be sure, this type of propaganda is being spread in the hope of taking votes from Mr. Eves, and thereby deny to the citizens of Cumberland the services of a man we have no hesitancy in endorsing as one who will give us not only good government, but who will provide the type of leadership that will be required during the next two years. Other than these things set out in his platform, Mr. Eves can take up his duties as mayor without having made any commitments to anyone except that he has promised to give Cumberland an aggressive administration.

The support accorded Mr. Eves's candidacy in the primary was a clear demonstration by the voters that they have grown weary of continued inactivity in city affairs. They realize that unless greater efforts are put forth the city's welfare will continue to suffer. They believe a change should be made and intend to bring it about.

Mr. Eves, we would like to point out, aspires to the mayorship well equipped for the tasks which will confront him. He has worked all his life with people and has demonstrated his executive qualities, not only in connection with his everyday activities but in organizations with which he is associated.

There is one thing of which we can all feel certain—when he undertakes to perform a task, he means to perform it. That is the reason for much of his success during his life. And what he has been able to do for himself, he can do for Cumberland.

CIO THREATENS PURGE OF OFFICERS WHO BACK HENRY WALLACE PARTY

WASHINGTON, March 10—(AP)—The CIO today pulled off its gloves for a bare-knuckle decision with Henry Wallace supporters in its own ranks.

It threatened to purge all state and local officers who refuse to comply with national CIO policy. That policy is: Support the Marshall plan; oppose a third party in the presidential race.

John Brophy, director of industrial union councils, wrote all state and local councils that they must comply with national policy or be in violation of the labor group's rules.

Violation may be followed by ouster.

Commenting on the letter, Brophy said "the CIO in no way is seeking to dictate the voting choice of its individual members, who are of course free to support any candidate they choose."

Two Men Report Finding Uranium In Wyoming

DENVER, March 10 (AP) — The existence of open deposits of uranium which may add greatly to the nation's store of atom bomb material was reported today by two Denver men.

The pea-sized yellow pellets are found in dry creek beds in the Red Desert northwest of Rawlins in Southrn Wyoming. The men said a specimen assayed as high as 30 per cent pure uranium. The ore can be mined with a bulldozer or a steam shovel.

Forrestal Calls Huddle To Banish Military "Feuds"

Chiefs Are Ordered To Agree On Duties

WASHINGTON, March 10 (AP)—United States military commanders got this order today: Agree on the division of duties between the Army, Navy and Air Force in the event of war.

Secretary of Defense Forrestal gave the order. He told a news conference "I'm going to spend the weekend" threshing out the question with the joint chiefs of staff.

Those land, air and sea chieftains are:

Gen. Omar Bradley, Army chief of staff; Gen. Carl Spaatz, Air Force chief of staff; Adm. Louis E. Denfeld, chief of naval operations; Fleet Adm. William D. Leahy, chief of staff to the President.

Meet Outside Capittal

The meeting will be somewhere outside Washington, to permit uninterrupted discussions. And the civilian secretaries of the three services probably won't be invited.

What Forrestal wants decided now is which service will do what in a war.

He is under pressure by Congress to come up with a general strategic plan which would assign to each of the three services their part in a war. Involved are such old arguments as those between the Air Force and the Navy over bombing operations.

Forrestal told newsmen he wants the joint chiefs to submit a list of the points in which they are in disagreement and then "come to an accomodation of views."

And if they don't?

"I'll have to make my own decisions," he said.

Arguments among the joint chiefs of staffs are as old as the agency, created early in 1942.

During the war the wrangling assumed serious proportions and reportedly caused stalemates lasting for months.

Throughout the war, the commanders of the Army, Navy and Air Force argued over the allocation of manpower and materials. At one time, the Army was said to have charged that the Navy was delaying the invasion of Europe by insisting on using large quantities of steel to build combat ships instead of landing craft.

"Misleading"

Harriman Assails House Group For Condon Action

WASHINGTON, March 10 (AP) — Secretary of Commerce W. Averell Harriman tonight accused a House Un-American Activities Subcommittee of un-American action.

In a formal statement dealing with the subcommittee's investigation of Dr. Edward U. Condon, director of the Bureau of Standards, Harriman said:

"The subcommittee's action is, in my opinion, un-American.

"It summoned members of my staff to secret sessions. It has published their interpretation of their testimony. The press and public were excluded and could not form an independent opinion. From my knowledge of the situation, I can say that the subcommittee's action is misleading.

"It is interesting to note that the subcommittee now appears not to dissent from the Commerce Department Loyalty Board's finding that Dr. Condon is a loyal American. There was complete agreement on this finding by members of the Loyalty Board before (Harriman underscored 'before') issuance of the subcommittee report of March 1."

The Commerce Secretary referred to a report which charged that Condon had associated with alleged Soviet spies. The report called him "one of the weakest links" in the nation's atomic security.

The Harriman statement was issued a few hours after a government official reported that a general directive is being prepared instructing all executive departments to decline to release confidential loyalty files to congressional committees.

Czech Government Announces Minister Committed Suicide

MARSHALL SAYS WORLD IN VERY SERIOUS STATE

"Reign Of Terror" In Czechoslovakia

WASHINGTON, March 10 (AP)—Secretary of State Marshall declared today that the world situation is "very, very serious."

He made plain at a news conference that he was referring both to Communist expansion in Europe, including Czechoslovakia, and to what he called a "considerable passion" aroused in this country by European developments.

Marshall gave his estimate of European conditions and American reactions at a news conference.

Authorizing direct quotation, he cited the death of Foreign Minister Jan Masaryk in Czechoslovakia as evidence that the Communist rule of that country is "a reign of terror."

Marshall said he did not know whether Masaryk had committed suicide, as the Czech official version reported.

(Other American officials considered it possible that Masaryk may have been murdered. Rep. Stefan (R-Neb) said as much in the House.)

"Assessment Of Situation"

Marshall's summary of the world situation carried a virtual appeal to the American people to remain cool-headed and allow their government to pursue what Marshall himself would regard as a coldly calculated course of action.

He spoke out only after he had been asked to give his "assessment of the situation" which, he was told, includes widely-felt fears—ranging from the possibility that Italy might fall to the Communists in the April 18 elections to talk of war.

Marshall replied:

"I think you correctly described the situation in your question—that there are great fears as to the developments.

"There are also very strong feelings regarding these developments and a considerable passion of view on the part of a great many in this country.

"The situation is very, very serious. It is regrettable that passions are aroused to the degree which has occurred.

"It is tragic to have things happen such as just occurred in Czechoslovakia, particularly what has happened to some of the officials, as in the affair today of the death of Jan Masaryk, all of which indicates very plainly what is going on.

"It is a reign of terror in Czechoslovakia and not an ordinary due process of government by the people."

Cold Reason, Not "Passion"

Authoritative sources said that in referring to "passion" Marshall had in mind a passionate desire on the part of many people to do something very quickly—and not necessarily something that cold reason would approve.

Marshall is reported concerned over various public statements in the past few days about Selective Service plans. He is fearful, it is said, that the public may be led to think the government has some secret mobilization plans. And these sources say there are no such plans.

The aim of policy decisions within President Truman's Cabinet is reported to be, in the words of one official, to keep things on an even keel.

Marshall's own policy, as previously expressed to Congress, covers two main points—to get the European recovery program through Congress by April 1, and to get a universal military training bill adopted.

Plunges To His Death From Palace Window

PRAGUE, March 10 (AP) — Jan Masaryk, Foreign Minister of Czechoslovakia, plunged to his death today after staying two weeks in his country's new Communist-controlled Cabinet.

An official government announcement said he committed suicide.

The 61-year-old diplomat was the son of a Brooklyn-born mother and a Bohemian father who became Czechoslovakia's first President. He jumped more than 50 feet to his death on the stone flagging of a court yard in Czernin Palace, said an announcement from the government which seized power two weeks ago today.

Communist Minister of the Interior Vaclav Nosek told Parliament that Masaryk had ended his life after a night of brooding over "tedentious malicious letters and telegrams from his former friends in Great Britain and America assailing him for his manly stand" in remaining in the Communist-led government.

(Prime Minister Attlee said in London Masaryk may have taken his life because "he could not endure to live in the suffocating atmosphere of totalitarianism."

"Murder," Says Consul

(n Sydney, Australia, Czech Consul K. Tokoly said Masaryk's death "is not suicide. It is plain murder." Tokoly said he was resigning his post.)

Government sources gave this account of Masaryk's death:

He apparently stepped up on a low couch that stood under the window of his bathroom and hurled himself out of the window. He occupied a small apartment in the palace that houses the Foreign Affairs Ministry.

A guard on duty found him lying crumpled on the stones. He summoned a medical student on duty at a first aid station in the ministry.

The student pronounced him dead shortly before 7 a. m. His head was uninjured.

No official cause of death was given. A post mortem will be held.

A state funeral was announced for Saturday afternoon, with Communist Premier Klement Gottwald speaking at the pantheon of the Prague Museum in Prague's Central Square. The body will be taken to Lany, to be interred in the family plot beside that of his father, President Thomas G. Masaryk.

The Communist Undersecretary of State for Foreign Affairs, Vlado Clementis, will pronounce the funeral oration at the grave.

Many Czechs Weep At News

The last two men known to have seen Masaryk alive were his male housekeeper, Vacla Topinka, and his old valet, Bohumil Prihoda, who served Masaryk's father before him.

They brought him a supper of chicken, potatoes and beer shortly before 8 p. m. They cleared away the dishes a half hour later and they said Masaryk told them:

"So long boys, I don't want to see

Kansas Blizzard Isolates Three Cities, Strands 39

KANSAS CITY, March 10 (AP)—A blinding blizzard, fanned by bitter north winds, isolated three cities in Kansas today and forced 39 persons, stranded on a highway, to take refuge in a tiny shack.

The storm, howling eastward off the plainlands of Western Oklahoma and Kansas, brought a serious threat to livestock and blocked many highways.

Thirty-nine persons found refuge in a shack, four feet by six feet, near Salina, Kas., as a bus and several trucks were stalled in the snow drifts. They later were rescued.

MacArthur Expected To Remain Aloof From Issues Of Campaign

TOKYO, March 10 (AP) — Gen. MacArthur's refusal to let the United States Presidential campaign interfere with his occupation job indicated today he will remain aloof from campaign issues, at least for the present.

Furthermore, it is unlikely he will make any special effort to clarify his views on subjects other than international topics which he already has discussed.

His public relations office issued a statement saying MacArthur's announcement of availability will make no changes in headquarters operations. The statement obviously came from MacArthur.

Correspondents had asked for a press conference. The statement advised them MacArthur would meet them as before—for off-the-record conferences giving background on the occupation.

Politics has been out at such sessions. The statement also made it clear there would be no new posed pictures of the General either. Action pictures of him leaving his offices are all right, as before.

The action did not surprise correspondents. The tone of MacArthur's original announcement that he would accept the presidency if called by the people seemed to say he meant to go ahead as before while the campaign rages on in the states.

Most observers believe MacArthur will not let himself be drawn into domestic issues until he returns to the United States. It isn't clear when he will return. He has not been in the United States since 1937.

(There were strong hints in Washington that he will return to the United States within a few months.)

The statement to correspondents said the General "has nothing to add" to his original announcement. That places him entirely on his record.

"Anti-MacArthur Club" Organized

CHICAGO, March 10 (AP)—Plans for the formation of a "Veterans Against MacArthur" club were announced today by a group of Chicago ex-servicemen.

Paul Berger, 24, spokesman for the group, said 500 signatures already had been obtained in Chicago on petitions opposing the possible presidential candidacy of Gen. Douglas MacArthur.

Senate Rejects Proposal To Put United States Aid To Europe Under U.N. Rein

World's Biggest Bomb, 21-Tonner, Dropped In Test

WASHINGTON, March 10 (AP)—The world's biggest bomb, a 21-ton missle, has been dropped in a penetration test at Muroc base, Calif., it was learned today.

The bomb, made by the Army Ordnance Department, was not charged with explosive. The test was to find how fast the bomb would fall and how deep into the earth it would penetrate. The test was last week.

A specially-equipped B-29 plane took the bomb up and dropped it.

One thing the Air Force wanted to find out is the effect on a B-29 when such a big weight is suddenly released.

Southerners Win Senate Hearings On Poll Tax Issue

WASHINGTON, March 10—(AP)—Dixie won a skirmish in the civil rights fight today when the Senate Rules Committee agreed to hold public hearings on anti-poll tax legislation.

Previously, a three-man subcommittee had approved the bill without hearings. It said the facts were so well known there was no reason to argue.

Sen. Stennis (D-Miss.) protested at a closed-door session of the committee today, and Chairmar. Brooks (R-Ill.) said the committee would conduct a four-day hearing.

Brooks said the full committee, composed of eight Republicans and five Democrats, will hold the hearings here, probably starting a week from next Monday.

Southern governors and senators backed Stennis in his protest. He said the hearings should be held in the seven southern states which have poll taxes — Texas, Virginia, Mississippi, Arkansas, South Carolina, Alabama and Tennessee.

The poll tax measure is one of President Truman's key points in his civil rights program which caused a split in party ranks.

The legislation would remove any requirement that a poll tax must be paid in order to vote for federal officials. These include the President, Vice President and congressmen.

The House passed the bill last year. If the committee approves—and its approval seems certain—the legislation goes to the Senate for a vote. A filibuster by southerners has been promised.

On another measure, the National Association for the Advancement of Colored People sent a telegram to Sen. Wiley (R-Wis.), chairman of the Senate Judiciary Subcommittee, protesting the brevity of hearings set for Friday on the regional college proposal.

A House Judiciary Subcommittee approved March 5 a bill to permit 15 southern states to create a joint system of regional schools, pooling their resources to finance larger institutions than they are able to maintain individually.

Over 50 Lost In Sinking Of Chilean River Boat

SANTIAGO, Chile, March 10. (AP)—The small steamer Helvetia sank today in the Carahue River in Southern Chile with the loss of more than 50 lives, it was reported officially.

The Carahue is a tributary of the Imperial River, in which the steamer Cautin sank two months ago with the loss of more than 100 lives.

The Helvetia was carrying about 70 passengers. She collided with a launch and sank within a few minutes.

Wallace-Supported Plan Loses 74 To 3

WASHINGTON, March 10 (AP)—The Senate cast aside today by an overwhelming 74 to 3 vote a Henry A. Wallace-backed proposal to put United States aid to Europe under United Nations control.

Sen. Taylor, of Idaho, candidate for Vice-President on Wallace's third party ticket, offered the proposal—after a 35,000-word speech that began yesterday—as an amendment to the $5,300,000,000 European recovery bill.

Taylor charged that the ERP bill, commonly known as the Marshall plan, "prepares for war and puts Europe on a permanent dole."

Sens. Pepper (D-Fla.) and Langer (R-ND) joined Taylor in voting for his amendment, which provided for a $5,000,000,000 contribution by this country to a United Nations reconstruction and economic development administration for Europe.

Russian Would Have Voice

Russia, as a United Nations member, would have a voice in controlling the aid setup proposed by Taylor. The Marshall plan seeks to do the job by direct agreements between the United States and 16 countries, along with Western Germany, outside the Soviet sphere.

The Senate action came after Maj. Gen. Claire Chennault, of "Flying Tigers" fame, said this country will "set the stage for World War III" if it fails to send China military aid.

Chennault estimated it would cost between $1,500,000,000 and $2,000,000,000 over a three-year period to give Generalissimo Chiang Kai-Shek the help he needs to defeat China's Communists.

The Truman administration has asked for $570,000,000 in strictly non-military aid to Chiang.

Chennault gave his views to the House Foreign Affairs Committee. He flew here Monday from Shanghai, where he operates a commercial airline, to testify at the committee's request.

Bride Listens To Chennault

While his 25-year-old Chinese bride listened, Chennault said military backing of Chiang would throw up a wall against "Russian aggression" in Europe as well as in Asia.

China, he said, is the key to world peace—or, if another war comes, to victory.

Chennault was the last witness to be heard by the committee before it turned its hand to writing a foreign aid bill which may be along the lines of the $5,300,000,000 European recovery measure now being debated in the Senate.

Sen. Taft (R-Ohio) said today he would vote to cut the ERP figure to $4,000,000,000 but no lower.

Taft's statement to a reporter came after Chairman Knutson (R-Minn.), of the House Ways and Means Committee, predicted the House would trim the total to $3,500,000,000.

Papanek Asks United Nations To Probe Coup

Czech Delegate's Demand Shelved

LAKE SUCCESS, March 10—(AP)—Czechoslovakia's chief delegate to the United Nations demanded today the Security Council investigate the Russian-backed Communist coup in his "terrorized" homeland.

The United Nations Secretary-General, Trygve Lie, shelved the demand after a hurried consultation with other high United Nations officials.

These officials included his top Russian and Czechoslovak aides in the Cabinet of the United Nations secretariat and Dr. T. F. Tsiang, China, this month's president of the Security Council.

Lie decided that an 1,100-word letter of complaint against Russia from the chief Czechoslovak delegate, Dr. Jan Papanek, containing the call for council action was a non-governmental communication.

Under United Nations rules it thus will remain now in the United Nations files unless some member brings it up and calls for action.

Papanek said he decided to spring his surprise action only after the death of Jan Masaryk, his best friend.

Russian Officials Blamed

Papanek blamed Premier Stalin and Russian officials for the success of the Communist minority stroke last month.

The Czechoslovak communicated his charges in the formal letter to Lie and read them to newsmen in special news conference.

Papanek, with obvious emotion, declared also:

1. That Masaryk, who died in Prague today, could not have been a suicide. He said the Foreign Minister, who received six votes on the first ballot for president of the United Nations Assembly in New York last fall, had received a Communist-made bomb in Prague several weeks ago.

2. That he is not resigning his United Nations post. He said he still is the representative of the Czechoslovak republic and that he does not represent the Communist-dominated regime in Prague. United Nations officials said Lie's ruling has no bearing on Papanek's status as a delegate; that the United Nations has received no instructions from Prague changing Papanek's status.

3. That Russian soldiers were held in readiness on Czechoslovakia's northwest frontier to back up the Communists last month.

Lie Calls Conference

Lie summoned Arkady A. Sobolev, of Russia, the assistant secretary-general in charge of the Security Council affairs; Dr. Ivan Kerno, of Czechoslovakia, assistant secretary-general in charge of legal affairs, and Dr. Tsiang to his office late in the day. Sobolev has been under fire twice in two days on Security Council matters.

This statement was issued by the United Nations after their consultations:

"After consultations, the Secretary-General found it (the Papanek letter) a non-governmental communication and it will be treated in accordance with the rules of procedure of the Security Council as such."

These rules, it was said, made the communication available to anyone desiring to see it but it will not be circulated among the delegates. The letter actually was turned over to Sobolev for the Security Council department files.

Compromise On European Union Issue Is Sought

BRUSSELS, Belgium, March 10 (AP)—France, Britain and the Benelux countries worked on a compromise today that would throw their Western European union open to all European nations "but with stiff membership requirements."

A British source gave that as the description of the middle ground being sought between the Benelux countries (Belgium, the Netherlands and Luxembourg) and the French-British positions. He said the Benelux countries favored a "select club, while we feel that the more we are the stronger we will be."

Mihai Declares Only War Will Rid Romania Of Reds

NEW YORK, March 10 (AP) — Former King Mihai, of Romania, arrived in this country late today and said that in present circumstances only war would rid his country of Communism.

The tall, handsome ex-King, who came here aboard the Queen Elizabeth for his first visit to the United States, said he still considers himself the rightful ruler of Romania.

He was accompanied by his mother, Queen Helen.

Poised and smiling under questions from about 150 reporters and photographers, Mihai indicated he hoped to wed Princess Anne, of Bourbon-Parma, and regain his throne eventually.

To nearly all questions on how he would attain his aims, however, he replied with a smiling "I wouldn't know."

The ex-monarch said he plans to stay two or three weeks in the United States but has no trip planned.

In answer to a question whether Romanian Communists forced his abdication he replied "yes."

Asked whether refusal by Pope Pius XII to permit his marriage as an orthodox church member to Princess Anne, a Catholic, would prevent their wedding, Mihai said:

"I'll have to get back first and ask her." "We hope to be married in Copenhagen but we don't know when," Mihai added.

Dewey Assured Six N.H. Delegates

CONCORD, N. H., March 10 (AP)—Gov. Thomas E. Dewey was assured tonight of six of New Hampshire's eight delegates to the Republican national convention and whatever campaign stimulus goes with the initial ballot victory of the 1948 presidential primaries.

Final returns from the year's first presidential primary in the nation showed candidates favorable to the New Yorker clinched three of the four delegate-at-large posts and three of four district delegate nominations over men pledged to Howard E. Stassen, of Minnesota.

Informed of the result, Dewey said: "This expression of support is heart-warming and encouraging to me."

Stassen, who won two of the delegates, said in Minneapolis his showing was "strong," but "not quite strong enough." He regarded the Wisconsin primary next month as the "second inning" of the battle for Republican support.

In beating back the initial challenge of the former Governor of Minnesota, Dewey showed strength in the cities as well as the rural communities.

McCabe Defends His War Surplus Disposal Setup

WASHINGTON, March 10—(AP)—Thomas B. McCabe stoutly defended today his war surplus disposal activities—right down to the sale of B-25 bombers with the tails cut off.

The Chester, Pa., industrialist sent a 10,000-word statement to the Senate Banking Committee, which is studying his fitness to be chairman of the Federal Reserve Board.

And William L. Clayton, appearing personally before the committee, told who it was that suggested McCabe to President Truman as Marriner S. Eccles' successor in the chairmanship:

Clayton said Secretary of the Treasury Snyder discussed the appointment with him, and then they both recommended McCabe.

Greaves Again Named In Damage Action

Robert J. Greaves, Columbus, Ohio, named as the driver of the car that struck and killed Clarence Whitaker last March 22 on Big Savage Mountain west of Frostburg, was named defendant a second time in the case, in a $15,000 damage suit filed yesterday in Circuit Court.

The suit was docketed by William C. Walsh and Thomas B. Finan, Jr., for the State of Maryland for the use of Cobey Engle, employer, and Glen Falls Indemnity Company, insurer, naming Greaves as defendant.

The declaration shows that Edna Whitaker, 35, daughter of the victim and a granddaughter, Phyllis Whitaker, 10, were dependent solely on Whitaker's earnings from his employment with Cobey Engle.

Finan said last night the suit is filed based on the right of an employer and the insurer to recover damages if possible.

During the January term of Court, Greaves won a $20,000 damage suit filed against him by Mrs. Whitaker through her attorneys, Edward J. Ryan and William L. Wilson, Jr.

A jury awarded a verdict in favor of Greaves in that case, Greaves was represented by Leslie J. Clark, this city, and Evan McCrossley.

1,000 Laid Off In Md.

ANNAPOLIS, Md., March 10 (AP)—Fourteen Maryland firms laid off approximately 1,000 workers temporarily last week. The layoffs were reported by Russell S. Davis, chairman of the Department of Employment Security, in a letter to Gov. Lane.

Draft Machinery Being Kept Oiled

BALTIMORE, March 10 (AP)—The Selective Service machinery, discarded with the end of World War II, isn't being allowed to rust.

Plans are being formulated in Maryland, as in other states, to provide for quick manpower procurement in the event of a new national emergency.

Discussing this today, Col. Henry C. Stanwood—Maryland's wartime Selective Service director—said the peace period organization he heads will be patterned closely after the draft system of the recent conflict.

However, he pointed out that "we are not working with the view that Selective Service is soon to be reenacted, as some people might believe, because of the current talk of the possibility of another war."

Nor are the blueprints now being drawn connected with recruiting of National Guard personnel, the officer declared. He explained:

"We have been given the mission of having a manpower procurement plan in readiness so that in the event of any national emergency the job of filling the ranks of the armed forces will be made easier and faster."

Patrolman Is Injured During Dance "Melee"

BALTIMORE, March 10 (AP) — A patrolman was dropped nine feet off the bleachers early today, police said, during a "melee" at a negro dance in the 104th Regiment Armory.

Magistrate Preston A. Pairo, said white Patrolman Bernard Sandkhuler was pitched over the bleacher railing by one of the dancers and crashed to the hardwood floor below. The officer was hospitalized for head and back injuries.

Elmer Burley, 23, negro, was held in $2,500 bail on a charge of assaulting the policeman and a charge of inciting a riot. Seven negroes were fined for disorderly conduct.

Baker's Helper To Die For Murder Of Grocer

BALTIMORE, March 10 (AP) — A judge today could find no pity for Howard Andrew Fram and sentenced the 31-year-old baker's helper from Kensington, Md., to be hanged for the murder of a neighborhood grocer.

Fram had pleaded guilty to a hatchet attack last December on 77-year-old George Lehr. He had just lost his job, was suspicious of his wife, and needed money to buy Christmas presents for two children.

Judge Herman M. Moser had the choice of sending him to death on the gallows or imposing life imprisonment.

"If there is any type of offense that calls for the imposition of capital punishment, it most assuredly is murder committed during a robbery with a deadly weapon," Judge Moser declared.

you before half past eight tomorrow morning."

The country mourned the death of the man whose family name was synonymous with democracy. Many Czechs wept at the news. The government ordered flags flown at half mast.

The radio gave out the doleful tidings in short bulletins, broken by the solemn requiem music of the great Czech composer, Anton Dvorak.

Masaryk's death was a blow to the Communists, who had retained him as Foreign Minister when they assumed control two weeks ago. His distinguished name gave prestige to their regime.

Dewey Assured Six N.H. Delegates

CONCORD, N. H., March 10 (AP)—Gov. Thomas E. Dewey was assured tonight of six of New Hampshire's eight delegates to the Republican national convention and whatever campaign stimulus goes with the initial ballot victory of the 1948 presidential primaries.

Final returns from the year's first presidential primary in the nation showed candidates favorable to the New Yorker clinched three of the four delegate-at-large posts and three of four district delegate nominations over men pledged to Howard E. Stassen, of Minnesota.

Informed of the result, Dewey said: "This expression of support is heart-warming and encouraging to me."

Stassen, who won two of the delegates, said in Minneapolis his showing was "strong," but "not quite strong enough." He regarded the Wisconsin primary next month as the "second inning" of the battle for Republican support.

In beating back the initial challenge of the former Governor of Minnesota, Dewey showed strength in the cities as well as the rural communities.

Schoolboy Legislature To Convene April 22

ANNAPOLIS, Md., March 10 (AP)—A three-day mock legislature conducted by Maryland high school boys will convene at the State House April 22.

The 200 boy legislators will meet at the University of Maryland March 20 for a training conference and election of a governor and other top legislators.

Gov. Lane appointed State Sen. P. G. Stromberg, Ellicott City, chairman o the Governor's Advisory Committee for the event.

The program is a Y.M.C.A. youth project.

Caldwell Wins Suit

TALLAHASSEE, Fla., March 10 (AP)—Gov. Millard Caldwell today was awarded $237,500 in libel damages from Collier's magazine. A United States District Court jury announced its decision after deliberating two hours on the Governor's charges that the magazine had falsely and maliciously quoted him as condoning a lynching.

McCabe Defends His War Surplus Disposal Setup

WASHINGTON, March 10—(AP)—Thomas B. McCabe stoutly defended today his war surplus disposal activities—right down to the sale of B-25 bombers with the tails cut off.

The Chester, Pa., industrialist sent a 10,000-word statement to the Senate Banking Committee, which is studying his fitness to be chairman of the Federal Reserve Board.

And William L. Clayton, appearing personally before the committee, told who it was that suggested McCabe to President Truman as Marriner S. Eccles' successor in the chairmanship:

Clayton said Secretary of the Treasury Snyder discussed the appointment with him, and then they both recommended McCabe.

Greaves Again Named In Damage Action

Robert J. Greaves, Columbus, Ohio, named as the driver of the car that struck and killed Clarence Whitaker last March 22 on Big Savage Mountain west of Frostburg, was named defendant a second time in the case, in a $15,000 damage suit filed yesterday in Circuit Court.

The suit was docketed by William C. Walsh and Thomas B. Finan, Jr., for the State of Maryland for the use of Cobey Engle, employer, and Glen Falls Indemnity Company, insurer, naming Greaves as defendant.

The declaration shows that Edna Whitaker, 35, daughter of the victim and a granddaughter, Phyllis Whitaker, 10, were dependent solely on Whitaker's earnings from his employment with Cobey Engle.

Finan said last night the suit is filed based on the right of an employer and the insurer to recover damages if possible.

During the January term of Court, Greaves won a $20,000 damage suit filed against him by Mrs. Whitaker through her attorneys, Edward J. Ryan and William L. Wilson, Jr.

A jury awarded a verdict in favor of Greaves in that case, Greaves was represented by Leslie J. Clark, this city, and Evan McCrossley.

1,000 Laid Off In Md.

ANNAPOLIS, Md., March 10 (AP)—Fourteen Maryland firms laid off approximately 1,000 workers temporarily last week. The layoffs were reported by Russell S. Davis, chairman of the Department of Employment Security, in a letter to Gov. Lane.

Draft Machinery Being Kept Oiled

BALTIMORE, March 10 (AP)—The Selective Service machinery, discarded with the end of World War II, isn't being allowed to rust.

Plans are being formulated in Maryland, as in other states, to provide for quick manpower procurement in the event of a new national emergency.

Discussing this today, Col. Henry C. Stanwood—Maryland's wartime Selective Service director—said the peace period organization he heads will be patterned closely after the draft system of the recent conflict.

However, he pointed out that "we are not working with the view that Selective Service is soon to be reenacted, as some people might believe, because of the current talk of the possibility of another war."

Nor are the blueprints now being drawn connected with recruiting of National Guard personnel, the officer declared. He explained:

"We have been given the mission of having a manpower procurement plan in readiness so that in the event of any national emergency the job of filling the ranks of the armed forces will be made easier and faster."

Patrolman Is Injured During Dance "Melee"

BALTIMORE, March 10 (AP) — A patrolman was dropped nine feet off the bleachers early today, police said, during a "melee" at a negro dance in the 104th Regiment Armory.

Magistrate Preston A. Pairo, said white Patrolman Bernard Sandkhuler was pitched over the bleacher railing by one of the dancers and crashed to the hardwood floor below. The officer was hospitalized for head and back injuries.

Elmer Burley, 23, negro, was held in $2,500 bail on a charge of assaulting the policeman and a charge of inciting a riot. Seven negroes were fined for disorderly conduct.

Baker's Helper To Die For Murder Of Grocer

BALTIMORE, March 10 (AP) — A judge today could find no pity for Howard Andrew Fram and sentenced the 31-year-old baker's helper from Kensington, Md., to be hanged for the murder of a neighborhood grocer.

Fram had pleaded guilty to a hatchet attack last December on 77-year-old George Lehr. He had just lost his job, was suspicious of his wife, and needed money to buy Christmas presents for two children.

Judge Herman M. Moser had the choice of sending him to death on the gallows or imposing life imprisonment.

"If there is any type of offense that calls for the imposition of capital punishment, it most assuredly is murder committed during a robbery with a deadly weapon," Judge Moser declared.

The country mourned the death of the man whose family name was synonymous with democracy. Many Czechs wept at the news. The government ordered flags flown at half mast.

The radio gave out the doleful tidings in short bulletins, broken by the solemn requiem music of the great Czech composer, Anton Dvorak.

Masaryk's death was a blow to the Communists, who had retained him as Foreign Minister when they assumed control two weeks ago. His distinguished name gave prestige to their regime.

Levels Youth Found Dead In Parked Car

A verdict of suicide was given yesterday in the death of Lear D. Kidwell, 20, Levels, W. Va., who was found dead in his parked automobile from what Hampshire county officials described as "a self-inflicted bullet wound in the head."

Coroner Andrew L. Russell said a .22 caliber target pistol was found near the body of Kidwell, who was employed at the Kelly-Springfield Tire Company plant here.

Russell and State Trooper E. D. Harbet said the body was discovered by James Kidwell, brother of the victim, and William Moreland, both of Levels.

No motive for suicide was discovered, according to Russell, who said a death certificate would be withheld until he talked with Kidwell's brothers and sisters.

The youth was last seen alive Tuesday night at 10 o'clock.

The wild stock from which domestic lemons were produced is thought to be a native of the northwest provinces of India.

General Wedemeyer's Advice To U. S. On China

General Wedemeyer's report on his mission to China last summer is still kept under State Department wraps, but the General frankly spoke his mind on aid to China before the House Foreign Relations Committee. "We are going to pay in blood," he warned, if we cannot stop the spread of Communism —in Asia as well as in Europe. Dollars alone will not do the job in China, any more than they have in Greece. The Administration's program of economic aid to Nanking will be wasted if we do not send Chiang Kai-shek guns, ammunition and planes and competent advisers in their use.

The General hardly needed to add that he and Secretary of State Marshall have "honest differences" of opinion about aid to China. Those differences are deeper than most Americans suspect even now. Since the failure of his mission in 1946, Marshall has been cool toward China, especially military aid. He believes that Chiang cannot govern except through a coalition with the Communists, and that this requires a political house-cleaning and extensive land reforms.

Pressure from Congress, however, has compelled a change in State Department policy on China. Grudgingly, President Truman has asked for $570,000,000 in economic aid. When congressional experts on China insisted on military aid, Marshall indicated that we have actually been helping Chiang's armies more than most Americans—or members of Congress —realize. There is much talk in Washington about a "secret agreement" to provide Chiang with 1,071 transport and military planes.

Such an agreement was made in 1945, and most of the planes have been delivered. But 25 per cent of them arrived in no condition to fly. Another 30 per cent have been useless, owing to lack of repair parts. And in August, 1946, all military aid to China was suspended for 10 months following Marshall's "plague on both your houses" statement.

That stoppage of aid was crucial. The Communists made prodigious gains in Manchuria and in China north of the Yangtze. With rich Manchuria now all but lost, Chiang has begun a desperate offensive to reopen communications with Mukden. He needs our aid today as never before against what Gen. Wedemeyer calls "Communists, trying to further world revolution."

Surely, after what happened to the Czech "coalition with the Communists," it would be criminal folly to withhold military help from Chiang until he imitates Benes. The Truman-Marshall program of economic aid would merely toss $570,000,000 on the ruins of the only bulwark against Communism in the most populous country on earth.

Those who are studying the problem of juvenile delinquency are forced to admit that one of the troubles with children is they too nearly resemble their parents.

While You Are Figuring Your Income Tax For 1947

While you are figuring out your income taxes, due on March 15, you might also figure out what the President's two vetoes last year of the tax-reduction passed by Congress will have cost you.

If your withholding tax is $6.80 a week, then Mr. Truman will have deprived you of $54.60. If you are in the middle brackets and your withholding tax is $19.40 a week, then Mr. Truman will have deprived you of $199 and some cents.

This in the face of the outlook for the biggest surplus in our history—enough to run the Government, take care of our expected 1948 commitments abroad, and make a quite sizable payment on reduction of the national debt. At heart the President is said to be no New Dealer, but in one respect he is. That is to hold on to high taxes and as the late W. C. Fields used to put it, "never give a sucker (taxpayer) an even break."

In point are individual income taxes for the fiscal years 1939 and 1947 respectively—in the former year, $1,029,000,000; in the latter, $19,629,000,000.

State Department is making daily broadcasts to Czechoslovakia, telling the people how to save their country after it has already been lost to Russia.

Radio Stations And Newspapers Not Alike

The Federal Communications Commission, which has been taking testimony on whether it should revoke its ban, in effect for seven years, against editorializing by radio stations, heard two diametrically opposite assertions. One witness said broadcasters should be "completely free"—as they were until seven years ago —to air their views. As free as newspapers. Another said they should be strictly "policed."

This clash of opinion illustrates how far apart it is possible for two people to be on this issue. It therefore throws some light on the difficulty of the problem the FCC is now reviewing. If it seems reasonable to one person that a radio station should have the same right as a newspaper to try to influence the public, how is it that another wants the industry restricted even further?

Whether more government surveillance is needed is not, however, at stake just now. The question is whether broadcasters should be freed of the existing restraint. Perhaps a Yankee answer—another question—is the best way to get at this problem. Can a radio station be "completely free" to take stands on controversial matters?

The broadcast band is limited and can accommodate only a certain number of radio stations. A governmental agency allocates wave lengths and issues licenses. It can withdraw licenses if it sees fit on a showing that its rules have not been complied with.

Suppose newspapers were similarly licensed and were therefore similarly dependent on a federal board for their existence. Would they be as free as they are now to editorialize? Would the public have confidence in what they said? Or would they be cautious and thus lose whatever influence they have? These queries at least demonstrate that to argue that radio stations and newspapers should enjoy the same freedom is to make a false assumption—that they are alike. They are not.

There has been much speculation over purchase by the Army of 161,172 chairs, but no one has advanced the supposition that we will sit out the next war.

HOW TO KEEP WELL

By Dr. Theodore R. Van Dellen

To the limit of space, questions pertaining to the prevention of disease will be answered. Personal replies will be made, under proper limitations, when return stamped envelope is enclosed. Dr. Van Dellen will not make diagnoses or prescribe for individual diseases.

Headaches From Neck Injuries

Injuries to the neck are common and, unless stiffness and pain are marked or persistent, most of us are inclined to forget the incident. All too soon some damage is done and years later, symptoms appear.

Dr. Van Dellen

Many vital structures are crowded into a tiny space in the neck area and the openings in the vertebrae through which the nerves exit are small. This makes them more vulnerable to pressure and irritation which in turn leads to discomfort in the shoulder, arm, neck, or head. Infection, arthritis, ruptured disc, hemorrhage, and trauma are the most common factors in producing distress. A whiplash type of injury, in which the head is thrown backward or forward forcibly with a recoil in the opposite direction, is most likely to result in sprain. This may happen to a person in an automobile accident especially when there is a head-on collision or should a standing car be bumped from the rear.

A blow to the upper part of the body or a fall directly on the head may do the same. Now and then the supportive tissues surrounding the vertebrae also become stretched when the neck is jerked by a sudden forceful pull on the arm such as occurs in calf roping or parachute jumping. A single mishap may be responsible but in many instances it is the cumulative effect of several.

Months or years after the injury, a clicking sound, soreness, or stiffness in the neck may be the first indication. This is particularly true if the four upper vertebrae are involved. Many complain of headache which starts at the back of the neck or base of the skull and proceeds upward over one or both sides of the cranium. The symptom resembles migraine so that the real cause may escape detection. The vertebrae and their neighboring sites are always suspected when head movements or maintaining a certain position over a long period of time brings on or aggravates the manifestations. For example, flexing the neck while sewing, reading, writing, or knitting may initiate headache; and the same possibility is present when the driver of a car with a low front seat must strain to see over the steering wheel. Poor sleeping posture should be considered whenever distress awakens the individual in the wee hours. Abnormalities confined to the vertebrae in the lowermost part of the neck encourage a slightly different type of difficulty; the shoulders or arms bear the brunt and many complain of numbness and tingling of the fingers particularly while lying in bed.

X-rays will generally disclose the true situation. Several films are necessary, one from the front and three or more from the side during which time the head is held in various positions.

Correcting faulty posture and not holding the neck in one position may affect a cure. If headache or soreness develop while reading, the desk chair may be lowered or a stand obtained to hold the reading material at eye level. Raising the auto seat or sitting on a pillow will minimize strain while driving. Much can be accomplished by changing the sleeping posture or using a contour pillow that fits the natural curve of the neck. If pain is acute, relief frequently follows heat, the injection of novocaine or the application of traction for 2 or 3 days. Various medicines are available that can be taken hypodermically or in tablet form.

It Says Here

By BOB HOPE

Tickets will soon go on sale for the first appearance of the Metropolitan Opera . . . and I'll be there with bells on . . . yes, sir, bells on . . . I have the Eskimo pie concession in the balcony.

It's not going to be some second-rate road company. The original, top-notch New York stars will sing. In fact, they are even sending along the original garlic.

The usual California informality will be out and everything will be strictly formal. In fact, even the girls in the lobby will sell nothing but starched popcorn.

The Metropolitan is the most successful and artistic musical organization in the world and should draw capacity crowds, but you know Los Angeles audiences. So, as an added attraction, during intermission the management is putting on hot rod races in the aisles.

Of course, there won't be any diamond horseshoe. Californians will do it their own way. They'll have an orange pulp horseshow, studded with sardine scales.

All the Hollywood stars are eagerly looking forward to the event and getting ready for it. In fact, Esther Williams has already ordered her ermine bathing suit.

When my friends heard I was going to attend the Metropolitan, they asked if I were going to take opera glasses. That seems so unnecessary. I usually drink the water right out of the fountain.

Colonna has been approached several times by the Metropolitan and they made him a very good proposition. And Jerry was so impressed he almost weakened and took out a policy.

The Washington Merry-Go-Round

Democratic Leaders Embarrassed Over Asking Truman Not To Run; Democrats Need Time To Build Up New Candidate; Republicans Renege On Civil Rights

Says DREW PEARSON

WASHINGTON, March 10—It has now been nearly four years since Democratic party moguls met at a secret White House dinner and persuaded Franklin Roosevelt to accept Senator Truman of Missouri as Vice President. They knew then, of course, that the chances of FDR's living through the next four years were slim.

Present at that dinner were Ed Flynn of the Bronx, Mayor Ed Kelly of Chicago, Mayor Hague of Jersey City, and Bob Hannegan. Today, almost the same Democratic moguls convene at the White House. And despite this week's announcement that Truman is a candidate, they still hope they can deftly dislodge from office the man they put in.

They know in advance that this will not be easy—for two reasons: 1, the embarrassment of breaking the news to Truman; 2, finding another candidate who can win.

Two years ago all this would have been easy. At that time, Truman himself was saying he did not want to be President. But no man likes to retreat under fire, and Truman's ideas on this are well illustrated by the staunch support given such friends as Ed Pauley and Brig. Gen. Wallace Graham when they were under fire for speculating.

However, the party moguls have promised each other privately that they will be hard-boiled and tell the President the truth—namely that the chance of victory with him at the head of the ticket is nil.

If they do this, then finding a candidate to take Truman's place will not be easy. Chief Justice Fred Vinson of Kentucky would be acceptable to the South, but wouldn't arouse too much enthusiasm in the North. Supreme Court Justice William O. Douglas is a great administrator and would have the advantage of probably persuading Henry Wallace to withdraw. Henry Kaiser would be popular in the West, with labor and with small business men.

However, it takes time to build up any candidate. And while it's not too late, the sooner the Democrats get busy, the better their chances.

That's the problem facing Democratic moguls as they walk into the White House today.

Secret Jim Crow Vote

The voting record was ordered burned and every Congressman was sworn to secrecy when the House Appropriations Committee voted on the dynamite-laden subject of barring Federal money to universities and hospitals which refuse to admit Negroes.

Secret, also, was the word passed down by Republican leaders against this anti-Jim Crow amendment. However, Congressman Frank Keefe of Wisconsin, Republican, was adamant that his party go on record one way or the other for a practical application of civil rights.

"You can talk about anti-lynching bills and abolition of Jim Crow laws," Keefe said, "but here is a practical way to show where the Federal Government stands — by withholding money from institutions which discriminate against the Negro."

Most vigorous opposition to Keefe's amendment, during the secret committee debate, came from Florida's Democratic Joe Hendricks.

"The North licked us in the Civil War, but not through superior bravery or ability," he said. "It was by sheer force of manpower. We lost that fight, but we're not going to lose this one. Blood will run before we will give in!

"The Southern States will never under any circumstance accept a dollar of Federal money, if we have to let niggers into our higher institutions," continued Hendricks. "We intend to maintain segregation in the South!"

He appealed to the Republicans to help the Southern bloc vote down Keefe's amendment, reminding them that Florida once voted for Herbert Hoover.

"Florida voted for Hoover because Al Smith was a Catholic," snapped Keefe. "That's just another example of intolerance."

The Secret Rollcall

Hendricks was followed by George Andrews of Alabama, Albert Gore of Tennessee, Jamie Whitten of Mississippi, John Kerr of North Carolina, George Mahon of Texas and Albert Thomas of Texas, who pled that the South be given time to work out its tough Negro problem.

"We could get along with the Negroes all right if the Northerners would leave us alone," charged Andrews of Alabama.

Backed against the wall, Keefe got little help from his Republican colleagues.

"There is no discrimination by the tax collector," he argued. "He collects taxes from whites and Negroes alike. Yet Negroes can't be admitted to universities and hospitals which they help pay for.

"Disease knows no racial barriers," Keefe continued. "With Negro life expectancy ten years less than whites, it presents a serious problem."

In the final secret vote, Keefe was deserted by all his Republican colleagues except three: Gordon Canfield of New Jersey, Ralph Church of Illinois and Karl Andersen of Minnesota. Two Northern Democrats, Thomas O'Brien of Illinois and John Fogarty of Rhode Island, also voted with him.

The 25 Congressmen who secretly voted against the amendment were: Republicans—Taber, N. Y.; Wigglesworth, Mass.; Plumley, Vt.; Engel, Mich.; Johnson, Ind.; Jensen, Ia.; Ploeser, Mo.; Tibbott, Pa.; Fenton, Pa.; Griffiths, Ohio; Stockman, Ore.; Scrivner, Kansas; Clevenger, Ohio.

Democrats—Cannon, Mo.; Kerr, N. C.; Mahon, Texas; Sheppard, Calif.; Thomas, Tex.; Hendricks, Fla.; Norrell, Akr.; Gore, Tenn.; Whitten, Miss.; Andrews, Ala.; Gary, Va.; Bates, Ky.

Merry-Go-Round

At the time Franklin Roosevelt died he was writing a book—not on politics, not on the war—but on the father of the American Navy—John Paul Jones. Elliott Roosevelt has discovered this unfinished manuscript on John Paul Jones and is editing it for publication . . . . The Army and Navy next year will ask Congress for about four billion dollars to develop jet-propelled planes. . . . Henry Grady of San Francisco will be the new U. S. Ambassador to China. . . . The Jewish War Veterans of America have decided to run three Friendship Trains to Cyprus and Palestine.

U. S. Not Expected To Permit Italy Seizure By Communists

By MARK SULLIVAN

Senate debate on the Marshall Plan for European recovery began on the first day of March and is expected to continue until about the middle. Thereafter will come debate in the House. Final enactment of the measure, with such changes as may be made, is expected during early April.

During the very weeks of this debate there has taken place a deep-reaching change in the nature of the plan, an enlargement at once of its scope and its urgency.

The plan began last June as a plan for the economic recovery of Europe. It was—and this is now somewhat forgotten—for the recovery of all Europe, including Russia. But the Russian heads refused to participate and and forced their satellite countries to refuse.

This led to the second stage of the plan. The Russian refusal was plain notice of what we had already begun to understand vaguely—that the Russian heads did not wish Europe to recover. They wanted European countries and people to remain in distress, to the end that Russia and Communism might more readily dominate them.

Becomes Resisting Plan

With recognition of this, ERP became a plan for resisting advance of Russia and Communism into Western Europe. The 16 nations of Western Europe formed an organization for mutual self-help, to be accompanied by aid from us. By this they could achieve economic health. And with economic health would come the ability and the will to resist succumbing to Communism. That was the purpose of ERP as it stood throughout the summer and fall.

All was to be economic only. The union of the 16 European nations was to be for economic cooperation only, wiping out or reducing tariff barriers and the like. Talk of wider purposes, though it arose sporadically, was generally taboo. The aid from us was to be economic only, funds and goods.

This stage of ERP changed, suddenly, on February 23. The change came with the seizure of Czechoslovakia by Russian Communism. At once it was realized that ERP would not have saved that country, it was not among the 16 nations intended to be beneficiaries of ERP. Even had Czechslovakia been in ERP, and had ERP been in operation, it was doubtful if economic help alone would have been enough. There was recognition of the effectiveness of the Communist technique, composed of infiltration, conspiracy and intimidation. It was realized also that the Russian and Communist heads are ruthless and determined, that what they did to Czechoslovakia they would do to other countries, and this was proved by the step they quickly took about Finland.

"Military" Replaces "Economic"

Quickly, in discussions of ERP and our aid in it, the word "economic" was supplemented by the word "military." To the steps of the 16 European nations toward economic cooperation was added a suggestion of mutual self-help for military defense against aggression. This brought consideration of a corresponding change in the nature of our help to ERP. Accompanying that and going beyond that are other proposed steps by us, military in nature, to check the advance of Russian Communism into Western Europe and toward us. In Congress, proposals of this kind almost overshadow the debate abont terminal details or ERP.

Consideration of the use of force to check Russian Communism centers concretely upon Italy. In that country on April 19 is to be an election. A common surmrise, and occasion of corcern, is that the Communist heads may use this election as an opportunity for seizing Italy. It would not take place as a direct result of the election, the Communists have never won a majority in a free election in any country, and cannot hope to do so in this one.

The Communist aim and technique is to so add to their strength as to be able to demand key posts in the these posts achieve seizure. This government and later, by use of is the Communist technique as practiced in Czechoslovakia.

In any event it can be assumed that our government will not permit seizure of Italy by the Communists, and will take whatever steps may be necessary at whatever time action is called for. This is as well recognized in Moscow as in Washington, and the recognition may itself postpone attempt at seizure, for it is part of the Russian Communist technique to avoid provoking the United States to action.

No Surprise In Decision Of MacArthur Regards Presidency

By DAVID LAWRENCE

WASHINGTON, March 10—Military heroes have risen to the presidency in America since the founding of the Republic, so there is no surprise in the decision of General MacArthur to accept nomination if it is offered to him.

But Washington, Jackson, Taylor, Grant and Theodore Roosevelt were younger men when they became the Chief Executive—younger than General MacArthur, who was 68 in January.

Without doubt General MacArthur has done an outstanding job in the Far East and possesses more of the glamor of heroism than any other military man of today. The assumption, however, that this qualifies him for the presidency is a reflection on the intelligence of the electorate. For it means that the citizens vote for a name or a reputation and do not concern themselves with actual experience or personal qualifications for the highest post in the government.

Curiously enough, of all the military men of our times, General MacArthur is perhaps the broadest in intellectual stature. He has also the most powerful attributes of leadership.

Not a Place for Retired Generals

But the presidency is not a place for retired Generals who have finished their military careers. It is a place for men of intimate experience with the art of civilian government itself—the art of adjustment of majority and minority interests in the legislative approach to national problems and of the adjustment also of economic interests as between the various classes which make up our complex society.

General MacArthur is a great man. He is just and fair. Had he chosen national politics thirty or forty years ago, he might well have been President before now. His aptitude for national questions is extraordinary. This correspondent first knew MacArthur as a major in the War Department in 1916. He was the most popular public-relations officer of those troublous times which preceded our entry into World War I. He would debate on almost any subject, from the tariff to taxation and from foreign policy to labor relations. He has an all-around interest in public affairs. If perchance he were elected President he would not be as rigid as some of the military men who have held civilian office subsequent to their military service.

General MacArthur is forthright when he says he would accept if asked to serve. He differs with General Eisenhower by stating that a call to the presidency is a call to public service which no man can really refuse.

Logic is on the side of General MacArthur only on that point. General Eisenhower perceived the dangers of introducing into the presidency a man unacquainted with the forces of political life. General MacArthur, for instance, has been out of the United States a substantial part of his adult life. He does not have the feel of American economics nor of the pressures for position which make up the conflicts between groups and which—whether one likes it or not —produce the chief task of reconciliation and adjustment for a President of the United States and a party leader.

Would Find Position Changed

General MacArthur is accustomed to giving orders and to writing directives. As party leader, he would find himself the recipient of orders from the political groups that influence the day-by-day conduct of party government, especially in Congress.

There is something disappointing in the theory that the American people will vote for a well-advertised name about whose capacity to perform the duties of the presidency they know little and will not vote for less popular figures who are admittedly trained by experience for the presidency.

Dewey as governor of New York two times, Stassen as a former governor of Minnesota, Taft as a Senator elected twice from one of the most populous states in the union, Vandenberg re-elected Senator by the state of Michigan in November 1946 by the largest majority ever achieved in that state and after a campaign in which he took little part due to absence abroad on public business, and Earl Warren who was elected governor of California after receiving the nomination of both political parties—these are the men being prominently mentioned for the Republican nomination, and any one of them would make a better president of the United States than a retired general.

Once General MacArthur were nominated, he would be transformed from the military hero to an ordinary politician. Leaving a highly official post in Japan to enter the rough and tumble of American politics, he would find the burden of explaining why he had done so and what he believes on public questions almost more than could be handled in the brief months of campaigning that precede a national election.

These Days

By GEORGE E. SOKOLSKY

Crisis Constant

FOR 15 years now, the mind of man in every Western country has been assailed by crises, by emergencies, by alarms, by wars, by depressions, by death. How much more can we take?

Now we have passed the March crisis. Each year, Hitler gave us a March crisis. This time it came a few days early in Czechoslovakia and Finland. Now we are taking our stance to meet the April crisis. That will be the Italian election when Togliatti, also known as Ercoli, will seek to take Rome on behalf of Stalin. I say Rome instead of Italy, for somehow Rome seems to be more of a mouthful. Rome stirs memories of Caesar and Apustus and Marcus Aurelius and Caligula; it speaks of a universal civilization and a universal religion; it somehow gives one a feel of the entire Mediterranean—of a wonderful world of creative force over 60 centuries of time.

So in April, what happened in Czechoslovakia may happen in Italy. And who shall prevent it from happening? That is hard to say. There was a time when Great Britain and France might have done something about it, but that time is over. Neither has the capacity to do anything about it. The United Nations certainly can do nothing about Rome if it can do nothing about Jerusalem.

Or, shall we say that if the United Nations could do something about Jerusalem, it could have done something about Rome long before this. For as the United Nations is organized, should Togliatti take over Italy, it would just be an internal affair, just a change of administration. Should Togliatti take over, Tito's troops on the Italian border would be the agents of Togliatti's motherland, Soviet Russia.

As for the United States, it has made so many errors, so many blunders before and since George Marshall became Secretary of State that it is becoming very late to straighten out all the messes these amateurs composed. Not the least of these was the withdrawal of our troops from Italy too soon. This error was only one of a long list of mistakes made at Teheran, Yalta, Potsdam, at San Francisco, at Lake Success, at Paris and London, wherever our great minds joined the Russians in Conference. The Russians always succeeded at these Conferences either in getting what they wanted or in producing a deadlock. One of the most costly mistakes made by George Marshall was the desertion of Chiang Kai-shek and the embargo on arms to China. He missed the point there altogether, as he erred when he took American troops out of Italy too soon.

So here we are. Do not regard this article as too pessimistic, and do not be annoyed that it speaks so unkindly of George Marshall. The fact is that we face a crisis—and he, who is charged with our foreign policy, is fumbling. His mind is too inflexible, too rigidly conditioned by a military life, to be obedient and to be obeyed, to be able to adjust to the fine art of diplomacy.

He believed that Russians could be trusted, just as Jimmy Byrnes once thought that all he needed to do was to meet the Russian eye to eye to talk common sense to him. Well, the Russian did not take to his particular brand of common sense, just as Stalin and Molotov laugh at Marshall's brand. In fact, while Marshall is trying to sell the Marshall Plan (The Bevin Plan, ERP or anything else you want to call it) to Congress, the Russian has taken a few more countries and is preparing for the final pre-war test in Italy.

It is so queer that those responsible see everything too late. Maybe newspaper men and radio commentators are not as trained in international relations as those who sit in Washington, but some of us can establish, from our copy, the record that we have been consistently right when the State Department, and even the White House, was consistently wrong.

This writer began warning his readers concerning Soviet Russia in 1919. And the Russian program has not changed since 1919. Must millions die before the State Department recognizes the facts of life?

The rent controls had their options picked up by Congress and you are sure of a guest-room in the dog-house until May, 1949.

A combination of leap and presidential years sure brings the characters out of the woodwork. Hank Wallace even got himself a running mate on the first bounce.

Hank is one of those fellows who seem to have a private joke that keeps him smiling an octave above normal. Franklin Roosevelt was the some kind of politician and so was many a huckster of the roof-tops.

The lunatic fringe and the crackpot sorority have amalgamated for one final political witches' Sabbath in the twilight zone. They have chalked a mirage out in ten-yard stripes and are using a soap bubble for a football.

How far they get depends on the voter in November. You must beware of the visionary who wants to die in harness. With his head toward the wagon.

General Wedemeyer's Advice To U. S. On China

General Wedemeyer's report on his mission to China last summer is still kept under State Department wraps, but the General frankly spoke his mind on aid to China before the House Foreign Relations Committee. "We are going to pay in blood," he warned, if we cannot stop the spread of Communism —in Asia as well as in Europe. Dollars alone will not do the job in China, any more than they have in Greece. The Administration's program of economic aid to Nanking will be wasted if we do not send Chiang Kai-shek guns, ammunition and planes and competent advisers in their use.

The General hardly needed to add that he and Secretary of State Marshall have "honest differences" of opinion about aid to China. Those differences are deeper than most Americans suspect even now. Since the failure of his mission in 1946, Marshall has been cool toward China, especially military aid. He believes that Chiang cannot govern except through a coalition with the Communists, and that this requires a political house-cleaning and extensive land reforms.

Pressure from Congress, however, has compelled a change in State Department policy on China. Grudgingly, President Truman has asked for $570,000,000 in economic aid. When congressional experts on China insisted on military aid, Marshall indicated that we have actually been helping Chiang's armies more than most Americans—or members of Congress —realize. There is much talk in Washington about a "secret agreement" to provide Chiang with 1,071 transport and military planes.

Such an agreement was made in 1945, and most of the planes have been delivered. But 25 per cent of them arrived in no condition to fly. Another 30 per cent have been useless, owing to lack of repair parts. And in August, 1946, all military aid to China was suspended for 10 months following Marshall's "plague on both your houses" statement.

That stoppage of aid was crucial. The Communists made prodigious gains in Manchuria and in China north of the Yangtze. With rich Manchuria now all but lost, Chiang has begun a desperate offensive to reopen communications with Mukden. He needs our aid today as never before against what Gen. Wedemeyer calls "Communists, trying to further world revolution."

Surely, after what happened to the Czech "coalition with the Communists," it would be criminal folly to withhold military help from Chiang until he imitates Benes. The Truman-Marshall program of economic aid would merely toss $570,000,000 on the ruins of the only bulwark against Communism in the most populous country on earth.

Those who are studying the problem of juvenile delinquency are forced to admit that one of the troubles with children is they too nearly resemble their parents.

While You Are Figuring Your Income Tax For 1947

While you are figuring out your income taxes, due on March 15, you might also figure out what the President's two vetoes last year of the tax-reduction passed by Congress will have cost you.

If your withholding tax is $6.80 a week, then Mr. Truman will have deprived you of $54.60. If you are in the middle brackets and your withholding tax is $19.40 a week, then Mr. Truman will have deprived you of $199 and some cents.

This in the face of the outlook for the biggest surplus in our history—enough to run the Government, take care of our expected 1948 commitments abroad, and make a quite sizable payment on reduction of the national debt. At heart the President is said to be no New Dealer, but in one respect he is. That is to hold on to high taxes and as the late W. C. Fields used to put it, "never give a sucker (taxpayer) an even break."

In point are individual income taxes for the fiscal years 1939 and 1947 respectively—in the former year, $1,029,000,000; in the latter, $19,629,000,000.

State Department is making daily broadcasts to Czechoslovakia, telling the people how to save their country after it has already been lost to Russia.

Radio Stations And Newspapers Not Alike

The Federal Communications Commission, which has been taking testimony on whether it should revoke its ban, in effect for seven years, against editorializing by radio stations, heard two diametrically opposite assertions. One witness said broadcasters should be "completely free"—as they were until seven years ago —to air their views. As free as newspapers. Another said they should be strictly "policed."

This clash of opinion illustrates how far apart it is possible for two people to be on this issue. It therefore throws some light on the difficulty of the problem the FCC is now reviewing. If it seems reasonable to one person that a radio station should have the same right as a newspaper to try to influence the public, how is it that another wants the industry restricted even further?

Whether more government surveillance is needed is not, however, at stake just now. The question is whether broadcasters should be freed of the existing restraint. Perhaps a Yankee answer—another question—is the best way to get at this problem. Can a radio station be "completely free" to take stands on controversial matters?

The broadcast band is limited and can accommodate only a certain number of radio stations. A governmental agency allocates wave lengths and issues licenses. It can withdraw licenses if it sees fit on a showing that its rules have not been complied with.

Suppose newspapers were similarly licensed and were therefore similarly dependent on a federal board for their existence. Would they be as free as they are now to editorialize? Would the public have confidence in what they said? Or would they be cautious and thus lose whatever influence they have? These queries at least demonstrate that to argue that radio stations and newspapers should enjoy the same freedom is to make a false assumption—that they are alike. They are not.

There has been much speculation over purchase by the Army of 161,172 chairs, but no one has advanced the supposition that we will sit out the next war.

HOW TO KEEP WELL

By Dr. Theodore R. Van Dellen

To the limit of space, questions pertaining to the prevention of disease will be answered. Personal replies will be made, under proper limitations, when return stamped envelope is enclosed. Dr. Van Dellen will not make diagnoses or prescribe for individual diseases.

Headaches From Neck Injuries

Injuries to the neck are common and, unless stiffness and pain are marked or persistent, most of us are inclined to forget the incident. All too soon some damage is done and years later, symptoms appear.

Dr. Van Dellen

Many vital structures are crowded into a tiny space in the neck area and the openings in the vertebrae through which the nerves exit are small. This makes them more vulnerable to pressure and irritation which in turn leads to discomfort in the shoulder, arm, neck, or head. Infection, arthritis, ruptured disc, hemorrhage, and trauma are the most common factors in producing distress. A whiplash type of injury, in which the head is thrown backward or forward forcibly with a recoil in the opposite direction, is most likely to result in sprain. This may happen to a person in an automobile accident especially when there is a head-on collision or should a standing car be bumped from the rear.

A blow to the upper part of the body or a fall directly on the head may do the same. Now and then the supportive tissues surrounding the vertebrae also become stretched when the neck is jerked by a sudden forceful pull on the arm such as occurs in calf roping or parachute jumping. A single mishap may be responsible but in many instances it is the cumulative effect of several.

Months or years after the injury, a clicking sound, soreness, or stiffness in the neck may be the first indication. This is particularly true if the four upper vertebrae are involved. Many complain of headache which starts at the back of the neck or base of the skull and proceeds upward over one or both sides of the cranium. The symptom resembles migraine so that the real cause may escape detection. The vertebrae and their neighboring sites are always suspected when head movements or maintaining a certain position over a long period of time brings on or aggravates the manifestations. For example, flexing the neck while sewing, reading, writing, or knitting may initiate headache; and the same possibility is present when the driver of a car with a low front seat must strain to see over the steering wheel. Poor sleeping posture should be considered whenever distress awakens the individual in the wee hours. Abnormalities confined to the vertebrae in the lowermost part of the neck encourage a slightly different type of difficulty; the shoulders or arms bear the brunt and many complain of numbness and tingling of the fingers particularly while lying in bed.

X-rays will generally disclose the true situation. Several films are necessary, one from the front and three or more from the side during which time the head is held in various positions.

Correcting faulty posture and not holding the neck in one position may affect a cure. If headache or soreness develop while reading, the desk chair may be lowered or a stand obtained to hold the reading material at eye level. Raising the auto seat or sitting on a pillow will minimize strain while driving. Much can be accomplished by changing the sleeping posture or using a contour pillow that fits the natural curve of the neck. If pain is acute, relief frequently follows heat, the injection of novocaine or the application of traction for 2 or 3 days. Various medicines are available that can be taken hypodermically or in tablet form.

Of course, there won't be any diamond horseshoe. Californians will do it their own way. They'll have an orange pulp horseshow, studded with sardine scales.

All the Hollywood stars are eagerly looking forward to the event and getting ready for it. In fact, Esther Williams has already ordered her ermine bathing suit.

When my friends heard I was going to attend the Metropolitan, they asked if I were going to take opera glasses. That seems so unnecessary. I usually drink the water right out of the fountain.

Colonna has been approached several times by the Metropolitan and they made him a very good proposition. And Jerry was so impressed he almost weakened and took out a policy.

YOU'D BETTER GET A MOVE ON, LITTLE RED RIDING HOOD

The Washington Merry-Go-Round

Democratic Leaders Embarrassed Over Asking Truman Not To Run; Democrats Need Time To Build Up New Candidate; Republicans Renege On Civil Rights

Says DREW PEARSON

WASHINGTON, March 10—It has now been nearly four years since Democratic party moguls met at a secret White House dinner and persuaded Franklin Roosevelt to accept Senator Truman of Missouri as Vice President. They knew then, of course, that the chances of FDR's living through the next four years were slim.

Present at that dinner were Ed Flynn of the Bronx, Mayor Ed Kelly of Chicago, Mayor Hague of Jersey City, and Bob Hannegan. Today, almost the same Democratic moguls convene at the White House. And despite this week's announcement that Truman is a candidate, they still hope they can deftly dislodge from office the man they put in.

They know in advance that this will not be easy—for two reasons: 1, the embarrassment of breaking the news to Truman; 2, finding another candidate who can win.

Two years ago all this would have been easy. At that time, Truman himself was saying he did not want to be President. But no man likes to retreat under fire, and Truman's ideas on this are well illustrated by the staunch support given such friends as Ed Pauley and Brig. Gen. Wallace Graham when they were under fire for speculating.

However, the party moguls have promised each other privately that they will be hard-boiled and tell the President the truth—namely that the chance of victory with him at the head of the ticket is nil.

If they do this, then finding a candidate to take Truman's place will not be easy. Chief Justice Fred Vinson of Kentucky would be acceptable to the South, but wouldn't arouse too much enthusiasm in the North. Supreme Court Justice William O. Douglas is a great administrator and would have the advantage of probably persuading Henry Wallace to withdraw. Henry Kaiser would be popular in the West, with labor and with small business men.

However, it takes time to build up any candidate. And while it's not too late, the sooner the Democrats get busy, the better their chances.

That's the problem facing Democratic moguls as they walk into the White House today.

Secret Jim Crow Vote

The voting record was ordered burned and every Congressman was sworn to secrecy when the House Appropriations Committee voted on the dynamite-laden subject of barring Federal money to universities and hospitals which refuse to admit Negroes.

Secret, also, was the word passed down by Republican leaders against this anti-Jim Crow amendment. However, Congressman Frank Keefe of Wisconsin, Republican, was adamant that his party go on record one way or the other for a practical application of civil rights.

"You can talk about anti-lynching bills and abolition of Jim Crow laws," Keefe said, "but here is a practical way to show where the Federal Government stands — by withholding money from institutions which discriminate against the Negro."

Most vigorous opposition to Keefe's amendment, during the secret committee debate, came from Florida's Democratic Joe Hendricks.

"The North licked us in the Civil War, but not through superior bravery or ability," he said. "It was by sheer force of manpower. We lost that fight, but we're not going to lose this one. Blood will run before we will give in!

"The Southern States will never under any circumstance accept a dollar of Federal money, if we have to let niggers into our higher institutions," continued Hendricks. "We intend to maintain segregation in the South!"

He appealed to the Republicans to help the Southern bloc vote down Keefe's amendment, reminding them that Florida once voted for Herbert Hoover.

"Florida voted for Hoover because Al Smith was a Catholic," snapped Keefe. "That's just another example of intolerance."

The Secret Rollcall

Hendricks was followed by George Andrews of Alabama, Albert Gore of Tennessee, Jamie Whitten of Mississippi, John Kerr of North Carolina, George Mahon of Texas and Albert Thomas of Texas, who pled that the South be given time to work out its tough Negro problem.

"We could get along with the Negroes all right if the Northerners would leave us alone," charged Andrews of Alabama.

Backed against the wall, Keefe got little help from his Republican colleagues.

"There is no discrimination by the tax collector," he argued. "He collects taxes from whites and Negroes alike. Yet Negroes can't be admitted to universities and hospitals which they help pay for.

"Disease knows no racial barriers," Keefe continued. "With Negro life expectancy ten years less than whites, it presents a serious problem."

In the final secret vote, Keefe was deserted by all his Republican colleagues except three: Gordon Canfield of New Jersey, Ralph Church of Illinois and Karl Andersen of Minnesota. Two Northern Democrats, Thomas O'Brien of Illinois and John Fogarty of Rhode Island, also voted with him.

The 25 Congressmen who secretly voted against the amendment were: Republicans—Taber, N. Y.; Wigglesworth, Mass.; Plumley, Vt.; Engel, Mich.; Johnson, Ind.; Jensen, Ia.; Ploeser, Mo.; Tibbott, Pa.; Fenton, Pa.; Griffiths, Ohio; Stockman, Ore.; Scrivner, Kansas; Clevenger, Ohio.

Democrats—Cannon, Mo.; Kerr, N. C.; Mahon, Texas; Sheppard, Calif.; Thomas, Tex.; Hendricks, Fla.; Norrell, Akr.; Gore, Tenn.; Whitten, Miss.; Andrews, Ala.; Gary, Va.; Bates, Ky.

U. S. Not Expected To Permit Italy Seizure By Communists

By MARK SULLIVAN

Senate debate on the Marshall Plan for European recovery began on the first day of March and is expected to continue until about the middle. Thereafter will come debate in the House. Final enactment of the measure, with such changes as may be made, is expected during early April.

During the very weeks of this debate there has taken place a deep-reaching change in the nature of the plan, an enlargement at once of its scope and its urgency.

The plan began last June as a plan for the economic recovery of Europe. It was—and this is now somewhat forgotten—for the recovery of all Europe, including Russia. But the Russian heads refused to participate and and forced their satellite countries to refuse.

This led to the second stage of the plan. The Russian refusal was plain notice of what we had already begun to understand vaguely—that the Russian heads did not wish Europe to recover. They wanted European countries and people to remain in distress, to the end that Russia and Communism might more readily dominate them.

Becomes Resisting Plan

With recognition of this, ERP became a plan for resisting advance of Russia and Communism into Western Europe. The 16 nations of Western Europe formed an organization for mutual self-help, to be accompanied by aid from us. By this they could achieve economic health. And with economic health would come the ability and the will to resist succumbing to Communism. That was the purpose of ERP as it stood throughout the summer and fall.

All was to be economic only. The union of the 16 European nations was to be for economic cooperation only, wiping out or reducing tariff barriers and the like. Talk of wider purposes, though it arose sporadically, was generally taboo. The aid from us was to be economic only, funds and goods.

This stage of ERP changed, suddenly, on February 23. The change came with the seizure of Czechoslovakia by Russian Communism. At once it was realized that ERP would not have saved that country, it was not among the 16 nations intended to be beneficiaries of ERP. Even had Czechslovakia been in ERP, and had ERP been in operation, it was doubtful if economic help alone would have been enough. There was recognition of the effectiveness of the Communist technique, composed of infiltration, conspiracy and intimidation. It was realized also that the Russian and Communist heads are ruthless and determined, that what they did to Czechoslovakia they would do to other countries, and this was proved by the step they quickly took about Finland.

"Military" Replaces "Economic"

Quickly, in discussions of ERP and our aid in it, the word "economic" was supplemented by the word "military." To the steps of the 16 European nations toward economic cooperation was added a suggestion of mutual self-help for military defense against aggression. This brought consideration of a corresponding change in the nature of our help to ERP. Accompanying that and going beyond that are other proposed steps by us, military in nature, to check the advance of Russian Communism into Western Europe and toward us. In Congress, proposals of this kind almost overshadow the debate abont terminal details or ERP.

Consideration of the use of force to check Russian Communism centers concretely upon Italy. In that country on April 19 is to be an election. A common surmrise, and occasion of corcern, is that the Communist heads may use this election as an opportunity for seizing Italy. It would not take place as a direct result of the election, the Communists have never won a majority in a free election in any country, and cannot hope to do so in this one.

The Communist aim and technique is to so add to their strength as to be able to demand key posts in the these posts achieve seizure. This government and later, by use of is the Communist technique as practiced in Czechoslovakia.

In any event it can be assumed that our government will not permit seizure of Italy by the Communists, and will take whatever steps may be necessary at whatever time action is called for. This is as well recognized in Moscow as in Washington, and the recognition may itself postpone attempt at seizure, for it is part of the Russian Communist technique to avoid provoking the United States to action.

No Surprise In Decision Of MacArthur Regards Presidency

By DAVID LAWRENCE

WASHINGTON, March 10—Military heroes have risen to the presidency in America since the founding of the Republic, so there is no surprise in the decision of General MacArthur to accept nomination if it is offered to him.

But Washington, Jackson, Taylor, Grant and Theodore Roosevelt were younger men when they became the Chief Executive—younger than General MacArthur, who was 68 in January.

Without doubt General MacArthur has done an outstanding job in the Far East and possesses more of the glamor of heroism than any other military man of today. The assumption, however, that this qualifies him for the presidency is a reflection on the intelligence of the electorate. For it means that the citizens vote for a name or a reputation and do not concern themselves with actual experience or personal qualifications for the highest post in the government.

Curiously enough, of all the military men of our times, General MacArthur is perhaps the broadest in intellectual stature. He has also the most powerful attributes of leadership.

Not a Place for Retired Generals

But the presidency is not a place for retired Generals who have finished their military careers. It is a place for men of intimate experience with the art of civilian government itself—the art of adjustment of majority and minority interests in the legislative approach to national problems and of the adjustment also of economic interests as between the various classes which make up our complex society.

General MacArthur is a great man. He is just and fair. Had he chosen national politics thirty or forty years ago, he might well have been President before now. His aptitude for national questions is extraordinary. This correspondent first knew MacArthur as a major in the War Department in 1916. He was the most popular public-relations officer of those troublous times which preceded our entry into World War I. He would debate on almost any subject, from the tariff to taxation and from foreign policy to labor relations. He has an all-around interest in public affairs. If perchance he were elected President he would not be as rigid as some of the military men who have held civilian office subsequent to their military service.

General MacArthur is forthright when he says he would accept if asked to serve. He differs with General Eisenhower by stating that a call to the presidency is a call to public service which no man can really refuse.

Logic is on the side of General MacArthur only on that point. General Eisenhower perceived the dangers of introducing into the presidency a man unacquainted with the forces of political life. General MacArthur, for instance, has been out of the United States a substantial part of his adult life. He does not have the feel of American economics nor of the pressures for position which make up the conflicts between groups and which—whether one likes it or not —produce the chief task of reconciliation and adjustment for a President of the United States and a party leader.

Would Find Position Changed

General MacArthur is accustomed to giving orders and to writing directives. As party leader, he would find himself the recipient of orders from the political groups that influence the day-by-day conduct of party government, especially in Congress.

There is something disappointing in the theory that the American people will vote for a well-advertised name about whose capacity to perform the duties of the presidency they know little and will not vote for less popular figures who are admittedly trained by experience for the presidency.

Dewey as governor of New York two times, Stassen as a former governor of Minnesota, Taft as a Senator elected twice from one of the most populous states in the union, Vandenberg re-elected Senator by the state of Michigan in November 1946 by the largest majority ever achieved in that state and after a campaign in which he took little part due to absence abroad on public business, and Earl Warren who was elected governor of California after receiving the nomination of both political parties—these are the men being prominently mentioned for the Republican nomination, and any one of them would make a better president of the United States than a retired general.

Once General MacArthur were nominated, he would be transformed from the military hero to an ordinary politician. Leaving a highly official post in Japan to enter the rough and tumble of American politics, he would find the burden of explaining why he had done so and what he believes on public questions almost more than could be handled in the brief months of campaigning that precede a national election.

These Days

By GEORGE E. SOKOLSKY

Crisis Constant

FOR 15 years now, the mind of man in every Western country has been assailed by crises, by emergencies, by alarms, by wars, by depressions, by death. How much more can we take?

Now we have passed the March crisis. Each year, Hitler gave us a March crisis. This time it came a few days early in Czechoslovakia and Finland. Now we are taking our stance to meet the April crisis. That will be the Italian election when Togliatti, also known as Ercoli, will seek to take Rome on behalf of Stalin. I say Rome instead of Italy, for somehow Rome seems to be more of a mouthful. Rome stirs memories of Caesar and Apustus and Marcus Aurelius and Caligula; it speaks of a universal civilization and a universal religion; it somehow gives one a feel of the entire Mediterranean—of a wonderful world of creative force over 60 centuries of time.

So in April, what happened in Czechoslovakia may happen in Italy. And who shall prevent it from happening? That is hard to say. There was a time when Great Britain and France might have done something about it, but that time is over. Neither has the capacity to do anything about it. The United Nations certainly can do nothing about Rome if it can do nothing about Jerusalem.

Or, shall we say that if the United Nations could do something about Jerusalem, it could have done something about Rome long before this. For as the United Nations is organized, should Togliatti take over Italy, it would just be an internal affair, just a change of administration. Should Togliatti take over, Tito's troops on the Italian border would be the agents of Togliatti's motherland, Soviet Russia.

As for the United States, it has made so many errors, so many blunders before and since George Marshall became Secretary of State that it is becoming very late to straighten out all the messes these amateurs composed. Not the least of these was the withdrawal of our troops from Italy too soon. This error was only one of a long list of mistakes made at Teheran, Yalta, Potsdam, at San Francisco, at Lake Success, at Paris and London, wherever our great minds joined the Russians in Conference. The Russians always succeeded at these Conferences either in getting what they wanted or in producing a deadlock. One of the most costly mistakes made by George Marshall was the desertion of Chiang Kai-shek and the embargo on arms to China. He missed the point there altogether, as he erred when he took American troops out of Italy too soon.

So here we are. Do not regard this article as too pessimistic, and do not be annoyed that it speaks so unkindly of George Marshall. The fact is that we face a crisis—and he, who is charged with our foreign policy, is fumbling. His mind is too inflexible, too rigidly conditioned by a military life, to be obedient and to be obeyed, to be able to adjust to the fine art of diplomacy.

He believed that Russians could be trusted, just as Jimmy Byrnes once thought that all he needed to do was to meet the Russian eye to eye to talk common sense to him. Well, the Russian did not take to his particular brand of common sense, just as Stalin and Molotov laugh at Marshall's brand. In fact, while Marshall is trying to sell the Marshall Plan (The Bevin Plan, ERP or anything else you want to call it) to Congress, the Russian has taken a few more countries and is preparing for the final pre-war test in Italy.

It is so queer that those responsible see everything too late. Maybe newspaper men and radio commentators are not as trained in international relations as those who sit in Washington, but some of us can establish, from our copy, the record that we have been consistently right when the State Department, and even the White House, was consistently wrong.

This writer began warning his readers concerning Soviet Russia in 1919. And the Russian program has not changed since 1919. Must millions die before the State Department recognizes the facts of life?

The rent controls had their options picked up by Congress and you are sure of a guest-room in the dog-house until May, 1949.

Rates on residential boilers and private packing cases remain the same. The fifteen per cent raise is pegged at fifteen. But you can always move a peg in cribbage or economics.

The housing expediter had his title switched to rent administrator. It all means the same on the first of the month.

They may keep postponing the answer but they will have to play that double-header sooner or later.

A combination of leap and presidential years sure brings the characters out of the woodwork. Hank Wallace even got himself a running mate on the first bounce.

Hank is one of those fellows who seem to have a private joke that keeps him smiling an octave above normal. Franklin Roosevelt was the some kind of politician and so was many a huckster of the roof-tops.

The lunatic fringe and the crackpot sorority have amalgamated for one final political witches' Sabbath in the twilight zone. They have chalked a mirage out in ten-yard stripes and are using a soap bubble for a football.

How far they get depends on the voter in November. You must beware of the visionary who wants to die in harness. With his head toward the wagon.

Australia Boosts Export Totals

CANBERRA. (AP)—The value of Australia's exports for the current financial year is estimated by the Bureau of Agriculture Economics at 390 million pounds. This is 27 per cent more than last year and 182 per cent more than the five-year prewar average.

The big increase is explained by the rise in world prices for pastoral and farm products and a good season in most parts of the commonwealth. Wheat and wool will represent about 57 per cent of total.

British Royalty Postpones Trips

LONDON — (AP) — Official court sources say all plans for future royal tours of the British commonwealth have been shelved for the time being because of the nation's economic troubles.

The success of the South African trip early last year prompted suggestions that the royal family visit Australia and New Zealand in 1948. A Buckingham palace spokesman said it was decided to wait for a more favorable time.

Earlier Princess Elizabeth announced that she and Prince Philip planned no travels abroad this year.

Rev., Mrs. W. A. Judy To Mark 46th Anniversary

Couple Will Be Honored At Dinner

Rev. and Mrs. W. A. Judy, Cresaptown, will celebrate their 46th wedding anniversary tomorrow. The original plans had been for a trip to New York but since Rev. Judy is recuperating from the flu, the celebration will consist of a dinner in their honor, given by Mr. and Mrs. Martha Johnson, their son-in-law and daughter, at their home in Cresaptown, after which the group will come to Cumberland for the evening.

The former Miss Bertha Robb, daughter of the late Mr. and Mrs. John Robb, Lewisburg, Pa., and later of Cass, W. Va., became the bride of William Andrew Judy, son of the late Mr. and Mrs. James Allen Judy, Ronceverte, W. Va., March 12, 1902.

The wedding ceremony was solemnized in the Baker Hotel, Washington, D. C., by Rev. Wycliff, a Methodist Minister, with Mr. and Mrs. Clyde Furbush, Portland, Me., as their attendants. The plans had been made to have the wedding in Cass, W. Va., where the bride's father was in the lumber business and owned and operated the hotel, but the night before the wedding the hotel was almost completely destroyed by fire from a defective flue. So the young couple decided to go to Washington for their wedding instead of just for the wedding trip. Upon arriving there, however, they found the West Virginia license could not be used and they decided to get a second one in the District of Columbia.

At the time of their marriage Rev. Judy was a telegraph operator for the railroad and remained with it for about five years, before entering the Theological Seminary at Westminster. Upon graduation, his first crarge was at Rawlings; from there he went to Midland. When his health failed he got employment with the Celanese Corporation and has been there for the past 23 years as an accountant. A member of the Cresaptown Methodist Church he has taught the Men's Bible Class for the past 25 years and is a member of the choir. His hobby is reading.

Mrs. Judy's hobby is home economics. A member of the Cresaptown Methodist Church, she is a member of the choir, an active worker in the church, corresponding secretary of the Women's Society of Christian Service, secretary and assistant teacher of the Golden Rule Bible Class and president of the Cresaptown Women's Christian Temperance Union.

Rev. and Mrs. Judy are the parents of five children, of whom one daughter is living, Mrs. Ruth Judy Johnson. They have two grandchildren, Judith Ann and Martin William.

Ben's Bride Gets Chickenhearted

Ben Ryder was mighty proud of his young bride when she offered to care for his new flock of baby chicks. "Just like a mother with her brood," he boasts.

Then came market time for fryers—and the crisis! Sue simply wouldn't let Ben near her chickens with an axe. She'd raised them as babes . . . she'd named them . . . they were her very own!

Ben poured himself a glass of beer, to think things over sensibly. He hated to lose the price on fryers . . . but he figured Sue had put up with his peculiarities, he guessed he could put up with her fondness for the chickens.

So now Ben has the nicest brood of laying hens in town, and from where I sit, one of the most successful marriages, too. All because he "lived-and-let-live"—literally. And whenever he wants fried chicken, he takes his bride over to Andy's Garden Tavern for a crisp wing and a glass of beer.

There's New Glamour in the Way it Goes

TAKE the glamour of its tapered gracefulness for granted, if you will. One glance tells you it's tops.

Take an inside peek at its newly fashioned interiors—and see if you're not dazzled by the luxury that greets your eyes.

But wait—just wait—till you learn what makes this banner beauty run off with the year's high honors on the highway. Dollars to drachmas—you'll fairly itch to get in and GO!

For now your right foot commands a Fireball power plant that's as eager as a panther on the prowl—yet is so quieted in purr and pulse you barely sense its telltale throb.

Now you slip through traffic or light out cross-country as relaxed as a baby with his bottle—in a body that's bountifully big, cozily cushioned, and insulated against the usual noises of traveling.

Now you experience the first scientific system ever devised to shield a car's ride against road noise, shake and the vibration build-up that previously took advantage of an automobile's tendency to play sound box.

Now you ride the washboard roads and cobbles as though they were carpet—thanks to coil springs all around—plus extra-low-pressure tires, carried on Buick's own wider, more stable Safety-Ride rims.

And last but best, if a Roadmaster's your choice, you can enjoy the really effortless driving—in a new kind of drive that not only frees you of gear-shifting, but that doesn't even shift itself!

It's Dynaflow Drive*—a drive that's devoid of all halt, lag and hesitation through all speed ranges—because here, for the first time, the power plant itself does what gears used to do.

Fact is, you'll find the new Buick sparkling with more than a score of new advances — in ten brilliant models that span three series and give you your choice of three wheelbases and four power ratings.

So why dally? Here, certainly, is the dilly of the year for smartness and roominess—for the newest in driving ease and riding relaxation—and for all those basic bounties that are forever Buick's.

Place your order with your dealer now—whether or not you have a car to trade—and hasten the day when you'll reach those motoring heights you hanker for.

*Optional at extra cost on Roadmaster models only.

THE HISTORY of Cumberland is one of steady growth both in industry and civil affairs since early colonial days. Stability has been the foundation of all progress, whether civic or economic and each forward step has been carefully planned and well executed.

We have only to glance about us today to see that many long familiar landmarks in the city are fast disappearing—an indication of further growth and progress. Flood control, overhead traffic arteries, improved streets and public utilities, new construction in commercial and residential fields all have their place in the future of Cumberland—with some already becoming a reality.

From a small colonial outpost Cumberland has grown to industrial importance during the past century and may well continue on its way to still greater prominence in days to come.

Stability has also keynoted the progress of The First National Bank of Cumberland. During its one hundred and thirty seven years of service to the people of the community, this banking institution has maintained its reputation for sound, conservative banking practices. The present and future policies of The First National Bank are based upon the principles of helpful and conservative banking in a friendly and progressive city.

Woman's Present Unhappiness Price She Pays For Doing Wrong

By BEATRICE FAIRFAX

Famous Authority on Problems of Love and Marriage

Dear Miss Fairfax:

I am a woman of 33 who was married at 16. I was very happy always until I got too much freedom from my husband. I love him very much, but always thought he didn't love me.

Now my husband has found out that I went out with a younger man and it has hurt him very much. I never realized he loved me so much. He thinks that I fell in love with this man, but he meant nothing to me. It was just one of those wild flings, because I thought my husband didn't love me.

Now I am afraid he has lost all his love for me, and I want to win him back. We have three children and a very nice home, and all I want is forgiveness and a new start, so that I can be a good wife and mother. I am so sorry.

"A. L."

Dear "A. L.": It is possible that what your husband has lost is his faith in you, and not his love for you. Surely, if you took advantage of this trust of his to deceive him, you could hardly blame him if he now shows that he no longer feels the same toward you. Being sorry for having done wrong, unfortunately, never cancels out the consequences. I am afraid you will have to consider your present unhappiness as the price you are paying for what you did.

On the other hand, if you center all your thoughts now on making as happy a home as possible for your husband and your children, and prove to him, by your devotion rather than by promises and expressions of regret, that you want to make amends for the past, it may be that in time he will be willing to forgive and forget. In any event, such a program is your only hope. It is up to you.

Difficult Situation

Dear Miss Fairfax:

I am a Sunday school teacher, and, since the girls in my class are not much younger than myself, we have always shared our problems. The other night a member of my class, a girl of 20, came to me and told me that she was to have a baby in about five months. The 18-year-old boy who is the father refuses to marry her. He said the only way he would marry her was to be forced to do so if she got some sort of court order. He only said that because he knows she will not go to court and make a show of herself.

Is there any such court order that we may obtain?

"A SUNDAY SCHOOL TEACHER"

Dear "Sunday School Teacher": I am afraid that there is no law under which this boy could be forced to mary this girl. He could, of course, be forced to support the child by law, but the girl would first have to prove to the satisfaction of the court that he was actually the father of her child. If the boy chose to deny this and fight the court action, it could result in a great deal of very ugly publicity, which I am sure the girl wishes to avoid.

It would seem to me that the girl's best plan would be to have the baby adopted as soon as it is born, and thereby close the books on this most unfortunate chapter of her life. Of course, if she doesn't wish to do this, however, but preferred to keep the child, counting on financial aid from the father for its support, it would undoubtedly be necessary for her to consult a lawyer about the proper steps to take.

ALONG THE POTOMAC TO WASHINGTON

By J. GLENN BEALL

(Member of Congress from Maryland Sixth District)

Debate on the European Recovery Program legislation started in the Senate the first of last week where it is expected the measure will come to a vote around March 15th. A determined effort will be made by a score or more of Senators to write amendments into the bill which will prevent any of the benefits of American aid to Europe finally reaching Russia or the Soviet satellite nations. It is being claimed that nearly a billion dollars of American money went into Czechoslovakia, in one form or another, between the time the war ended and that country came under the domination of Communist Russia. Over on the House side of the Capitol General Wedemeyer, whose report on China has been suppressed by the Administration, testified before the Foreign Affairs Committee. The General insisted that the furnishing of financial or economic aid to China would not alone be sufficient to stop the spread of Communism in that section of the globe; and if military aid is not given China, America will pay in blood for her failure to extend such aid.

The House had before it for consideration this week legislation to guarantee continued production of synthetic rubber in this country for at least two years to come, with the probability the Government will keep some sort of control over synthetic rubber production for an even longer time. Certain Government-owned rubber plants will be kept in stand-by condition ready to start production on short notice. Others will be sold or leased to private manufacturers, subject to Government control of production. The use of certain amounts of synthetic rubber in the manufacture of tires will be continued.

The Senate is expected to take up the Knutson Tax Reduction Bill soon after the middle of the month, following the Senate vote on the European Relief Program legislation. The Senate Finance Committee has already given its approval to the general plan for reduction of individual income taxes this year, but when the Senate completes its work on the Knutson measure it will probably call for an over-all tax reduction of somewhere between four and one-half and five billion dollars instead of the six billion dollar cut contained in the House Bill.

THE VIERS MILLS VILLAGE PROJECT

Having received several requests and an especially strong one from Brooke Johns, President of the Montgomery County Board of Commissioners, I introduced a Resolution seeking an investigation of the Viers Mill Village Housing Project, located in Montgomery County between Silver Spring and Rockville.

I want to find out just what is back of this whole project—to ascertain whether or not the veteran is actually getting full value for the money he puts into a home. Off hand, I feel that the price of these houses, which will number 1,400 when completed, is far too much for the type of dwelling offered. A complete inquiry into this development has already begun. It's time we know the full facts.

UNDER THE DOME

A delegation from Frederick came to Washington the other day and we went to the Post Office Department in connection with the first day's sale of the Francis Scott Key commemorative stamp. Included in the group were Guy Matter, Postmaster; Charles Bowers, President of the Historical Society; Elmer Eshleman, President of the Chamber of Commerce; Glenn Swisher and Robert Nicodemus.

I introduced a bill that would repeal the District of Columbia business privilege tax, because I feel that this tax is unnecessary and unfair to the average business man.

It's good to report that we were able to get a Bailey bridge from the Public Roads Administration to replace a span destroyed by flood waters near Corriganville.

The Committees were very active this week. Judiciary Committee met in executive session and agreed to recommend favorably H. J. Resolution 9, proposed amendment to the Constitution with respect to the election of the President and Vice President which would abolish the Electoral College, etc. Committee on Un-American Activities conducted an open hearing relative to recent findings of the Civil Service Loyalty Board with reference to Dr. Condon of the Bureau of Standards. Armed Services Legal Sub-Committee met on investigation of disability retirements and heard Secretary of Defense Forrestal and Major General John E. Dahlquist, Department of the Army. Agriculture Committee met on various bills reorganizing the administration and handling of soil conservation activities in the Department of Agriculture.

You may be interested to know that the President signed H. R. 4141 to amend the National Service Life Insurance Act by extending for 2 years the time within which eligible persons may apply for gratuitous insurance benefits.

ROY W. EVES
Candidate for Mayor

TO THE CITIZENS OF CUMBERLAND:

I wish to thank you again for the splendid support given me in the primaries on March 2. I was particularly gratified at the generous vote I received in every section of the city and from all groups. This is indicative of a unified Cumberland and I trust that those who voted for me in the primary, and all others who believe in cooperation in city affairs, will favor me with their support in the general election on March 16, so that during the next two years we may all work together in harmony, with civic progress and improvement of the city as our goal.

I have, during the course of this campaign, stressed the fact that I am not a politician, nor have I made any pre-election commitments or alliances and I would like to again emphasize that statement.

I make no pretense of being able to accomplish the impossible nor do I set myself up as being the only citizen who could fill the office of Mayor. In fact, I know of many men who no doubt could do a better job than I, but who, for one reason or another are most reluctant to assume the role of a candidate for public office.

We know that behind every action taken by a man there lies a motive. My motive in seeking the office of Mayor is the same that has prompted my active participation as a member, director or presiding officer in many of the organizations in Cumberland established for the purpose of Community Welfare, Character Building for our Youth, Business, Charity or Patriotic purposes. I am wedded to the life of our community and consider it a privilege, whenever I am able, to serve its citizens in any capacity. I feel that there are bigger and better things in store for the people of Cumberland from a civic improvement aspect, and I would like to aid my fellow citizens in the attainment of these improvements. That is why I am seeking the office of Mayor.

I have endeavored to conduct my campaign in a spirit of fair play and I would not engage in a political campaign of any other character. By the same token, in fairness to myself and to all candidates who are now seeking municipal office, I should like to caution the voting public to guard against any fallacious and baseless rumors which are so often injected into a political campaign during the last few days before an election.

I am hopeful that the people of Cumberland will give me an opportunity (by voting for me) to serve in the capacity of the captain of their team, the Chief Executive of their City, so that we may all work together for our common good.

ROY W. EVES
Candidate for Mayor

TO THE CITIZENS OF CUMBERLAND:

I wish to thank you again for the splendid support given me in the primaries on March 2. I was particularly gratified at the generous vote I received in every section of the city and from all groups. This is indicative of a unified Cumberland and I trust that those who voted for me in the primary, and all others who believe in cooperation in city affairs, will favor me with their support in the general election on March 16, so that during the next two years we may all work together in harmony, with civic progress and improvement of the city as our goal.

I have, during the course of this campaign, stressed the fact that I am not a politician, nor have I made any pre-election commitments or alliances and I would like to again emphasize that statement.

I make no pretense of being able to accomplish the impossible nor do I set myself up as being the only citizen who could fill the office of Mayor. In fact, I know of many men who no doubt could do a better job than I, but who, for one reason or another are most reluctant to assume the role of a candidate for public office.

We know that behind every action taken by a man there lies a motive. My motive in seeking the office of Mayor is the same that has prompted my active participation as a member, director or presiding officer in many of the organizations in Cumberland established for the purpose of Community Welfare, Character Building for our Youth, Business, Charity or Patriotic purposes. I am wedded to the life of our community and consider it a privilege, whenever I am able, to serve its citizens in any capacity. I feel that there are bigger and better things in store for the people of Cumberland from a civic improvement aspect, and I would like to aid my fellow citizens in the attainment of these improvements. That is why I am seeking the office of Mayor.

I have endeavored to conduct my campaign in a spirit of fair play and I would not engage in a political campaign of any other character. By the same token, in fairness to myself and to all candidates who are now seeking municipal office, I should like to caution the voting public to guard against any fallacious and baseless rumors which are so often injected into a political campaign during the last few days before an election.

I am hopeful that the people of Cumberland will give me an opportunity (by voting for me) to serve in the capacity of the captain of their team, the Chief Executive of their City, so that we may all work together for our common good.

Lonaconing Mill Insurance Plan Conference Set

Aldridge-Thomas Will Confer With Company

Officials of Local 1874, Textile Workers Union of America, CIO, will go to New York today to confer with officials of the General Textile Mills, Inc., on an insurance plan for members of the Lonaconing sub-local.

John G. Thomas, business manager, and Playford Aldridge, president of Local 1874, will represent the sub-local in the insurance talks.

Thomas said the union hopes to secure an insurance plan similar to that in effect at the Celanese plant here or in Viscose plants for the 250-300 workers of the Lonaconing mill.

In the contract agreed upon last July, the company president, Leonard P. Frieder, gave the union a letter stating the firm was studying a proposal for employe insurance and added he would be prepared later to discuss the possibility of introducing an insurance plan in the Lonaconing mill.

The union has asked for a form of sickness, accident and hospitalization insurance modeled after that in effect at the Celanese plant.

The Lonaconing mill can be used to process either rayon or pure silk, and is one of the units of the General Textile chain.

The union on Sunday agreed on proposals for a new contract with the firm and has forwarded the proposals to the company, Thomas said.

Four representatives from Local 1874 will attend a TWUA Synthetic Yarn Conference to be held in Washington Friday.

Aldridge and Thomas will head the local delegation, and will be accompanied by two other members of the local's negotiation committee. James A. Blackwell, this city, national TWUA representative, also expects to attend the conference.

He was born in Cumberland December 8, 1864, and worked at the Footer Dye Works, the Herring Bottling Company and at the old tannery here in his younger days.

His only survivor is a nephew, William Zeiler, 14 Eutaw Place.

The body is at the Stein Funeral Home.

A funeral service for Calvin Junior Kimble, one-year-old son of Leonard and Edna O'Brien Kimble, Patterson's Creek, who died Tuesday night in Allegany Hospital, will be conducted tomorrow at 11 a. m. in Glendale Brethren Church, Flintstone.

Rev. Howard Whitacre, pastor, will officiate and burial will be in the church cemetery.

HARRY C. JACKSON

Harry C. Jackson, 68, 705 Baker Street, B. and O. negro laborer, died yesterday afternoon about 2:45 o'clock while en route to Memorial Hospital.

Mr. Jackson, who suffered a fractured left arm February 26, collapsed in the office of Dr. William B. Baker, B. and O. medical examiner, Park Street.

Dr. H. V. Deming, deputy county medical examiner, said death resulted from a coronary thrombosis.

He was a helper in the B. and O. laundry here and had been employed by the railroad for 37 years.

His wife, Mrs. Lena Couze Jackson, died several years ago. His only survivor is a stepson, Walter Twyman, this city.

HARRY COLE RITES

A funeral service for Harry Cole, 63, well known negro waiter at Ali Ghan Shrine Country Club, who was found dead in bed at his home, 106 North Mechanic Street, yesterday morning, will be conducted tomorrow afternoon at 2 o'clock in the Stein Funeral Home.

Rev. Junius O. Williams, pastor of McKendree Methodist Church, will officiate and burial will be in Sumner Cemetery.

Dr. H. V. Deming, deputy county medical examiner, said the man died of natural causes and set the time of death at 6 a. m.

Rufus R. Ruffner, who resided with Cole, told authorities he awoke before 5 a. m., and went downstairs to the Silver Grill to do some work. He discovered the body upon returning to their room.

He was a member of Fulton Myers Post No. 153, American Legion.

JESSIE TRIMBLE

FROSTBURG — Jessie Trimble, 11-year-old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Jesse Trimble, near Mt. Savage, died last night in Miners Hospital, Frostburg, where she was admitted Tuesday in a serious condition.

Midland Auxiliary

secretary of Allegany County Chapter, American Red Cross, also expressed amazement at the action but declared:

"There are people in Midland who know what Red Cross is doing. Of course, it is the right of this group to take a negative attitude. Red Cross is a democratic organization and is the one organization that anyone can belong to. However, I would like to answer any questions persons in Midland care to ask and explain any misunderstandings that they may have."

Wilson said he will continue in the chairmanship capacity until the drive ends.

Tiny Armless

mains of the tiny body were removed to a Keyser Funeral Home.

Dr. Harry Coffman, county health officer, examined the head and trunk and was quoted as saying the child was but a day or two old and had been born alive.

Further investigation revealed that the body had probably been left on a rat-infested trash pile near the house where it was first seen. Authorities believe it was carried there in a salt or sugar sack, found at the scene.

Whether the dog, rats or other rodents destroyed the limbs and other missing members could not be fully determined, but it was believed possible the child may have been alive when dumped on the trash pile.

Authorities said so much of the child's body was missing that it was difficult to determine its sex. The body was not decomposed, and what remained of it appeared in reasonably good condition, indicating it had been dead only a short time.

Antioch is located off Route 50 about 10 miles from Keyser, W. Va. and five miles from Burlington. This is farming country and is very sparsely settled, authorities said.

Rankin ventured no predictions or opinions in the case, and said a thorough investigation job will be done in an effort to find some clue which might lead to the identity of the tiny victim and to the identity of the person or persons who left it on the rubbish heap.

D And E Stops Potomac State In Finals Tilt

Staters Defeat Glenville, 62-52

By CHARLES R. LEWIS

BUCKHANNON, W. Va., March 10 (AP)—A Davis and Elkins five that suddenly caught fire late in the second period outran Potomac State, 58-50, here tonight in the state college tournament basketball finals.

It was the first D. and E. championship since the Senators won in 1935—the first year the tournament was held—when Potomac also was runnerup. Neiher had been in the finals since. The two teams split regular season games this year.

The title scrap was waged before a packed house of 2,800 that pushed the total attendance for the 11th annual three-day, 14-game meet to a new record of almost 15,000.

D. and E. advanced into the finals by trimming Beckley 68-58 earlier today, while Potomac—improving steadily during the tourney—upset speedy Glenville 62-52. The lineups:

Principals, Coaches Must Buy Tickets

Sale Opens Tomorrow For Schoolboy Games

MORGANTOWN, W. Va., March 10—"Over-the-counter" sale of tickets will open here Friday morning for the 35th annual state high school basketball tournament March 18-20, it was announced tonight by the West Virginia University athletic department which directs the event.

Advance mail orders for "season" tickets were filled and forwarded earlier this week. University officials, reporting the demand "heavy as usual," forecast record attendances for the four sessions.

Tomorrow is the deadline for the filling of priority orders of high school principals and coaches, who have special reserved sections. Under a new ruling this year, principals and coaches are required to purchase their tickets. In the past they were admitted free.

Season reserved seats are priced at $4.65 and season general admissions at $2.75, taxes included. Single session reserved and general admission tickets will be available starting Friday.

Drawings for the state meet will be made here next Sunday following the final results of regional playoffs Saturday night.

Two "Little" Men Are Chosen For 1948 Honor Team

Ralph Beard And Murray Wier Picked

By TED MEIER

NEW YORK, March 10 (AP)—Contrary to the impression in some circles, good "little guys" aren't overlooked in present-day college basketball.

Two of them—one 5-feet 10-inches, the other 5-feet-9—made the 1948 Associated Press All-America cage team, announced today.

Along with a "medium" 6-foot-one-incher and two stretching 6-8 and 6-9.

"Little Guys" Picked

The "little "guys," regarded as among the most difficult men to guard, are Ralph Beard, 5-10, Kentucky junior, and Murray Kier, 5-9, Iowa senior. Kevin "Comet" O'Shea, Notre Dame sophomore, is the "medium" 6-1. Ed MacCauley, 6-8 St. Louis junior, and Jim McIntyre, 6-9 Minnesota junior, are the type of tall men honored.

Beard dominated the balloting from 321 sports editors and writers in 40 states and the District of Columbia whose votes determined the team on a point basis.

Cutting across sectional lines. Beard received 859 points on 153 first team votes and 47 seconds. Five points were awarded for a first team vote, two for second. Thus the 20-year-old Beard, whose speed sparked Kentucky to its fifth Southeastern Conference title and an NCAA tourney bid, polled better than 53 per cent of a possible perfect total.

Groza On Second Team

The voting, in which coaches did not participate, produced a second team of Tony Lavelli, Yale; Alex Groza, Kentucky; Dwight Eddleman, Illinois; Arnold Ferrin, Utah; and George Kaftan, of Holy Cross, defending NCAA champions.

A. I. "Amby" Bennett, of the Oklahoma Aggies, Missouri Valley Conference champs; Dick Dickey, of North Carolina State, Southern Conference champs; Don Forman, New York University, George Kok, Arkansas; and Bob Cousy, Holy Cross, made up a third team.

MacCauley, around whom the St. Louis offensive is built, received the second most points, 662. He had 112 firsts and 51 seconds. His unhurried actions on the floor and accurate "soft" shots from a pivot, gained him his nickname of "Easy Ed." The play of the 19-year-old helped St. Louis win a bid to the National Invitation Tourney.

O'Shea Is Tricky

O'Shea, 187-pound ambidextrous player who features a tricky one-handed shot, received 100 firsts, 48 seconds for 596 points. Although rated only a spohomore he really is a veteran. He starred with Alameda (Calif) Coast Guard during the war and played with the San Francisco Borlo A. C. in the 1945 National AAU tourney in Denver. He overcame the handicap of a trick knee to become Notre Dame's outstanding performer.

Wier, a slim, 150-pounder with a knack of sinking one-handed shots from crazy angles and nearly led Iowa to the Big Nine title in setting an individual conference scoring mark of 272 points. He ranked fourth in the balloting, getting 487 points on 91 firsts and 16 seconds.

Minnesota's McIntyre slumped in his closing games, but still was runnerup to Wier in the Western Conference scoring with 215 points. He received 473 firsts and 54 seconds. McIntyre for several weeks during the season was the nation's top scorer.

Starkey Loses Unpopular Split Decision In Baltimore

Brooks Kayoed In 2:45 Of First

BALTIMORE, Md., March 10 — Randall "Skeets" Starkey, clever Cumberland welterweight fighting under the banner of the Cumberland Amvets dropped a very unpopular 2-1 decision to Richard Bryant of the Baltimore YMCA in the 147-lb. quarter finals of the South Atlantic Association AAU's amateur boxing tournament.

Starkey fought cautiously in the first round, then showed an educated left hand which continuously jabbed Bryant's face to pile up points and draw blood. However Judges Lee Halfpenny and Leon Yarneth gave the nod to Bryant in the first two rounds and Starkey in the third. Referee Buddy McQuade gave the Cumberland boy his only vote.

Decision Unpopular

The decision proved very unpopular with the huge crowd which jammed the Baltimore Gardens — formerly the 104th Regiment Armory—to see the amateur mitt throwers.

The decision was booed tremendously for over five minutes and the announcers were unable to give the names of the fighters in the next bout because of the commotion.

The second Cumberlander, Sheldon "Breezy" Brooks, fighting in the semi-finals of the heavyweight division and also wearing the colors of the Cumberland Amvets, lost by a TKO in 2:45 of the first round to Ernest Lindsay of the Nortwest Police Boys Club of Baltimore, when his seconds threw in the towel after Brooks had taken a terrific beating at the hands of the colored Baltimore puncher. Brooks wen down for a five-count from a right hand to the jaw early in the round.

23 Colored Fighters

Altogether there were 17 matches from 8:15 p. m. to 11:15 and of the 34 boxers who participated 23 were colored.

Besides McQuade, Referee Lee Halfpenny was the third man in the ring for the bouts, while Leon Yarneth, Joseph F. Harris and Walter T. O'Brien were the judges. Halfpenny and McQuade also took turns at judging.

Ridgeley Loses To Moose, 54-51

Comer Top Man With 24 Points

The Cumberland Loyal Order of Moose cagers tripped the Ridgeley Legion quint of the YMCA Senior Men's League last night on the SS. Peter and Paul court by the score of 54 to 51.

The Moose team held a 32-42 lead in the final quarter when both Page and Hollen were injured and with two of their star players out of the lineups the winners suddenly wilted and Ridgeley almost pulled the game out of the fire in the final moments of play.

Quarter scores were 20-10, 28-23 and 43-36 all in favor of the Moose.

Morris paced the winners with 18 points while "Ace" Comer topped the Ridgeley attack with 24 tallies on nine fielders and six of nine fouls: The lineups:

Forty-Fifth ABC Bowling Tourney Begins On Detroit Alleys Today

DETROIT, March 10 (AP) — The 45th American Bowling Congress tournament — biggest, longest and richest in history — opens in Detroit's spacious Fairgrounds Coliseum here tomorrow.

Regardless of scores posted records are bound to fall almost as fast as ten pins, and new ones will stand, ABC officials predict, for at least several years to come.

Here are some of the reasons:

More than 36,000 keglers from 43 states, Canada, Alaska, the Canal Zone and even Sweden will shuttle in and out of the Motor City for the next 80 days.

They will comprise 7,348 teams, 14,006 doubles combinations, 27,951 singles entries and 21,050 all events competitors, all record numbers in quest of a share of an all-time high prize fund of about $450,000.

The team totals are 1,275 above the previous mark set in the same building eight years ago; the doubles entries top a former high set at Buffalo in 1946 by 1,226; the singles numbers are 2,384 over the old record set at the same time, and the all events mark is two and a half times the 1947 figures recorded at Los Angeles.

Of last year's champions, only the Eddy and Earl Linsz team will not be on hand to defend its title, won with a 3,032 score.

Junie McMahon of Chicago will put his 740 singles and his 1,965 all events mark on the line. Len Springmeyer and Eddie Doerr of St. Louis will do the same with their 1,356 doubles title.

The 80 days and nights of pin spilling is eight days longer than the 1942 meet at Columbus, tops until this year.

Although more than 1,000 team entries were turned down, the long stands and 40 newly-built alleys will accommodate the record field. The 1949 tourney at Atlantic City will be staged on 52 alley beds, but will be limited to 60 days and about 6,200 teams.

Beloit Is Favored To Take N.A.I.B. Cage Tournament

KANSAS CITY, March 10 (AP)—Beloit College today became a top favorite in the National Association of Intercollegiate Basketball Tournament by knocking off Lawrence Tech of Detroit, and Manhattan College of New York and Xavier University of Cincinnati also won impressive victories in second round afternoon games.

The Wisconsin cagers, sporting a 22-2 pre-tournament record and a scoring mark of 68.3 points per game, put Tech out of the tournament 78-62. Even the 26-point spree of Norm Hankins, the national major college scoring leader, couldn't save Tech from defeat. Xavier followed with a 57-35 rout of the Connecticut Teachers of New Britain and Manhattan sent Southern Illinois of Carbondale, the 1946 NAIB champions, to the sidelines, 52-42.

Hamline University gave a convincing exhibition tonight in squelching Gonzaga University (Spokane, Wash.) 70-55, to follow Manhattan College, Xavier University of Cincinnati, Indiana State (Terre Haute) and Beloit (Wis.) into the quaterfinals of the National Association of Intercollegiate Basketball tournament.

Indiana State ousted Brigham Young (Provo, Utah), 82-68, in the final afternoon second round game at municipal auditorium.

Kentuckians Are Favored To Beat LaSalle's Quintet

St. Louis Meets Bowling Green Five

By MURRAY ROSE

NEW YORK, March 10—(AP)—Western Kentucky's veteran quintet today was rated a solid choice over LaSalle and St. Louis' Billikins were made slim favorites over Bowling Green for tomorrow's National Invitation Basketball Tourney openers.

A sellout crowd of over 18,000 is expected to pack Madison Square Garden for the curtain-raiser although some 3,000 tickets still were unsold on the eve of the double-header.

The second set of quarter-finals will be held Saturday when Texas (20-4) faces New York U. (20-2) and North Carolina State (29-2) opposes DePaul (21-6). The semi-finals are listed for Monday and the finals for Wednesday, March 17.

Top-seeded Western Kentucky (26-1) is making its third appearance in the NIT and Coach Ed Diddle is bringing in a tall, experienced quintet.

This will be LaSalle's (19-3) first start in the invitation. Young Charley McGlone, the Explorers' coach, is counting heavily on Larry Foust, his 6-9 center, to upset the experts' dope bucket. LaSalle is the tourney's underdog at 20 to 1.

The' LaSalle-Western Kentucky tilt is scheduled to start at 8 p. m. The St. Louis-Bowling Green contest is programmed for 9:45 p. m. although it would be put back in case the opener goes into overtime.

St. Louis, (21-3), seeded fourth behind Western Kentucky, NYU, and N. C. State, is paced by big Ed Macauley, a 6-8 All-America center. He dropped in 315 points in 24 games and has been a constant nuisance to the opposition with his feeding from the bucket.

Bowling Green (27-5) is making its fourth trip to the invitation while this is St. Louis' first. The Ohio Falcons have the tallest starting five in the tourney with Charles Share, 6-10, Mac Otten, 6-6, Stan Weber, 6-5½, John Payak, 6-4, and Leo Kubiak, 5-11.

Tomorrow's victors will meet in the semi-finals Monday which will also match Saturday night's survivors.

Violation Of City Zoning Law Cited In Baseball Suit

BALTIMORE, March 10 (AP)—The city hasn't complied with its own zoning law nor applied for permission to remove its Municipal Stadium, it was testified today.

C. William Brooks, zoning enforcement officer, joined a parade of complaining neighbors seeking an injunction against lease of the stadium to the Orioles of the International Baseball League.

Brooks said the stadium was in "non-conforming use" in a residential area prior to adoption of the zoning law. Further, he said, every extension of property requires an application to the zoning board and that none had been received for contemplated stadium improvements.

Baltimore voters approved last year a $2,500,000 bond issue to improve the stadium. City officials announced the work was being held in abeyance pending outcome of the present suit.

The suit was brought by 27 stadium area residents who charged the Oriole baseball games create a nuisance.

The city, Orioles and International League are defending the municipality's right to lease the stadium to the baseball team.

The complainants continued to occupy the witness stand during the third day of trial.

Charles A. Knight, a railroad supervisor, testified the Oriole baseball games caused a nervous breakdown and family trouble.

The noise of fans prevented him from taking customary rests after supper and "has cost lots of money," as the doctors would tell you," Knight said.

"My wife is near collapse," Knight continued. "We had never had friction in 20 years of married life until my family kept after me to do something about the dust and noise when I came home."

The Orioles started using the Municipal Stadium in 1944 when their own ball park burned down.

Scarlet-White Sextet Takes District Title

Defeat Frederick Girls, 17 To 14

Coach Henrietta Paupe Snyder's Fort Hill School lassies copped the Class "A" District No. 1 basketball championship of the Maryland State tournament last night by defeating Frederick High School's sextet, 17-14, on the Fort Hill floor.

The Scarlet and White misses trailed only once in the nip-and-tuck ball game and that was just after the contest began when Frederick hooped a foul shot to take a momentary 1-0 lead.

Clara Hudson then connected with one of two foul tosses to knot the count at 1-1 before adding a field goal to put Fort Hill in front to stay.

The Sentinel girls held the visiting Frederick county ladies scoreless in the second stanza to take a 10-6 lead at halftime after leading 8-6 at the close of the first quarter.

Coach Helma Hann Bowers' visiting sextet outscored Fort Hill 5-4 in the third period to trail 14-11 as the final quarter began.

Several times in the final half the Frederick girls were able to pull within one point of the Sentinels but were never quite able to catch the high-flying District No. 1 champs.

Fort Hill gained the finals of District No. 1 by defeating Allegany twice and splitting with Beall high School of Frostburg. The Sentinel lassies also copped the WMI League title.

D And E Stops Potomac State In Finals Tilt

The Times-News papers and the Cumberland Junior Association of Commerce in connection with Eller Chevrolet, Inc., will sponsor the official Soap Box Derby here in July or early August.

The date and other details of the derby will be announced later. The champion will be sent to the eleventh annual national finals in Akron, August 15, where he will have a chance to win a four-year college scholarship.

Boys between the ages of 11 and 15 in Cumberland's tri-state area are eligible for the 1948 derby. Each entrant must design and build his own coaster car.

Two "Little" Men Are Chosen For 1948 Honor Team

Ralph Beard And Murray Wier Picked

By TED MEIER

NEW YORK, March 10 (AP)—Contrary to the impression in some circles, good "little guys" aren't overlooked in present-day college basketball.

Two of them—one 5-feet 10-inches, the other 5-feet-9—made the 1948 Associated Press All-America cage team, announced today.

Along with a "medium" 6-foot-one-incher and two stretching 6-8 and 6-9.

"Little Guys" Picked

The "little "guys," regarded as among the most difficult men to guard, are Ralph Beard, 5-10, Kentucky junior, and Murray Kier, 5-9, Iowa senior. Kevin "Comet" O'Shea, Notre Dame sophomore, is the "medium" 6-1. Ed MacCauley, 6-8 St. Louis junior, and Jim McIntyre, 6-9 Minnesota junior, are the type of tall men honored.

Beard dominated the balloting from 321 sports editors and writers in 40 states and the District of Columbia whose votes determined the team on a point basis.

Cutting across sectional lines, Beard received 859 points on 153 first team votes and 47 seconds. Five points were awarded for a first team vote, two for second. Thus the 20-year-old Beard, whose speed sparked Kentucky to its fifth Southeastern Conference title and an NCAA tourney bid, polled better than 53 per cent of a possible perfect total.

Groza On Second Team

The voting, in which coaches did not participate, produced a second team of Tony Lavelli, Yale; Alex Groza, Kentucky; Dwight Eddleman, Illinois; Arnold Ferrin, Utah; and George Kaftan, of Holy Cross, defending NCAA champions.

A. I. "Amby" Bennett, of the Oklahoma Aggies, Missouri Valley Conference champs; Dick Dickey, of North Carolina State, Southern Conference champs; Don Forman, New York University, George Kok, Arkansas; and Bob Cousy, Holy Cross, made up a third team.

MacCauley, around whom the St. Louis offensive is built, received the second most points, 662. He had 112 firsts and 51 seconds. His unhurried actions on the floor and accurate "soft" shots from a pivot, gained him his nickname of "Easy Ed." The play of the 19-year-old helped St. Louis win a bid to the National Invitation Tourney.

O'Shea Is Tricky

O'Shea, 187-pound ambidextrous player who features a tricky one-handed shot, received 100 firsts, 48 seconds for 596 points. Although rated only a spohomore he really is a veteran. He starred with Alameda (Calif) Coast Guard during the war and played with the San Francisco Borlo A. C. in the 1945 National AAU tourney in Denver. He overcame the handicap of a trick knee to become Notre Dame's outstanding performer.

Wier, a slim, 150-pounder with a knack of sinking one-handed shots from crazy angles and nearly led Iowa to the Big Nine title in setting an individual conference scoring mark of 272 points. He ranked fourth in the balloting, getting 487 points on 91 firsts and 16 seconds.

Minnesota's McIntyre slumped in his closing games, but still was runnerup to Wier in the Western Conference scoring with 215 points. He received 473 firsts and 54 seconds. McIntyre for several weeks during the season was the nation's top scorer.

Walter Judnich and Pat Seerey will stay here for batting practice under Hank Greenberg and Dale Mitchell will nurse his ailing back, Manager Lou Boudreau said.

On the outfield problem generally, Boudreau said:

Principals, Coaches Must Buy Tickets

Sale Opens Tomorrow For Schoolboy Games

MORGANTOWN, W. Va., March 10—"Over-the-counter" sale of tickets will open here Friday morning for the 35th annual state high school basketball tournament March 18-20, it was announced tonight by the West Virginia University athletic department which directs the event.

Advance mail orders for "season" tickets were filled and forwarded earlier this week. University officials, reporting the demand "heavy as usual," forecast record attendances for the four sessions.

Tomorrow is the deadline for the filling of priority orders of high school principals and coaches, who have special reserved sections. Under a new ruling this year, principals and coaches are required to purchase their tickets. In the past they were admitted free.

Season reserved seats are priced at $4.65 and season general admissions at $2.75, taxes included. Single session reserved and general admission tickets will be available starting Friday.

Drawings for the state meet will be made here next Sunday following the final results of regional playoffs Saturday night.

Starkey Loses Unpopular Split Decision In Baltimore

Brooks Kayoed In 2:45 Of First

BALTIMORE, Md., March 10—Randall "Skeets" Starkey, clever Cumberland welterweight fighting under the banner of the Cumberland Amvets dropped a very unpopular 2-1 decision to Richard Bryant of the Baltimore YMCA in the 147-lb. quarter finals of the South Atlantic Association AAU's amateur boxing tournament.

Starkey fought cautiously in the first round, then showed an educated left hand which continuously jabbed Bryant's face to pile up points and draw blood. However Judges Lee Halfpenny and Leon Yarneth gave the nod to Bryant in the first two rounds and Starkey in the third. Referee Buddy McQuade gave the Cumberland boy his only vote.

Decision Unpopular

The decision proved very unpopular with the huge crowd which jammed the Baltimore Gardens — formerly the 104th Regiment Armory—to see the amateur mitt throwers.

The decision was booed tremendously for over five minutes and the announcers were unable to give the names of the fighters in the next bout because of the commotion.

The second Cumberlander, Sheldon "Breezy" Brooks, fighting in the semi-finals of the heavyweight division and also wearing the colors of the Cumberland Amvets, lost by a TKO in 2:45 of the first round to Ernest Lindsay of the Nortwest Police Boys Club of Baltimore, when his seconds threw in the towel after Brooks had taken a terrific beating at the hands of the colored Baltimore puncher. Brooks wen down for a five-count from a right hand to the jaw early in the round.

23 Colored Fighters

Altogether there were 17 matches from 8:15 p. m. to 11:15 and of the 34 boxers who participated 23 were colored.

Besides McQuade, Referee Lee Halfpenny was the third man in the ring for the bouts, while Leon Yarneth, Joseph F. Harris and Walter T. O'Brien were the judges. Halfpenny and McQuade also took turns at judging.

McQuade will be seen in Cumberland for the professional show being staged there by Vic Ricker Monday, March 14, at the State Armory.

Beloit Is Favored To Take N.A.I.B. Cage Tournament

KANSAS CITY, March 10 (AP)—Beloit College today became a top favorite in the National Association of Intercollegiate Basketball Tournament by knocking off Lawrence Tech of Detroit, and Manhattan College of New York and Xavier University of Cincinnati also won impressive victories in second round afternoon games.

The Wisconsin cagers, sporting a 22-2 pre-tournament record and a scoring mark of 68.3 points per game, put Tech out of the tournament 78-62. Even the 26-point spree of Norm Hankins, the national major college scoring leader, couldn't save Tech from defeat. Xavier followed with a 57-35 rout of the Connecticut Teachers of New Britain and Manhattan sent Southern Illinois of Carbondale, the 1946 NAIB champions, to the sidelines, 52-42.

Hamline University gave a convincing exhibition tonight in squelching Gonzaga University (Spokane, Wash.) 70-55, to follow Manhattan College, Xavier University of Cincinnati, Indiana State (Terre Haute) and Beloit (Wis.) into the quarterfinals of the National Association of Intercollegiate Basketball tournament.

Indiana State ousted Brigham Young (Provo, Utah), 82-68, in the final afternoon second round game at municipal auditorium.

The combination of Lucky Doo in the first race and Starladier in the second returned $3,306.70 for $2. It was the second biggest payoff in Oaklawn's history. Top figure was $6,002.80 for $2 on March 17, 1938.

Yesterday's daily double of Trots Pride and Magic Chief paid $2,129.00.

Forty-Fifth ABC Bowling Tourney Begins On Detroit Alleys Today

DETROIT, March 10 (AP)—The 45th American Bowling Congress tournament — biggest, longest and richest in history — opens in Detroit's spacious Fairgrounds Coliseum here tomorrow.

Regardless of scores posted, records are bound to fall almost as fast as ten pins, and new ones will stand, ABC officials predict, for at least several years to come.

Here are some of the reasons:

More than 36,000 keglers from 43 states, Canada, Alaska, the Canal Zone and even Sweden will shuttle in and out of the Motor City for the next 80 days.

They will comprise 7,348 teams, 14,006 doubles combinations, 27,951 singles entries and 21,050 all events competitors, all record numbers in quest of a share of an all-time high prize fund of about $450,000.

The team totals are 1,275 above the previous mark set in the same building eight years ago; the doubles entries top a former high set at Buffalo in 1946 by 1,226; the singles numbers are 2,384 over the old record set at the same time, and the all events mark is two and a half times the 1947 figures recorded at Los Angeles.

Of last year's champions, only the Eddy and Earl Linsz team will not be on hand to defend its title, won with a 3,032 score.

Junie McMahon of Chicago will put his 740 singles and his 1,965 all events mark on the line. Len Springmeyer and Eddie Doerr of St. Louis will do the same with their 1,356 doubles title.

The 80 days and nights of pin spilling is eight days longer than the 1942 meet at Columbus, tops until this year.

Although more than 1,000 team entries were turned down, the long stands and 40 newly-built alleys will accommodate the record field. The 1949 tourney at Atlantic City will be staged on 52 alley beds, but will be limited to 60 days and about 6,200 teams.

Kentuckians Are Favored To Beat LaSalle's Quintet

St. Louis Meets Bowling Green Five

By MURRAY ROSE

NEW YORK, March 10—(AP)—Western Kentucky's veteran quintet today was rated a solid choice over LaSalle and St. Louis' Billikins were made slim favorites over Bowling Green for tomorrow's National Invitation Basketball Tourney openers.

A sellout crowd of over 18,000 is expected to pack Madison Square Garden for the curtain-raiser although some 3,000 tickets still were unsold on the eve of the doubleheader.

The second set of quarter-finals will be held Saturday when Texas (20-4) faces New York U. (20-2) and North Carolina State (29-2) opposes DePaul (21-6). The semi-finals are listed for Monday and the finals for Wednesday, March 17.

Top-seeded Western Kentucky (26-1) is making its third appearance in the NIT and Coach Ed Diddle is bringing in a tall, experienced quintet.

This will be LaSalle's (19-3) first start in the invitation. Young Charley McGlone, the Explorers' coach, is counting heavily on Larry Foust, his 6-9 center, to upset the experts' dope bucket. LaSalle is the tourney's underdog at 20 to 1.

The LaSalle-Western Kentucky tilt is scheduled to start at 8 p. m. The St. Louis-Bowling Green contest is programmed for 9:45 p. m. although it would be put back in case the opener goes into overtime.

St. Louis, (21-3), seeded fourth behind Western Kentucky, NYU, and N. C. State, is paced by big Ed Macauley, a 6-8 All-America center. He dropped in 315 points in 24 games and has been a constant nuisance to the opposition with his feeding from the bucket.

Bowling Green (27-5) is making its fourth trip to the invitation while this is St. Louis' first. The Ohio Falcons have the tallest starting five in the tourney with Charles Share, 6-10, Mac Otten, 6-6, Stan Weber, 6-5½, John Payak, 6-4, and Leo Kubiak, 5-11.

Tomorrow's victors will meet in the semi-finuals Monday which will also match Saturday night's survivors.

Violation Of City Zoning Law Cited In Baseball Suit

BALTIMORE, March 10 (AP)—The city hasn't complied with its own zoning law nor applied for permission to remove its Municipal Stadium, it was testified today.

C. William Brooks, zoning enforcement officer, joined a parade of complaining neighbors seeking an injunction against lease of the stadium to the Orioles of the International Baseball League.

Brooks said the stadium was in "non-conforming use" in a residential area prior to adoption of the zoning law. Further, he said, every extension of property requires an application to the zoning board and that none had been received for contemplated stadium improvements.

Baltimore voters approved last year a $2,500,000 bond issue to improve the stadium. City officials announced the work was being held in abeyance pending outcome of the present suit.

The suit was brought by 27 stadium area residents who charged the Oriole baseball games create a nuisance.

The city, Orioles and International League are defending the municipality's right to lease the stadium to the baseball team.

The complainants continued to occupy the witness stand during the third day of trial.

Charles A. Knight, a railroad supervisor, testified the Oriole baseball games caused a nervous breakdown and family trouble.

The noise of fans prevented him from taking customary rests after supper and "has cost lots of money, as the doctors would tell you," Knight said.

"My wife is near collapse," Knight continued. "We had never had friction in 20 years of married life until my family kept after me to do something about the dust and noise when I came home."

The Orioles started using the Municipal Stadium in 1944 when their own ball park burned down.

Scarlet-White Sextet Takes District Title

Defeat Frederick Girls, 17 To 14

Coach Henrietta Paupe Snyder's Fort Hill School lassies copped the Class "A" District No. 1 basketball championship of the Maryland State tournament last night by defeating Frederick High School's sextet, 17-14, on the Fort Hill floor.

The Scarlet and White misses trailed only once in the nip-and-tuck ball game and that was just after the contest began when Frederick hooped a foul shot to take a momentary 1-0 lead.

Clara Hudson then connected with one of two foul tosses to knot the count at 1-1 before adding a field goal to put Fort Hill in front to stay.

The Sentinel girls held the visiting Frederick county ladies scoreless in the second stanza to take a 10-6 lead at halftime after leading 8-6 at the close of the first quarter.

Coach Helma Hann Bowers' visiting sextet outscored Fort Hill 5-4 in the third period to trail 14-11 as the final quarter began.

Several times in the final half the Frederick girls were able to pull within one point of the Sentinels but were never quite able to catch the high-flying District No. 1 champs.

Fort Hill gained the finals of District No. 1 by defeating Allegany twice and splitting with Beall high School of Frostburg. The Sentinel lassies also copped the WMI League title.

STATE AID FIGURES TO COUNTY RELEASED

Allegany County received $1,026,566.94 from the state during the fiscal year ending June 30, 1947, State Comptroller James J. Lacy declared yesterday.

Disbursements were as follows:

High school aid, $48,225.10; classroom unit aid, $72,724.50; part payment of salaries, $12,626.67; books and materials, $13,040.96; census and attendance, $90,804.14; equalization funds, $450,639; reduction of county taxation, $112,994; physically handicapped children, $2,253.40; and night schools, $1,530.

In another field of education Frostburg State Teachers' College received $133,630 from the general fund and $36,104.89 from the special fund for a total of $169,734.

During the same period the county received $51,994.28 in race track receipts. This money was distributed to the various incorporated towns and some was retained by the county itself. About half went to Cumberland.

The Cumberland Fair Association paid the state a total of $57,582.08 in the year. A total of $51,562. 54 represented a two per cent tax on wagering in excess of $500,000 and the remaining $6,019.54 was a five per cent tax on net revenue.

State real estate taxes collected in the county during the fiscal year were $103,261.32. Of this amount, $48,303.80 was for 1947 and the rest covered the years 1934 to 1946, inclusive.

Admission tax recepits in the county totaled $13,113.31 in the year. Only recepits from Baltimore City, Anne Arundel county and Prince George's county exceeded the Allegany county total.

In 1947 citizens of the United States saved at a rate of about 6.7 per cent of disposable income compared with about 24.4 per cent in 1944.

Garrett Man Indicted In Manslaughter Case

A manslaughter indictment and one charging automobile larceny were returned in Garrett County Circuit Court by the March grand jury, according to W. Dwight Stover, state's attorney:

George Y. Lewis, 65, Vindex, was indicted for manslaughter in the death of Leona Mayles, 18, Oakland High School girl, who died following an accident near Bloomington.

The auto in which Lewis, Miss Mayles and Mrs. Fern Hott, 24, Hampshire County W. Va., were riding, plunged from the road into the Potomac River. Mrs. Hott and Lewis escaped injury.

Edison Durr, Grantsville, was also indicted on an automobile larceny charge. He was recently returned to Garrett County from the federal penitentiary, Atlanta, Ga., where he served time on a similar charge.

LeRoy Swauger, Garrett County, was indicted on a statutory rape charge and Ernest Chaney, Avilton, was indicted an a sodomy charge.

He Walks To Health

WILKES-BARRE, Pa. (AP)—A. E. (Fred) Burnaford, 79-year-old bank employe, says he has walked some 125,000 miles in his lifetime.

By RUDOLPH NICKEL

FROSTBURG — Mayor Marshall C. Skidmore and City Commissioners Arthur Thomas, John Hendley, Jesse Jacobs and Kenneth Crowe have filed an official request with City Clerk Alex G. Close that their names be placed on the municipal ballot as candidates for re-election April 6. Any citizen of the community who has resided in the corporate limits for one year and who owns real estate valued at $500 may qualify as a candidate for mayor. The same residence qualification applies to candidates for city commissioner, and they are required to own real estate valued at $300.

In order to become a candidate, application to have a name placed on the ticket must be made with the city clerk no later than March 26, or 10 days before the city election.

The salary of the mayor has been $500 annually and the city commissioners $300. City Clerk Alex G. Operetta Given For Hyndman P-TA

By LILLIAN CRABTREE

HYNDMAN, Pa.—The Operetta, "Sunny Bunny's First Easter," was presented by the first and second grades, under the direction of Miss Mary Meyers and Miss Clara Rineheimer, at the regular Parent-Teacher Association meeting Tuesday night in the school auditorium.

William Mowery, Bedford County superintendent of schools, spoke on "What Is the Big Idea in Education?" He stressed the importance of giving an equal educational opportunity to boys and girls in rural Pennsylvania as compared with that in the cities.

The Hyndman P-TA is making plans to sponsor the purchase of a movie projector to be used in the local school. A committee to begin these plans consists of Mrs. Edward Crabtree, vice president; Mrs. Virgil Bowers, treasurer; Mrs. Casper Hyre, secretary, and Mrs. Effie Gaster, Miss Mary Meyers, Mrs. Edward Shaffer and Mrs. William Bateson. This committee will meet in the near future to discuss ways and means of raising money for this fund.

Rev. John H. Buffenmyer, of the Church of the Brethren, had charge of the devotions and Miss Meyers led the group singing with Miss Eloise Headland at the piano.

The group voted to donate $5 to the Red Cross during the present drive.

Scrap Drive In April

The Boy Scouts, under the leadership of the newly appointed scoutmaster, Robert A. KEEPING UP WITH

HOLLYWOOD

By LOUELLA PARSONS

HOLLYWOOD, March 10—(INS)—Claudette Colbert is going into business in a big way with Jack Skirball, well-known producer, and Bruce Manning, writer and director. She has formed the Sunrise Film Company—and what do you bet that Claudette doesn't at long last, get a chance to direct, a thing she has always wanted to do.

Lorella Parsons

But before she directs, she'll star in "The Soft Touch" by Joseph Field and Fred Kohner, a comedy, which goes before the cameras the middle of June.

When I asked if this means that Claudette was giving up all those hundreds of offers she gets from other companies, I was given an emphatic "no." Seems the three bosses of Sunrise Productions are free to take outside assignments. Well, Good luck to all of them.

I thought when MGM bought "Act of Violence" from the Mark Hellinger estate that it was for Clark Gable. But, no, Van Heflin is the star who gets this dramatic story of the disintegration of a fine man after he has been a prisoner of war.

Well, it couldn't happen to a better actor or a nicer guy than Van and let me be among the first to congratulate him and MGM.

The fact that Mark originally bought this Collier Young original is almost insurance of its thrills and action, because Hellinger believed in stories that move for moving pictures. William Wright will produce and Freddy Zinnemann, just back from making "The Search" in Europe, directs.

I don't know how Jack Warner now will ever get Eleanor Parker away from her baby long enough to go into "These Many Years," the picture he has planned for her and Ronald Reagan. I have never seen any two people as excited as Eleanor and Bert Friedlob are over little Susan Eleanor. The baby wasn't more than four hours old when I talked to her mother on the telephone. She was exactly one minute old when her proud Pa phoned me at eight in the morning—and on a Sunday, too—to tell me the news.

Eleanor has a long vacation before she returns to the screen. Her teaming with Ronnie was decided because of the business "Voice Of the Turtle" is doing.

An idea on how to combat juvenile delinquency has been given to Bud Abbott and Lou Costello, cofounders of the Youth Center, by Governor Hildreth of Maine.

The governor, who was visiting the boys on the set at Universal International, said he thought if an especially meritorious deed of good citizenship performed by a boy or girl anywhere in the United States was rewarded, that would encourage other boys and girls.

So Bud and Lou will make their first award to 12-year-old Charles P. Barker, of Maine, who had the presence of mind and courage to hurl his chum from the path of a train with a flying tackle. The rescued boy, also 12, had caught his foot between the rails.

Young Barker will receive $1,000 in prizes, including a $500 war savings bond.

Snapshots of Hollywood collected at random:

Bing and Dixie Crosby acting like a pair of newlyweds, made the owner of the King's Restaurant very happy by having dinner there.

I had supper with John Van Druten, author of "I Remember Mama," after the preview, and he was delighted with the picture—and Irene Dunne.

George Stevens and Harriet Parsons planed into New York to be there for the Music Hall opening. Wish I could be with them.

Grace Hayes with her ex, Charley Foy, at his valley night club.

Trixie Friganza will turn over any money she makes from the sale of her life story to the Sacred Heart Convent where she is living so happily in these days of retirement.

Woops—I said Michael Kirby, Sonja Henie's skating partner, had never been in a picture. Now I find out that he had four supporting roles in important M-G-M Pictures, and will be seen in "Homecoming."

Dinah Shore and I have vowed to go on a diet.

Peggy Cummins and Huntington Hartford, Jr., a happy twosome at the Somerset House.

The Arthur Freeds are celebrating their 25th wedding anniversary Sunday, March 14.

KEEPING UP WITH

HOLLYWOOD

By LOUELLA PARSONS

HOLLYWOOD, March 10—(INS)—Claudette Colbert is going into business in a big way with Jack Skirball, well-known producer, and Bruce Manning, writer and director. She has formed the Sunrise Film Company—and what do you bet that Claudette doesn't at long last, get a chance to direct, a thing she has always wanted to do.

Lorella Parsons

But before she directs, she'll star in "The Soft Touch" by Joseph Field and Fred Kohner, a comedy, which goes before the cameras the middle of June.

When I asked if this means that Claudette was giving up all those hundreds of offers she gets from other companies, I was given an emphatic "no." Seems the three bosses of Sunrise Productions are free to take outside assignments. Well, Good luck to all of them.

I thought when MGM bought "Act of Violence" from the Mark Hellinger estate that it was for Clark Gable. But, no, Van Heflin is the star who gets this dramatic story of the disintegration of a fine man after he has been a prisoner of war.

Well, it couldn't happen to a better actor or a nicer guy than Van and let me be among the first to congratulate him and MGM.

The fact that Mark originally bought this Collier Young original is almost insurance of its thrills and action, because Hellinger believed in stories that move for moving pictures. William Wright will produce and Freddy Zinnemann, just back from making "The Search" in Europe, directs.

I don't know how Jack Warner now will ever get Eleanor Parker away from her baby long enough to go into "These Many Years," the picture he has planned for her and Ronald Reagan. I have never seen any two people as excited as Eleanor and Bert Friedlob are over little Susan Eleanor. The baby wasn't more than four hours old when I talked to her mother on the telephone. She was exactly one minute old when her proud Pa phoned me at eight in the morning—and on a Sunday, too—to tell me the news.

Eleanor has a long vacation before she returns to the screen. Her teaming with Ronnie was decided because of the business "Voice Of the Turtle" is doing.

An idea on how to combat juvenile delinquency has been given to Bud Abbott and Lou Costello, co-founders of the Youth Center, by Governor Hildreth of Maine.

The governor, who was visiting the boys on the set at Universal International, said he thought if an especially meritorious deed of good citizenship performed by a boy or girl anywhere in the United States was rewarded, that would encourage other boys and girls.

So Bud and Lou will make their first award to 12-year-old Charles P. Barker, of Maine, who had the presence of mind and courage to hurl his chum from the path of a train with a flying tackle. The rescued boy, also 12, had caught his foot between the rails.

Young Barker will receive $1,000 in prizes, including a $500 war savings bond.

Snapshots of Hollywood collected at random:

Bing and Dixie Crosby acting like a pair of newlyweds, made the owner of the King's Restaurant very happy by having dinner there.

I had supper with John Van Druten, author of "I Remember Mama," after the preview, and he was delighted with the picture—and Irene Dunne.

George Stevens and Harriet Parsons planed into New York to be there for the Music Hall opening. Wish I could be with them.

Grace Hayes with her ex, Charley Foy, at his valley night club.

Trixie Friganza will turn over any money she makes from the sale of her life story to the Sacred Heart Convent where she is living so happily in these days of retirement.

Woops—I said Michael Kirby, Sonja Henie's skating partner, had never been in a picture. Now I find out that he had four supporting roles in important M-G-M Pictures, and will be seen in "Homecoming."

Dinah Shore and I have vowed to go on a diet.

Peggy Cummins and Huntington Hartford, Jr., a happy twosome at the Somerset House.

The Arthur Freeds are celebrating their 25th wedding anniversary Sunday, March 14.

That's all today.

"Am I wishing? One more falling star and I'll never have to go on another radio prize program."

RADIO IN REVIEW

By JOHN CROSBY

Well Organized Indignation

Not long ago I uttered a mild plea for some sort of editorial point of view from comedians. I didn't mean necessarily that the comedian should embrace the policies of Robert A. Taft or of Henry Wallace or of anything controversial but that a strong stand on the New Look would be a refreshing example of courage.

John Crosby

This column provoked an outburst of frustrated irritation from Don Quinn, who has been writing all or part of the Fibber McGee and Molly show since it's been on the air. (Roughly since the 12th century B. C.) The kernel of Mr. Quinn's complaint is that radio writers are among the most opinionated and positive people on earth but that they are thoroughly muzzled by the sponsor, the advertising agency, the network and the comedian.

The "almost universal fear of offending anyone" prevents any point of view more controversial than a favorable attitude toward motherhood from getting on the air, says Mr. Quinn. "Don't throw Mark Twain and Will Rogers at us, either," remarks Mr. Quinn irascibly. "If those estimable humorists were writing for radio or broadcasting over it, they probably wouldn't last out their first thirteen weeks. They would be hailed as new voices by a few people and thrown out on their respective seersuckers and denim derrieres. Their barbed opinions and sharp viewpoints would be met by such a barrage of abuse from well organized indignation groups and paid secretaries for this or that society and other front line thought control people that no sponsor in his agency's right mind would touch them with a ten-foot blue pencil."

"Well organized indignation"—I wish he'd omitted the word "groups"—is the phrase that haunts me. My own indignation, a rather helter-skelter feeling that ranges from exasperation to blind wrath, has always been terribly disorganized and, I'm afraid, pretty darned unreasonable. I'm ashamed to say I can get just as indignant at my wife racing the engine on a cold morning as at the events in Palestine. The greatness or smallness of the cause has little to do with the voltage of the indignation. That is determined by the immediacy of the problem, not by its importance.

Aldous Huxley once pointed out that under certain circumstances an empty cigarette case causes more despair than unrequited love.

Most of the organized indignation—we get a lot of it over this desk too, Mr. Quinn—doesn't go much deeper than its letterhead. Under the letterhead, on the left hand side of the stationary, is a list of impressive names who at one time, I presume, expressed themselves unequivocally in favor of motherhood or of democracy or against Nazism or genocide. But would these people whose indignation has been frozen on the letterhead endorse a scolding letter to, say, Fibber McGee and Molly? The paid secretaries Mr. Quinn speaks of almost invariably remind you they speak for 5,000,000 anti-Nazis. But do they? Do they—on any but the most general principles—speak for anyone at all but themselves?

Radio isn't the only medium suffering from well organized indignation; the movies are pretty well strangled by it; to a lesser extent no media, including newspapers and magazines are free from it. But radio suffers worst of all and it's hard to see why. Network radio is vast and almost frighteningly influential. A single popular network program carries more weight than a hundred paid secretaries and their letterheads. Throw the mail away and stop worrying, boys.

Still, Mr. Quinn, a very able comedy writer, was taking me a little too seriously. I didn't mean a comedian should start promulgating a revolutionary social system. I meant only that too many writers surrounding a single comedian dim him and sometimes, as in the case of Bob Hope, extinguish him under a mantle of senseless and conflicting jokes. Mr. Quinn's own show, "Fibber McGee and Molly," has a quite definite point of view though it would hardly arouse the ire either of "The Daily Worker" or "The Ladies' Home Journal."

14 New Cities On Map Of Sverdlovsk, Siberia

MOSCOW — (AP) — Fourteen new cities have appeared on the map of Sverdlovsk oblast during the last decade. The largest is Tavda, which grew out of an obscure settlement in the marshy forests of Siberia to become one of the largest centers of the Soviet lumber industry.

Furniture and skis, known for their lightness and durability, are among Travra products. The city also turns out large wooden barges for the rivers of Siberia and the Urals.

RADIO IN REVIEW

By JOHN CROSBY

Well Organized Indignation

John Crosby

Not long ago I uttered a mild plea for some sort of editorial point of view from comedians. I didn't mean necessarily that the comedian should embrace the policies of Robert A. Taft or of Henry Wallace or of anything controversial but that a strong stand on the New Look would be a refreshing example of courage.

This column provoked an outburst of frustrated irritation from Don Quinn, who has been writing all or part of the Fibber McGee and Molly show since it's been on the air. (Roughly since the 12th century B. C.) The kernel of Mr. Quinn's complaint is that radio writers are among the most opinionated and positive people on earth but that they are thoroughly muzzled by the sponsor, the advertising agency, the network and the comedian.

The "almost universal fear of offending anyone" prevents any point of view more controversial than a favorable attitude toward motherhood from getting on the air, says Mr. Quinn. "Don't throw Mark Twain and Will Rogers at us, either," remarks Mr. Quinn irascibly. "If those estimable humorists were writing for radio or broadcasting over it, they probably wouldn't last out their first thirteen weeks. They would be hailed as new voices by a few people and thrown out on their respective seersuckers and denim derrieres. Their barbed opinions and sharp viewpoints would be met by such a barrage of abuse from well organized indignation groups and paid secretaries for this or that society and other front line thought control people that no sponsor in his agency's right mind would touch them with a ten-foot blue pencil."

"Well organized indignation"—I wish he'd omitted the word "groups"—is the phrase that haunts me. My own indignation, a rather helter-skelter feeling that ranges from exasperation to blind wrath, has always been terribly disorganized and, I'm afraid, pretty darned unreasonable. I'm ashamed to say I can get just as indignant at my wife racing the engine on a cold morning as at the events in Palestine. The greatness or smallness of the cause has little to do with the voltage of the indignation. That is determined by the immediacy of the problem, not by its importance.

Aldous Huxley once pointed out that under certain circumstances an empty cigarette case causes more despair than unrequited love.

Most of the organized indignation—we get a lot of it over this desk too, Mr. Quinn—doesn't go much deeper than its letterhead. Under the letterhead, on the left hand side of the stationary, is a list of impressive names who at one time, I presume, expressed themselves unequivocally in favor of motherhood or of democracy or against Nazism or genocide. But would these people whose indignation has been frozen on the letterhead endorse a scolding letter to, say, Fibber McGee and Molly? The paid secretaries Mr. Quinn speaks of almost invariably remind you they speak for 5,000,000 anti-Nazis. But do they? Do they—on any but the most general principles—speak for anyone at all but themselves?

Radio isn't the only medium suffering from well organized indignation; the movies are pretty well strangled by it; to a lesser extent no media, including newspapers and magazines are free from it. But radio suffers worst of all and it's hard to see why. Network radio is vast and almost frighteningly influential. A single popular network program carries more weight than a hundred paid secretaries and their letterheads. Throw the mail away and stop worrying, boys.

Still, Mr. Quinn, a very able comedy writer, was taking me a little too seriously. I didn't mean a comedian should start promulgating a revolutionary social system. I meant only that too many writers surrounding a single comedian dim him and sometimes, as in the case of Bob Hope, extinguish him under a mantle of senseless and conflicting jokes. Mr. Quinn's own show, "Fibber McGee and Molly," has a quite definite point of view though it would hardly arouse the ire either of "The Daily Worker" or "The Ladies' Home Journal."

14 New Cities On Map Of Sverdlovsk, Siberia

MOSCOW — (AP) — Fourteen new cities have appeared on the map of Sverdlovsk oblast during the last decade. The largest is Tavda, which grew out of an obscure settlement in the marshy forests of Siberia to become one of the largest centers of the Soviet lumber industry.

Furniture and skis, known for their lightness and durability, are among Travra products. The city also turns out large wooden barges for the rivers of Siberia and the Urals.

DOG FINDS BABY'S BODY NEAR ANTIOCH

Tiny Armless Victim Dragged To Farm House

Mineral County Officers Trace Find To Trash Pile As Intensive Probe Gets Underway

The head and armless trunk of a newly born baby's body was dragged to a farmhouse near Camden Orchard in the vicinity of Antioch, Mineral County, W. Va., by a large shepherd dog yesterday, creating a mystery that launched Mineral County authorities and West Virginia State Police on an intensive investigation.

Vernon C. Rankin, Mineral County prosecutor, confirmed the NEWS report of the gruesome find, and said an investigation is underway. He declared a statement will be made in a few days, if any light can be thrown on the case. State Police and other officers had no comment, merely saying the case was being investigated.

It was learned from sources deemed reliable, however, that authorities received a telephone call from a resident in the sparsely settled Antioch section between 10 a. m. and 12 noon yesterday, reporting the discovery of the partial body of the infant.

Authorities launched an investigation immediately, and the re-

New Purple Heart Chapter Formed By McCoole Vets

Andrew Landis Is Named Commander

A new Purple Heart Chapter has been organized at McCoole, and officers will be installed at a public ceremony Sunday at 3 p. m. at the Veterans of Foreign Wars home in Keyser, W. Va., according to George M. Leib, this city, national junior vice commander.

The new chapter, designated as Barr-Kelley Chapter No. 276, Military Order of the Purple Heart, is named in honor of Woodrow Wilson Barr, killed in action in the Pacific theater August 7, 1942, and Jonah E. Kelley, Congressional Medal of Honor winner, killed in action in Germany, February 1, 1945.

The new chapter was instituted last Sunday by Commander Leib, assisted by Harry I. Iles, department of Maryland junior vice commander, Alvin Ingram, commander of Mountain Chapter No. 166, here, John Mills, local senior vice commander, and Herbert McFarland, local junior vice president.

Officers chosen for the new chapter are Andrew Landis, commander; William Tanner, senior vice commander; Wesley Neville, junior vice commander; Charles Cutter, adjutant and finance officer; Galen Kephart, sergeant-at-arms; William Zais, chaplain.

There are 25 members in the new organization, Leib said, and the charter will remain open for 60 days. Wearers of the Purple Heart in Keyser, Westernport, Luke, Piedmont and McCoole may affiliate with this organization.

Leib said a new chapter is to be instituted in Parkersburg, W. Va., April 5.

Taylorcraft Plane Crashes In Creek Near Headsville

The pilot of a light Taylorcraft airplane escaped injury when his plane crashed upside down in Pattersons Creek, near Headsville, yesterday morning about 11 o'clock.

The pilot, whose name could not be learned, was en route from Charlottesville, Va., to Comstock Park, Mich., with his next stop Cumberland. Officials at Baker's Airport, Burlington, W. Va., where the pilot was taken, stated he attempted to land when he discovered he had minor motor trouble, but that due to poor visibility he overshot a field near the Headsville Methodist Church, hit a fence, which threw the ship out of control, and landed in Pattersons Creek.

The plane, owned by Richard DeVos, of the Wolverine Air Service, Comstock Park, Mich., was removed to the Burlington airport and the owner notified. Officials at the airport said an estimate of the damage will be made and reported to DeVos, who indicated he would send for the ship or have it repaired there.

At Baker Airport last night, Harold Armstrong, an employe, said the ship is "practically a total wreck, and the pilot was lucky to walk away."

Armstrong said he failed to record the pilot's name, but the young man was uninjured and had proceeded by bus to Charlottesville.

Sweene Resigned From Liquor Board Before He Died

Much Interest Being Shown In Appointment

It was revealed yesterday that Henry Sweene, Mt. Savage, who died suddenly Monday, had resigned his position as a member of the Allegany County Liquor Control Board a few days before his death although the resignation had not been accepted or acted upon by the board.

Fred Crowe, Frostburg, secretary of the board, said last night Mr. Sweene had talked about resigning because of ill health, and a few days before he died had mailed a letter of resignation.

Walter C. Capper, this city, chairman of the board, and Crowe each said last night there has been considerable interest shown by a number of county citizens in the appointment of a successor to Mr. Sweene. Each applicant or would-be applicant has been asked to file a formal application in writing, Capper said.

Neither of the surviving members indicated who has made application and declared they have reached no decision as to the new member and will not until all applications are studied.

Crowe declared, "It is not likely anyone will be named until around April 1 since our new fiscal year starts then."

Under the provisions of the Allegany County Liquor Control law, the original board was named in the law, consisting of Capper as chairman to serve six years, Sweene, to to serve four years and Crowe to serve two years.

The law provides, "Every two years, as the term of one member expires, the two remaining members shall name a successor for the term of six years. Any person so appointed shall be a resident of Allegany County and shall be a person of high character and integrity and of recognized business capacity. In the event that at any time any member shall refuse or be unable to serve, the two remaining members shall appoint another person for the unexpired term, agreeably to the provisions of this section. No member shall be appointed for successive terms."

Crowe explained that this means the two surviving members of the board must now appoint a county resident to fill the unexpired term of Mr. Sweene.

The appointment carries a salary of $2,000 per year and no provision is made, contrary to much local comment, for the appointment of an individual of any particular political affiliation.

Ohio Motorist Posts Bond After Accident

An Arcadia, Ohio, motorist posted $11.45 bond on a careless driving charge resulting from an accident Tuesday night on Route 40, one mile east of Polish Mountain, in which his sister, Cora E. Ebersole, suffered a lacerated lip.

Police identified the driver as John D. Ebersole, 77, and said he was operating his automobile on the wrong side of the road when it collided with a machine driven by Raymond C. Ruffing, Bellevue, Ohio.

Ruffing's wife, Mrs. Catherine M. Ruffing, also suffered minor injuries and was treated by a local physician. Trooper William Baker investigated the accident.

"Sweethearts" Will Be Presented Tonight

The first of two performances of "Sweethearts," Victor Herbert's popular operetta, will be presented tonight in Allegany High School auditorium.

The operetta, presented by the senior class of Allegany High and directed by Miss Dorothy Willison, Harold C. Wickard and Mrs. Betty Winter, was first produced here by the Class of 1926 at Allegany.

The cast, headed by Jeanne Marquis and Allan Macy, includes Sue Bartlett, Donald Ort, Barbara Bright, William Price and William Fisher.

THEY COUNT ON YOU-- The children shown in the above pictures are among the 800 now being aided by the Allegany County League for Crippled Children, which has opened its annual appeal for funds through the Easter Seal campaign. Proceeds from the drive will be used to continue the work of the League. Shown at the left is five-year-old Kenneth Green, a Barton youngster paralyzed from the waist down who is learning to walk with the aid of braces and tripod crutches. At the right two children are shown waiting at league headquarters for their speech correction class. Francis Niland, 8, Oldtown Road, is studying his speech lesson while seven-year-old Carolyn Tingler, Maryland Avenue, looks on.

U. S. Attorney Cites Penalties For Tax Evasion

Says White Can Get 25 Years If Guilty

In the event of conviction of violation of federal income tax laws, Walter W. White, 48, Cumberland, indicted this week in Baltimore by a federal grand jury for income tax evasion, could be sentenced to a maximum of 25 years in prison and a fine of $50,000, according to Bernard F. Flynn, United States District Attorney.

Flynn explained the law provides a maximum penalty on conviction in such cases of five years and $10,000 fine on each count. There are five counts in the indictment, he explained.

White is charged, under the indictment, with paying only $6,257 in federal income tax when he actually owed, according to federal investigators, $79,531. The government claims $73,174 for the years 1941 through 1945.

Flynn was asked if a local report that White had filed an amended return and paid around $60,000 in additional taxes was correct. The attorney said if an amended return had been filed he had not been informed, and the information would have to be obtained from the Bureau of Internal Revenue.

At the Bureau of Internal Revenue in Baltimore, George Hofferbert, collector, said the law did not permit them to divulge whether or not White had filed an amended return.

In addition to any court sentence which may be fixed in case of conviction for income tax evasion, J. Edward Hank, the special agent in charge of the Maryland office, Intelligence Unit, said the law also provides that a penalty of 50 per cent of the tax due may be assessed if the Bureau of Internal Revenue proves fraud, and that interest of six per cent per annum on unpaid taxes may be charged.

A federal warrant for White's arrest is expected by Deputy United States Marshall Howard P. Loughrie. When it is served on White, he can be arraigned before United States Commissioner James Alfred Avirett for posting bond, or can be arraigned in Baltimore, it was indicated last night.

White is well known here as a dealer in music boxes, pinball machines and other coin-operated devices.

Police Probe $100 Theft In Cresaptown

Maryland State Police last night were investigating a reported $100 theft that occurred at the Cresaptown American Legion last Thursday "when the steward stepped out of the bar for a few moments."

Trooper First Class William Baker quoted Harold "Ike" Limbit, the steward, as saying the money was in a cloth bag under the counter when he left the room, but that when he returned a few moments later it was missing.

Police said they were informed that five patrons were in the bar at the time.

Trooper Baker said he is also investigating the theft of several pieces of furniture from a cabin of Gerald Whitfield, Belle Grove, which were taken on March 6.

Red Cross Fund Campaign Nearing $20,000 Mark; Avirett To Speak

Stating that the $20,000 mark "is in sight" in the 1948 annual Red Cross fund campaign, which has a total goal of $27,580, Gorman E. Getty, general chairman, yesterday urged all workers to make reports this morning.

The dinner officially closing the campaign will be held tonight at 6:30 at St. Mark's Evangelical and Reformed Church, corner of Park and Harrison Streets.

James Alfred Avirett, local attorney, will be the guest speaker.

The invocation will be given by Rev. Carl H. Clapp, pastor.

Getty said about 40 reservations have been made to date. He asked all campaign workers planning to attend to make their reservations at the Red Cross office by noon today.

Because final reports will be submitted at tonight's dinner, Getty said it is imperative that workers turn in the contributions they have collected to campaign headquarters so that last-minute tabulations can be made by the staff of auditors.

He said the auditors will not be on hand at the dinner, and funds should be turned in prior to that time.

BIRTHS

Memorial Hospital reported the following births yesterday:

Mr. and Mrs. Vernon Moreland, 215 Race Street, a daughter.

Mr. and Mrs. Oliver Teets, Friendsville, a son.

Mr. and Mrs. Donald Beynon, Meyersdale, announce the birth of a son in Meyersdale Hospital yesterday. Beynon is a linotype operator for the Times and Alleganian Company.

Annual Easter Seal Fund Campaign Begins; Lowndes Named Chairman

Support Of League Activities Urged

The annual Easter Seal campaign to raise funds for supporting the activities of the Allegany County League for Crippled Children has been launched, with 22,000 letters mailed to Cumberland and county residents, Tasker G. Lowndes, chairman, announced yesterday.

Lowndes said returns from the letters, which were mailed eight days ago, now total $3,384.79, slightly less than the $3,626.77 figure reported at the same time in last year's drive.

He explained all funds derived from the sale of Easter Seals are kept in the county to aid the League program.

Funds derived from the March of Dimes campaign may be used only for infantile paralysis work, and half of the amount raised locally is sent to the National Foundation for Infantile Paralysis, Lowndes explained in pointing out the need for Easter Seal contributions.

Each of the campaign letters contains a sheet of Easter Seals which sells for $1. Those who did not receive Easter Seals may obtain them at League headquarters, City Hall Plaza, or call the headquarters and request that the seals be mailed to them.

Over 800 Cases Now

Mrs. Hume O. Annan, executive secretary, said the League's active load at present includes over 800 children in the orthopedic, cerebral palsy, plastic surgery and speech therapy programs.

Those programs, she explained, depend on contributions received from the Easter Seal sale. Last year's total contribution of $8,000 made possible the inauguration of the speech therapy program under the direction of Miss Lois Burrack.

"Everyone who contributes has a stake in the ultimate recovery of our crippled children," she said, in urging prompt return of donations before Easter Sunday, March 28.

Mrs. Annan explained maintenance of present activities and future expansion depend on the response of county residents to the campaign.

She asked contributors to use Easter Seals on their correspondence to continue interest in the campaign, stating that over 18,000 persons to whom letters were mailed have not yet made donations.

Make Assistance Possible

Proceeds from the 1947 campaign also made possible purchase of braces for 60 children, most of them victims of cerebral palsy, and various services to hundreds of others, she said. Approximately 125 preschool children and those with cerebral palsy and cleft palate difficulties are enrolled in the speech therapy program.

Those on the campaign committee are Rep. J. Glenn Beall, Mrs. William A. Gunter, P. J. O'Brien, John Schwarzenbach, J. William Hunt, Dr. Winter R. Frantz, Miss Henrietta Schwarzenbach, Miss Anne Sloan and Mrs. W. O. McLane.

WHITE ELECTED HEAD OF EVITTS CREEK COMPANY

Clifton W. White was elected president of the Evitts Creek Water Company at a meeting yesterday afternoon in the office of Mayor Thomas S. Post.

White, who was elected a director at an earlier meeting February 28, succeeds the late George G. Young. He has been president of the Cumberland Fair Association for the past six years and served as city commissioner of water and light in 1928 and 1929.

Mayor Post was re-elected vice president and Miss Inez Shoemaker was re-elected secretary-treasurer.

Richard C. Snyder, Bedford, Pa., company attorney, presented various corporation financial reports of the company for approval.

Three Permit Appeals Granted By Zone Board

Three appeals for occupancy permits were granted, another was approved conditionally, one was continued until the next session and the sixth was disapproved at a meeting of the Board of Zoning Appeals last night at City Hall.

Only case to which opposition was expressed was the appeal of Vincent J. Gilarmo, 532 North Centre Street, who sought permission to use a one-story metal building at the rear of 623 Elm Street as a cleaning plant.

Several residents of that section attended the meeting to express their opposition, but none was called to testify because the board disapproved Gilarmo's application.

George S. Humbertson, 305 South Street, received conditional approval of his application for a permit to use a proposed two-story building to be located at the northwest corner of Williams Street and Dorn Avenue as a grovery store and apartments.

Board Chairman Joseph R. Mantheiy explained it will be necessary to check Humbertson's deed to the lot to determine whether it contains any restrictions as to business operations. If such restrictions are found, he said, the permit will become void.

The appeal continued until the next session was that of Herman Cunningham, 675 Fayette Street, who sought permission to use a proposed one-story concrete block structure to be built at 99 Wills Creek Avenue at the rear of his home as a grocery and confectionery store.

Cunningham said he planned to locate the building about five feet back from the curb line, explaining a stone wall would prevent allowing more front yard space.

Mantheiy pointed out the zoning ordinance requires that a minimum of 20 feet be allowed for sidewalk space on unimproved streets. However, he suggested that Cunningham draw up a list of the front yard depths of other buildings in the block, stating the permit will be granted if 50 per cent of those buildings are located five feet or less from the curb line.

R. J. Shepherd, a board member, told Cunningham he will make another inspection of the site on Saturday.

The three appeals granted were as follows:

A permit to Miss Elsie Pabst, 13 North Waverly Terrace, to move her curtain shop from its present location at 29 South Centre Street to 160 Bedford Street.

A permit to R. T. Powell, 609 Frederick Street, to use Lots 17-23, including Block 39, on Haddon Avenue, for construction of the unit of eight connected residences.

A permit to W. J. Moore, 648 North Mechanic Street, to use part of a lot at 239 North Mechanic Street, where he now operates a used car lot, for erection of a one-story concrete block building to house an office and garage.

Arbitrator Will End Hearings On Cent Differential

Celanese Union Plans Membership Meeting

Final testimony on a dispute regarding the distribution of a one-cent adjustment provided in last May's contract at the Celanese plant will be heard here next Tuesday and Wednesday at the Allegany County Court House.

David E. Cole, Philadelphia, is arbitrating the dispute between Local 1874, Textile Workers Union of America, CIO, and the Celanese Corporation of America.

The union and the company had agreed prior to the hearings, which began several months ago, on the distribution of about 30 per cent of the approximately $180,000 provided by the company to settle wage inequalities charged by the union.

Approximately three departments are yet to be heard by the arbitrator, it was reported.

Special business scheduled at a Celanese Local 1874 membership meeting Wednesday, March 17, at 7:30 p. m. includes:

Discussion and action on increased expense allowances for delegates to the coming TWUA convention in Atlantic City.

Discussion and action on Local 1874 affiliation with the co-operative movement in Cumberland.

BOY INJURED WHEN PUSHED FROM TRUCK

Timothy Hudson, 9, Paw Paw, W. Va., was treated in Memorial Hospital last night for a laceration on the leg. The lad told attaches he was in the back of a truck in Paw Paw when another boy pushed him out, causing him to cut the upper part of the leg on the bumper of the vehicle.

Arthur Page, 25, Bowling Green, was treated in Allegany Hospital late last night for a sprained left ankle suffered, he said, while playing basketball on the Moose team.

George Knieriem, 59, Mt. Savage, was treated in Allegany Hospital yesterday for a laceration on the fourth finger of the right hand. He said his hand was hurt when it was caught on a crane.

Mrs. Mary Moore, 54, 109 Race Street, was treated in the same hospital yesterday after she fell and injured her left ankle and wrist.

Joseph Florentino, 48, this city, was treated in Allegany Hospital for a cut on the fourth finger of the right hand after he was struck by a piece of steel, and James Alkire, 615 Troy Street, had a piece of glass removed from a finger of his left hand.

2 Missing Persons Sought By Police

Police last night were searching for two missing persons one a 16-year-old Meyersdale, Pa., girl who disappeared from her home Tuesday.

She was identified as Betty Christner about 5 feet, four inches tall, 150 pounds.

The second person was identified by police as Oswald Yergan, 48, 618 Virginia Avenue, who was reported missing by his niece, Mrs. Donald Rose. Police said the man was last seen at noon Tuesday.

Coleman Is Held For Grand Jury

Aaron Coleman, 47-year-old local negro, was committed to the county jail yesterday in default of $2,000 bond for grand jury action on assault and robbery charges after a hearing in Trial Magistrates Court.

Detective Ernest M. Powell said Coleman, who lives in the rear of the 100 block of Frederick Street, confessed to the theft of $45 from George Swadley, Windsor Hotel janitor, Sunday.

Temperature Reading

Temperature remained above freezing all day yesterday after reading 32 above zero at 8 a. m. The maximum reported during the sunny afternoon was 55 above with 43 at 11 o'clock last night. The overnight low for Tuesday night was 30 above. Lower temperature with possible snow or rain in some areas were predicted.

Grocer Captures Man Rifling Cash Register

John F. Guntler, 19 Being Held By Police

Caught in the act of rifling a cash register, John Frederick Guntler, 19, 423 Ascension Street, was being held for "further investigation" last night, according to Assistant Chief of Police B. Frank Gaffney.

Guntler, according to police, broke into the grocery store of C. R. Wineburger, 338 Baltimore Avenue, about 10:50 p. m. and after taking approximately 100 pennies from the register was surprised by the proprietor who lives next door and heard the intruder in the store.

Wineburger told police he walked into the store as Guntler continued searching the cash register after putting the pennies into his pocket. Police said Wineburger, a six-foot "well-built man," grabbed the intruder and held him while a telephone call was made to police headquarters.

Assistant Chief Gaffney and Detective Thomas J. See went to the store and placed Guntler under arrest. He was returned to headquarters where he was "mugged and finger printed." Police said he denied committing any of the other grocery store thefts that have been occurring in the city for the past four weeks.

Guntler told police he was recently given an honorable discharge from the United States Navy and has been unable to find work. He said he resides with his parents on Ascension Street.

Police said the youth will be questioned further today in connection with the other robberies before he is arraigned in Trial Magistrates Court.

Detective See said an attempted breaking and entering was also reported last night by Ray Bell, who declared two windows at his cleaning establishment were pried open between 5 and 8 p. m. Nothing was taken, police reported.

Midland Auxiliary Fire Unit Refuses To Aid Red Cross

Action Surprises Campaign Officials

The annual Red Cross campaign for funds last night met opposition at a special meeting of the Ladies Auxiliary of the Midland Fire Department when the organization refused to assist in the 1948 drive, Mrs. Gertrude Smith, Midland Red Cross chairman, said.

Mrs. Smith said she was confronted with the question: "What did the Red Cross ever do for us?" shortly before the membership voted to decline a Red Cross request for assistance in the present drive.

The Midland fire auxiliary has for the past several years conducted the house-to-house canvass in the area, Gorman E. Getty, Allegany County Red Cross campaign chairman, said, adding, "I am surprised at the action taken by the organization."

Mrs. Smith explained that she took Red Cross campaign materials to the meeting expecting to distribute it to the members after they volunteered to canvass the district for the allotted quota of the branch.

The meeting was called by the president, Mrs. Arabelle Loar, according to Mrs. Smith, to select volunteer workers from the 30 club members for the drive. "I can't understand what prompted the action," she said.

Motion Is Approved

Describing the membership attitude as antagonistic from the start, Mrs. Smith said she spoke briefly and outlined two recent cases that the Red Cross has handled in the area, to the 12 members who attended.

Shortly after she addressed the group, Mrs. Smith, who has been Red Cross Branch chairman since 1939, said a motion was made from the floor "that the organization refuse to aid the Red Cross." It was seconded and passed without a "no" vote being heard, Mrs. Smith declared.

William A. Wilson, who accepted the chairmanship for the Midland campaign last Saturday, said he has experienced difficulty in obtaining assistance for the canvass, and added that he understood Red Cross officials had difficulty in securing a chairman.

Wilson, like Getty and Mrs. Smith, said he could not understand the attitude of the auxiliary membership, but declared it is possible that some persons resent the late effort to organize the community drive. The county campaign officially ends today.

Mrs. Smith said that while she is a member of the fire auxiliary she attended the meeting as a Red Cross representative and did not vote on the motion. She declared the meeting was poorly attended and added that Mrs. Jane Hotchkiss, vice president, presided.

Once the deciding vote was taken, Mrs. Smith said, she left the meeting, taking with her the campaign materials she had intended to distribute.

Neither the member making the motion to decline aid nor the person seconding it was identified by Mrs. Smith, who said, "I was too angry to pay that much attention to the proceedings."

In years past, Mrs. Smith said, the auxiliary members carried the bulk of the campaign work in the community. She explained that in the past two months the Midland Red Cross branch has handled eight cases in the area, with six requiring the distribution of food.

Cites Recent Case

Last week, Mrs. Smith stated, she was informed that a widowed mother died and after checking found that the seven children were at home without food and clothing. The Red Cross, she said, immediately supplied food and later clothed the children "from head to foot."

Getty declared that while he was surprised at the action he felt sure volunteer workers would come to the aid of the Red Cross.

"The people of Midland have always been very generous in supporting the Red Cross," Getty said, adding, "the ladies of the Auxiliary have contributed greatly to the oversubscribed quota for which Midland has become noted. I feel that enough people in Midland are still interested in Red Cross to support the drive."

Poor Packaging Costs Millions, Hathaway Asserts

Traffic Club Hears Social Security Talk

Howard M. Hathaway, manager, weighing and research bureau, Middle Atlantic States Motor Carrier Conference, Inc., Washington, described to members of the Tri-State Traffic Club at their dinner meeting last night at Ali Ghan Country Club, how improper packaging and incorrectly described articles were adding millions of dollars to the claim payments being made by motor carriers.

Considerable questioning of William W. Wood, Jr., manager of the local Social Security Office followed his talk on Social Security versus Railroad Retirement.

While a railroad employe pays five and three-fourths per cent tax on his income up to $300 per month against a payment of one percent by industrial workers, neither, Wood stated, provided for any payment to a widow whose children may be 18 years of age or over until the widow reached an age of 65.

Leo H. Ley, Kelly-Springfield Tire Company traffic manager, in presenting the docket, read an Associated Press dispatch saying that seven Soviet industrial executives had been sentenced to prison for one to three years for failing to organize the unloading of freight cars efficiently, thereby causing transportation delays.

After all, Ley quoted, our own I.C.C. service orders and the requirements of the Office of Defense Transportation had not been so bad.

Earl D. Chaney, Clarence E. Gehr and John L. Carnochan were in charge of the arrangements for the meeting.

Counselors Group Will Visit Celanese Plant

The Tri-tate Counselors Association will visit portions of the Celanese plant for its April meeting, George Brewer, president, announced last night.

Brewer was elected to represent the association at the National Vocational Guidance Association to be held in Chicago March 29 through April 1.

Movies "Aptitudes and Occupations" and "Finding Your Life Work" were shown at last night's meeting. Several new members were admitted to the group last night.

Husband Summoned On Assault Count

Jerome Whitaker, 31, city, last night was summoned on a charge of assaulting his wife, Kathleen Whitaker, who told officials her husband struck her in the face on March 8 and blackened her eye, Trooper William Baker said.

Whitaker will be given a hearing in Trial Magistrates Court this morning.

Health Board To Meet

Dr. Winter R. Frantz, city and county health officer, said yesterday a meeting of the Cumberland Board of Health will be held today at 10 a. m. at City Hall to discuss appointment of a public health nurse to succeed Mrs. Howard L. Tolson.

Mrs. Tolson has been released from her recent appointment as public health nurse to join the staff of Frostburg State Teachers' College as a full-time nurse.

County Bird Club Plans To Open Two Nature Trails Here In May

Establishment of two nature trails in wooded areas at the eastern and western sides of Cumberland is being planned by the Allegany County Bird Club, according to Mrs. Gilbert Miller, chairman.

Mrs. Myra C. Taylor, Frostburg, membership chairman, gave a talk on nature trails at last night's meeting of the club, held at the Cumberland Free Public Library and attended by 75 members.

The trails, which will average about one mile in length, will be labeled to indicate the location of various types of flowers, ferns, moss and trees. Mrs. Miller said the club expects to open the trails in May.

A workshop session for representatives of junior clubs of the county group will be held next Thursday, March 18, from 7 until 9 p. m. at Mt. Royal School to start work on the trail markers.

Mrs. Taylor and Miss Nan Livingstone, chairman of junior clubs, will conduct the workshop.

Miss Margery Muncaster, who was in charge of the exhibit of bird paintings sent here last month by the National Audubon Society, reported that about 1,000 school children visited the exhibit, held at the library.

Reports on the hundreds of bird feeding stations which have been established by club members throughout the county were submitted to Kendrick Y. Hodgdon, Lonaconing, chairman. Hammond Street School in Westernport reported 185 stations, one of the largest number for any one group.

The meeting concluded with an open discussion of the construction of 20 bird houses made by members and exhibited at the session.

Mrs. Miller said the next meeting, tentatively scheduled for April 14 at the West Side School, will be open to all junior and senior club members. The program will be announced later.

DOG FINDS BABY'S BODY NEAR ANTIOCH

Tiny Armless Victim Dragged To Farm House

Mineral County Officers Trace Find To Trash Pile As Intensive Probe Gets Underway

The head and armless trunk of a newly born baby's body was dragged to a farmhouse near Camden Orchard in the vicinity of Antioch, Mineral County, W. Va., by a large shepherd dog yesterday, creating a mystery that launched Mineral County authorities and West Virginia State Police on an intensive investigation.

Vernon C. Rankin, Mineral County prosecutor, confirmed the NEWS report of the gruesome find, and said an investigation is underway. He declared a statement will be made in a few days, if any light can be thrown on the case. State Police and other officers had no comment, merely saying the case was being investigated.

It was learned from sources deemed reliable, however, that authorities received a telephone call from a resident in the sparsely settled Antioch section between 10 a. m. and 12 noon yesterday, reporting the discovery of the partial body of the infant.

Authorities launched an investigation immediately, and the re-

Much Interest Being Shown In Appointment

It was revealed yesterday that Henry Sweene, Mt. Savage, who died suddenly Monday, had resigned his position as a member of the Allegany County Liquor Control Board a few days before his death although the resignation had not been accepted or acted upon by the board.

Fred Crowe, Frostburg, secretary of the board, said last night Mr. Sweene had talked about resigning because of ill health, and a few days before he died had mailed a letter of resignation.

Walter C. Capper, this city, chairman of the board, and Crowe each said last night there has been considerable interest shown by a number of county citizens in the appointment of a successor to Mr. Sweene. Each applicant or would-be applicant has been asked to file a formal application in writing, Capper said.

Neither of the surviving members indicated who has made application and declared they have reached no decision as to the new member and will not until all applications are studied.

Crowe declared, "It is not likely anyone will be named until around April 1 since our new fiscal year starts then."

Under the provisions of the Allegany County Liquor Control law, the original board was named in the law, consisting of Capper as chairman to serve six years, Sweene, to to serve four years and Crowe to serve two years.

The law provides, "Every two years, as the term of one member expires, the two remaining members shall name a successor for the term of six years. Any person so appointed shall be a resident of Allegany County and shall be a person of high character and integrity and of recognized business capacity. In the event that at any time any member shall refuse or be unable to serve, the two remaining members shall appoint another person for the unexpired term, agreeably to the provisions of this section. No member shall be appointed for successive terms."

Crowe explained that this means the two surviving members of the board must now appoint a county resident to fill the unexpired term of Mr. Sweene.

The appointment carries a salary of $2,000 per year and no provision is made, contrary to much local comment, for the appointment of an individual of any particular political affiliation.

THEY COUNT ON YOU--The children shown in the above pictures are among the 800 now being aided by the Allegany County League for Crippled Children, which has opened its annual appeal for funds through the Easter Seal campaign. Proceeds from the drive will be used to continue the work of the League. Shown at the left is five-year-old Kenneth Green, a Barton youngster paralyzed from the waist down who is learning to walk with the aid of braces and tripod crutches. At the right two children are shown waiting at league headquarters for their speech correction class. Francis Niland, 8, Oldtown Road, is studying his speech lesson while seven-year-old Carolyn Tingler, Maryland Avenue, looks on.

U. S. Attorney Cites Penalties For Tax Evasion

Says White Can Get 25 Years If Guilty

In the event of conviction of violation of federal income tax laws, Walter W. White, 48, Cumberland, indicted this week in Baltimore by a federal grand jury for income tax evasion, could be sentenced to a maximum of 25 years in prison and a fine of $50,000, according to Bernard F. Flynn, United States District Attorney.

Flynn explained the law provides a maximum penalty on conviction in such cases of five years and $10,000 fine on each count. There are five counts in the indictment, he explained.

White is charged, under the indictment, with paying only $6,257 in federal income tax when he actually owed, according to federal investigators, $79,531. The government claims $73,174 for the years 1941 through 1945.

Flynn was asked if a local report that White had filed an amended return and paid around $60,000 in additional taxes was correct. The attorney said if an amended return had been filed he had not been informed, and the information would have to be obtained from the Bureau of Internal Revenue.

At the Bureau of Internal Revenue in Baltimore, George Hoffer-bert, collector, said the law did not permit them to divulge whether or not White had filed an amended return.

In addition to any court sentence which may be fixed in case of conviction for income tax evasion, J. Edward Hank, the special agent in charge of the Maryland office, Intelligence Unit, said the law also provides that a penalty of 50 per cent of the tax due may be assessed if the Bureau of Internal Revenue proves fraud, and that interest of six per cent per annum on unpaid taxes may be charged.

A federal warrant for White's arrest is expected by Deputy United States Marshall Howard P. Loughrie. When it is served on White, he can be arraigned before United States Commissioner James Alfred Avirett for posting bond, or can be arraigned in Baltimore, it was indicated last night.

White is well known here as a dealer in music boxes, pinbill machines and other coin-operated devices.

Annual Easter Seal Fund Campaign Begins; Lowndes Named Chairman

Support Of League Activities Urged

The annual Easter Seal campaign to raise funds for supporting the activities of the Allegany County League for Crippled Children has been launched, with 22,000 letters mailed to Cumberland and county residents, Tasker G. Lowndes, chairman, announced yesterday.

Lowndes said returns from the letters, which were mailed eight days ago, now total $3,384.79, slightly less than the $3,626.77 figure reported at the same time in last year's drive.

He explained all funds derived from the sale of Easter Seals are kept in the county to aid the League program.

Funds derived from the March of Dimes campaign may be used only for infantile paralysis work, and half of the amount raised locally is sent to the National Foundation for Infantile Paralysis, Lowndes explained in pointing out the need for Easter Seal contributions.

Each of the campaign letters contains a sheet of Easter Seals which sells for $1. Those who did not receive Easter Seals may obtain them at League headquarters, City Hall Plaza, or call the headquarters and request that the seals be mailed to them.

Over 800 Cases Now

Mrs. Hume O. Annan, executive secretary, said the League's active load at present includes over 800 children in the orthopedic, cerebral palsy, plastic surgery and speech therapy programs.

Those programs, she explained, depend on contributions received from the Easter Seal sale. Last year's total contribution of $8,000 made possible the inauguration of the speech therapy program under the direction of Miss Lois Burrack.

"Everyone who contributes has a stake in the ultimate recovery of our crippled children," she said, in urging prompt return of donations before Easter Sunday, March 28.

Mrs. Annan explained maintenance of present activities and future expansion depend on the response of county residents to the campaign.

She asked contributors to use Easter Seals on their correspondence to continue interest in the campaign, stating that over 18,000 persons to whom letters were mailed have not yet made donations.

Make Assistance Possible

Proceeds from the 1947 campaign also made possible purchase of braces for 60 children, most of them victims of cerebral palsy, and various services to hundreds of others, she said. Approximately 125 preschool children and those with cerebral palsy and cleft palate difficulties are enrolled in the speech therapy program.

Those on the campaign committee are Rep. J. Glenn Beall, Mrs. William A. Gunter, P. J. O'Brien, John Schwarzenbach, J. William Hunt, Dr. Winter R. Frantz, Miss Henrietta Schwarzenbach, Miss Anne Sloan and Mrs. W. O. McLane.

WHITE ELECTED HEAD OF EVITTS CREEK COMPANY

Clifton W. White was elected president of the Evitts Creek Water Company at a meeting yesterday afternoon in the office of Mayor Thomas S. Post.

White, who was elected a director at an earlier meeting February 28, succeeds the late George G. Young. He has been president of the Cumberland Fair Association for the past six years and served as city commissioner of water and light in 1928 and 1929.

Mayor Post was re-elected vice president and Miss Inez Shoemaker was re-elected secretary-treasurer.

Richard C. Snyder, Bedford, Pa., company attorney, presented various corporation financial reports of the company for approval.

Three Permit Appeals Granted By Zone Board

Three appeals for occupancy permits were granted, another was approved conditionally, one was continued until the next session and the sixth was disapproved at a meeting of the Board of Zoning Appeals last night at City Hall.

Only case to which opposition was expressed was the appeal of Vincent J. Gilarmo, 532 North Centre Street, who sought permission to use a one-story metal building at the rear of 623 Elm Street as a cleaning plant.

Several residents of that section attended the meeting to express their opposition, but none was called to testify because the board disapproved Gilarmo's application.

George S. Humbertson, 305 South Street, received conditional approval of his application for a permit to use a proposed two-story building to be located at the northwest corner of Williams Street and Dorn Avenue as a grovery store and apartments.

Board Chairman Joseph R. Mantheiy explained it will be necessary to check Humbertson's deed to the lot to determine whether it contains any restrictions as to business operations. If such restrictions are found, he said, the permit will become void.

The appeal continued until the next session was that of Herman Cunningham, 675 Fayette Street, who sought permission to use a proposed one-story concrete block structure to be built at 99 Wills Creek Avenue at the rear of his home as a grocery and confectionery store.

Cunningham said he planned to locate the building about five feet back from the curb line, explaining a stone wall would prevent allowing more front yard space.

Mantheiy pointed out the zoning ordinance requires that a minimum of 20 feet be allowed for sidewalk space on unimproved streets. However, he suggested that Cunningham draw up a list of the front yard depths of other buildings in the block, stating the permit will be granted if 50 per cent of those buildings are located five feet or less from the curb line.

R. J. Shepherd, a board member, told Cunningham he will make another inspection of the site on Saturday.

The three appeals granted were as follows:

A permit to Miss Elsie Pabst, 13 North Waverly Terrace, to move her curtain shop from its present location at 29 South Centre Street to 160 Bedford Street.

A permit to R. T. Powell, 609 Frederick Street, to use Lots 17-23, including Block 39, on Haddon Avenue, for construction of the unit of eight connected residences.

A permit to W. J. Moore, 648 North Mechanic Street, to use part of a lot at 239 North Mechanic Street, where he now operates a used car lot, for erection of a one-story concrete block building to house an office and garage.

Arbitrator Will End Hearings On Cent Differential

Celanese Union Plans Membership Meeting

Final testimony on a dispute regarding the distribution of a one-cent adjustment provided in last May's contract at the Celanese plant will be heard here next Tuesday and Wednesday at the Allegany County Court House.

David E. Cole, Philadelphia, is arbitrating the dispute between Local 1874, Textile Workers Union of America, CIO, and the Celanese Corporation of America.

The union and the company had agreed prior to the hearings, which began several months ago, on the distribution of about 30 per cent of the approximately $180,000 provided by the company to settle wage inequalities charged by the union.

Approximately three departments are yet to be heard by the arbitrator, it was reported.

Special business scheduled at a Celanese Local 1874 membership meeting Wednesday, March 17, at 7:30 p. m. includes:

Discussion and action on increased expense allowances for delegates to the coming TWUA convention in Atlantic City.

Discussion and action on Local 1874 affiliation with the co-operative movement in Cumberland.

She was identified as Betty Christner about 5 feet, four inches tall, 150 pounds.

Grocer Captures Man Rifling Cash Register

John F. Guntler, 19 Being Held By Police

Caught in the act of rifling a cash register, John Frederick Guntler, 19, 423 Ascension Street, was being held for "further investigation" last night, according to Assistant Chief of Police B. Frank Gaffney.

Guntler, according to police, broke into the grocery store of C. R. Wineburger, 338 Baltimore Avenue, about 10:50 p. m. and after taking approximately 100 pennies from the register was surprised by the proprietor who lives next door and heard the intruder in the store.

Wineburger told police he walked into the store as Guntler continued searching the cash register after putting the pennies into his pocket. Police said Wineburger, a six-foot "well-built man," grabbed the intruder and held him while a telephone call was made to police headquarters.

Assistant Chief Gaffney and Detective Thomas J. See went to the store and placed Guntler under arrest. He was returned to headquarters where he was "mugged and finger printed." Police said he denied committing any of the other grocery store thefts that have been occurring in the city for the past four weeks.

Guntler told police he was recently given an honorable discharge from the United States Navy and has been unable to find work. He said he resides with his parents on Ascension Street.

Police said the youth will be questioned further today in connection with the other robberies before he is arraigned in Trial Magistrates Court.

Detective See said an attempted breaking and entering was also reported last night by Ray Bell, who declared two windows at his cleaning establishment were pried open between 5 and 8 p. m. Nothing was taken, police reported.

Midland Auxiliary Fire Unit Refuses To Aid Red Cross

Action Surprises Campaign Officials

The annual Red Cross campaign for funds last night met opposition at a special meeting of the Ladies Auxiliary of the Midland Fire Department when the organization refused to assist in the 1948 drive, Mrs. Gertrude Smith, Midland Red Cross chairman, said.

Mrs. Smith said she was confronted with the question: "What did the Red Cross ever do for us?" shortly before the membership voted to decline a Red Cross request for assistance in the present drive.

The Midland fire auxiliary has for the past several years conducted the house-to-house canvass in the area, Gorman E. Getty, Allegany County Red Cross campaign chairman, said, adding, "I am surprised at the action taken by the organization."

Mrs. Smith explained that she took Red Cross campaign materials to the meeting expecting to distribute it to the members after they volunteered to canvass the district for the allotted quota of the branch.

The meeting was called by the president, Mrs. Arabelle Loar, according to Mrs. Smith, to select volunteer workers from the 30 club members for the drive. "I can't understand what prompted the action," she said.

Motion Is Approved

Describing the membership attitude as antagonistic from the start, Mrs. Smith said she spoke briefly and outlined two recent cases that the Red Cross has handled in the area, to the 12 members who attended.

Shortly after she addressed the group, Mrs. Smith, who has been Red Cross Branch chairman since 1939, said a motion was made from the floor "that the organization refuse to aid the Red Cross." It was seconded and passed without a "no" vote being heard, Mrs. Smith declared.

William A. Wilson, who accepted the chairmanship for the Midland campaign last Saturday, said he has experienced difficulty in obtaining assistance for the canvass, and added that he understood Red Cross officials had difficulty in securing a chairman.

Wilson, like Getty and Mrs. Smith, said he could not understand the attitude of the auxiliary membership, but declared it is possible that some persons resent the late effort to organize the community drive. The county campaign officially ends today.

Mrs. Smith said that while she is a member of the fire auxiliary she attended the meeting as a Red Cross representative and did not vote on the motion. She declared the meeting was poorly attended and added that Mrs. Jane Hotchkiss, vice president, presided.

Once the deciding vote was taken, Mrs. Smith said, she left the meeting, taking with her the campaign materials she had intended to distribute.

Neither the member making the motion to decline aid nor the person seconding it was identified by Mrs. Smith, who said, "I was too angry to pay that much attention to the proceedings."

In years past, Mrs. Smith said, the auxiliary members carried the bulk of the campaign work in the community. She explained that in the past two months the Midland Red Cross branch has handled eight cases in the area, with six requiring the distribution of food.

Cites Recent Case

Last week, Mrs. Smith stated, she was informed that a widowed mother died and after checking found that the seven children were at home without food and clothing. The Red Cross, she said, immediately supplied food and later clothed the children "from head to foot."

Getty declared that while he was surprised at the action he felt sure volunteer workers would come to the aid of the Red Cross.

"The people of Midland have always been very generous in supporting the Red Cross," Getty said, adding, "the ladies of the Auxiliary have contributed greatly to the oversubscribed quota for which Midland has become noted. I feel that enough people in Midland are still interested in Red Cross to support the drive."

Poor Packaging Costs Millions, Hathaway Asserts

Traffic Club Hears Social Security Talk

Howard M. Hathaway, manager, weighing and research bureau, Middle Atlantic States Motor Carrier Conference, Inc., Washington, described to members of the Tri-State Traffic Club at their dinner meeting last night at Ali Ghan Country Club, how improper packaging and incorrectly described articles were adding millions of dollars to the claim payments being made by motor carriers.

Considerable questioning of William W. Wood, Jr., manager of the local Social Security Office followed his talk on Social Security versus Railroad Retirement.

While a railroad employe pays five and three-fourths per cent tax on his income up to $300 per month against a payment of one percent by industrial workers, neither, Wood stated, provided for any payment to a widow whose children may be 18 years of age or over until the widow reached an age of 65.

Leo H. Ley, Kelly-Springfield Tire Company traffic manager, in presenting the docket, read an Associated Press dispatch saying that seven Soviet industrial executives had been sentenced to prison for one to three years for failing to organize the unloading of freight cars efficiently, thereby causing transportation delays.

After all, Ley quoted, our own I.C.C. service orders and the requirements of the Office of Defense Transportation had not been so bad.

Earl D. Chaney, Clarence E. Gehr and John L. Carnochan were in charge of the arrangements for the meeting.

Taylorcraft Plane Crashes In Creek Near Headsville

The pilot of a light Taylorcraft airplane escaped injury when his plane crashed upside down in Pattersons Creek, near Headsville, yesterday morning about 11 o'clock.

The pilot, whose name could not be learned, was en route from Charlottesville, Va., to Comstock Park, Mich., with his next stop Cumberland. Officials at Baker's Airport, Burlington, W. Va., where the pilot was taken, stated he attempted to land when he discovered he had minor motor trouble, but that due to poor visibility he overshot a field near the Headsville Methodist Church, hit a fence, which threw the ship out of control, and landed in Pattersons Creek.

The plane, owned by Richard DeVos, of the Wolverine Air Service, Comstock Park, Mich., was removed to the Burlington airport and the owner notified. Officials at the airport said an estimate of the damage will be made and reported to DeVos, who indicated he would send for the ship or have it repaired there.

At Baker Airport last night, Harold Armstrong, an employe, said the ship is "practically a total wreck, and the pilot was lucky to walk away."

Armstrong said he failed to record the pilot's name, but the young man was uninjured and had proceeded by bus to Charlottesville.

Trooper First Class William Baker quoted Harold "Ike" Limbit, the steward, as saying the money was in a cloth bag under the counter when he left the room, but that when he returned a few moments later it was missing.

Red Cross Fund Campaign Nearing $20,000 Mark; Avirett To Speak

Stating that the $20,000 mark "is in sight" in the 1948 annual Red Cross fund campaign, which has a total goal of $27,580, Gorman E. Getty, general chairman, yesterday urged all workers to make reports this morning.

The dinner officially closing the campaign will be held tonight at 6:30 at St. Mark's Evangelical and Reformed Church, corner of Park and Harrison Streets.

James Alfred Avirett, local attorney, will be the guest speaker.

The invocation will be given by Rev. Carl H. Clapp, pastor.

Getty said about 40 reservations have been made to date. He asked all campaign workers planning to attend to make their reservations at the Red Cross office by noon today.

Because final reports will be submitted at tonight's dinner, Getty said it is imperative that workers turn in the contributions they have collected to campaign headquarters so that last-minute tabulations can be made by the staff of auditors.

He said the auditors will not be on hand at the dinner, and funds should be turned in prior to that time.

County Bird Club Plans To Open Two Nature Trails Here In May

Establishment of two nature trails in wooded areas at the eastern and western sides of Cumberland is being planned by the Allegany County Bird Club, according to Mrs. Gilbert Miller, chairman.

Mrs. Myra C. Taylor, Frostburg, membership chairman, gave a talk on nature trails at last night's meeting of the club, held at the Cumberland Free Public Library and attended by 75 members.

The trails, which will average about one mile in length, will be labeled to indicate the location of various types of flowers, ferns, moss and trees. Mrs. Miller said the club expects to open the trails in May.

A workshop session for representatives of junior clubs of the county group will be held next Thursday, March 18, from 7 until 9 p. m. at Mt. Royal School to start work on the trail markers.

Mrs. Taylor and Miss Nan Livingstone, chairman of junior clubs, will conduct the workshop.

Miss Margery Muncaster, who was in charge of the exhibit of bird paintings sent here last month by the National Audubon Society, reported that about 1,000 school children visited the exhibit, held at the library.

Reports on the hundreds of bird feeding stations which have been established by club members throughout the county were submitted to Kendrick Y. Hodgdon, Lonaconing, chairman. Hammond Street School in Westernport reported 185 stations, one of the largest number for any one group.

The meeting concluded with an open discussion of the construction of 20 bird houses made by members and exhibited at the session.

Mrs. Miller said the next meeting, tentatively scheduled for April 14 at the West Side School, will be open to all junior and senior club members. The program will be announced later.
